ROSENBAUM - PORTEUS

A very pretty wedding was solemnised at the Presbyterian Church, Port Macquarie, on Tuesday night last, when Mr Harry Rosenbaum, second son of Mr Thomas Rosenbaum, was united in the holy bonds to Miss Catherine A Porteus, second daughter of Mr T Porteus, of the Royal Hotel, the Rev G M Torbett performing the ceremony. The bride, who was given away by her father, was becomingly dressed in cream embroidered cashmere, trimmed with beautiful appliqué and rucked ribbon, and wore the customary wreath and veil, and carried a pretty bouquet of white camellias, snowdrops and roses, and maidenhair ferns, and wearing a gold brooch, the gift of the bridegroom. Miss F Rosenbaum, sister of the bridegroom, acted a bridesmaid, and wore a dress of white sild, trimmed with lace and ribbon, and carried a bouquet of white daises and maidenhair ferns, wearing also a gold brooch, the gift of the bridegroom. Mr H Porteus, brother of the bride, filled the position of best man. After the ceremony, the happy couple adjourned to the Royal Hotel, where refreshments were partaken of by a number of friends, after which they left for their new home at Hamiliton, amid showers of rice and good wishes of all. We join in wishing Mr & Mrs Rosenbaum much happiness in their future life. The bride was the recipient of many handsome presents.

THE BUILDER

The house (pictured) was built by Tom Rosenbaum - probably about 1928.

Located in Owen Street on the site of the present Manchester Unity building, it attracted the eye of our visitor of the thirties, who went in to raptures about the dwelling and its builder - after he got through the usual preamble.

"To one who has adopted the trade of builder and become devoted to his calling, few tales of fiction can compare in interest to the story of his home town.

"When the scene of operations happens to be one whose slow but sure development into a super health and tourist resort, of what was once a penal settlement, its history makes a fascinating romance.

"Port Macquarie is now a land flowing with milk and honey in lavish and actual fact.

"Its present and future are assured.

"Mr T Rosenbaum, whose active share in its construction bears ample testimony, has lived to proudly visualise his ideals of its destined and inevitable end, expressed in the manner of his work."

Port Macquarie News
24th October 1908

On Sunday last Mr William Rosenbaum, senr. an old and highly esteemed resident of Port Macquarie, died at his home at the advanced age of 87 years, 52 of which were spent here. Mr Rosenbaum was born at Hanover, Germany, on May 26, 1821, and came to Australia in 1856 in the vessel 'Willhelmburgh', which was the first emigrant ship to leave the "Fatherland" for this contingent. Shortly after his arrival in Sydney he set out for the Hastings, which was then not much known, and took up his residence import Macquarie, which has ever since been his home. He devoted his time principally to grape cultivation and the wine industry, and he took a willing and intelligent part in the pioneering work of the early days. In the course of his long residence here he only left the district on two occasions; one, when attracted by tales of the golden wealth at Wide Bay, Queensland, he went there and spent two years on the field. His second expedition was also in search of gold. This time he tried his luck on the alluvial deposits at Nuggety Gully, near Nowendoc,, at the head of the Manning, where he had a companion in another well known identity, Mr Youdale. Since then he spent his time quietly, and ended his days peacefully, in the old town he loved so well. Mrs Rosenbaum predeceased her husband by five years - Mr Rosenbaum dying on the fifth anniversary of his wife's death.

Three children were the fruits of the marriage, viz. Mrs F Wooderson, of Kempsey; Mr T Rosenbaum of Cooperabung; and Mr W Rosenbaum, who resides here, and is Mayor of the town, and, like his sister and brother, is highly esteemed.

The remains of the deceased were laid to rest in the local cemetery on Monday, when Canon Morrish conducted the beautiful service of the Church of England, in the presence of a large number of sympathisers, who had assembled to pay their least tribute of respect to one they held in high regard. Mr H T Wilkins was the undertaker.

During the day the flags throughout the town were flown at half mast.

Mrs W Rosenbaum, Senr.

The Grim Reaper once again has appeared in our midst, claiming as its victim one of the oldest residents of the district in the person of Mrs Wm. Rosenbaum senr, at the ripe old age of 83 years. Death was due to senile decay, after an illness of two months.

Deceased was a native of Hanover, Germany, and she and her husband, who survives her, came to this State in 1853, in the ship 'Williamsburg'. On arrival in Sydney, they came immediately to Port, and entered the service of Canon O'Reilly. Afterwards they went to live at Lake Innes, and finally settled in their present home.

She was of a very kindly nature, and was much beloved by all who knew her. She leaves a husband and two sons, Thomas and Willham and a daughter, Mrs Wooderson of East Kempsey, to mourn their loss, and we extend our heartfelt sympathy to them in their sad bereavement.

A large number of persons followed the deceased's coffin to the grave, at which Rev C M Thomas read the burial service.

Death of Mr Roy Rosenbaum

A highly respected, lifelong resident of Port Macquarie, Mr Roy Rosenbaum, died in the Hastings District Hospital at Port Macquarie, on Wednesday last, Jan 21, at the age of 73 years. For a number of years past he had lived quietly in retirement- with Mrs Rosenbaum - in their home in William Street; prior to that he was in business here for many years.

He owned and conducted a garage business in the middle of the eastern side of Horton Street (in Cuttriss' Drapery area) when Port Macquarie was a much smaller town than today; he later moved to new premises on the corner of William and Horton Streets.

The late Roy Rosenbaum was one of the town's keenest and most proficient tennis players, and he and Mrs Rosenbaum were a formidable combination indeed.

Mrs Rosenbaum today is particularly well known to members of the Port Macquarie Bowling Club's women bowlers.

Two brothers of the late Mr Rosenbaum were well known here for many years in the building trade and many town homes were built by them - Messrs. "Bill" Rosenbaum, of Swift Street, and Tom Rosenbaum of Burrawan Street, and now at Wauchope with his daughter. Mr Roy Rosenbaum is survived by Mrs "Ferne" Rosenbaum, and their two sons, both living away from Port Macquarie.

Following a service at the Methodist Church in Port Macquarie on Friday last, cremation took place at Beresfield.

Mr T P ROSENBAUM

Another link with the early days of the Hastings River was severed on Tuesday morning, when death came peacefully to Mr Thomas Peter Rosenbaum, at his home, Lord Street, Port Macquarie, at the age of 83 years.

Deceased was a son of the late Mr & Mrs W Rosenbaum, and was born at Ellenborough, on the Hastings River, and had passed the whole of his 83 years in the district. He was one of a family of three, his brother, the late Mr William Rosenbaum, predeceasing him at Port Macquarie a number of years ago, whilst a sister, Mrs Wooderson, of Kempsey, survives. The late Mr Rosenbaum devoted the whole of his life in interests apropos to the land, dealing with dairying, cattle-raising and timber, working holdings at Ellenborough, Camden Haven and Smith's Creek. For some 30 years he leased what was then known as Cooperabung Station, a large holding in the Cooperabung district.

In the year 1881, deceased was married at Beechwood to Miss Sarah Woodlands (daughter of the late Mr & Mrs H Woodlands), who predeceased him some 17 years ago. They raised a family of six children, all of whom survive, viz. Albert of Smith's Creek, Messrs Harry, William and Thomas of Port Macquarie, Mrs W Warde and Mrs Grace of Port Macquarie. Also surviving are 14 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Of a quiet and retiring nature, the late Mr Rosenbaum, although always keenly interested, never associated himself in public life, but devoted his time to his work and his family. He made his home at Port Macquarie some 50 years ago, but spent a good deal of time away from the town attending to his interests in different parts of the district. About 12 years ago he retired from active work, and took to gardening, a hobby he dearly loved, deriving much pleasure from giving away the fruits of his labours. He was a noted gardener, and grew some wonderful vegetables on the property, now owned by Mr W Doak.

For the past twelve months he had been practically bedridden, but in this he was greatly comforted by his daughter, Dorothy, who lived with him for some years, and whose patient nursing knew no bounds. She was greatly assisted in this by her husband, Mr Grace.

The late Mr Rosenbaum took a bad turn on Sunday last, but appeared to rally, and was in his usual good spirits shortly prior to his demise. The funeral cortege, which moved from its late residence on Wednesday morning, was largely attended by relatives and friends. The remains were laid to rest in the C of E portion of the Port Macquarie Cemetery. Canon L E J Gray performing the last sad rites. Four grandsons, Messrs H & V Rosenbaum, and A & R Warde, acted as pall-bearers, whilst Mr S J Nowlan had charge of the funeral arrangements.

On Tuesday last death removed another well-known and respected resident of Port Macquarie, in the person of Mrs Thomas Rosenbaum. Senr. at the age of 64, the deceased lady, who suffered more or less from diabetes for the last couple of years, was attending to her fowls about five weeks ago, when she had the misfortune to have her left hand pierced by a rooster spur. The wound was attended to, and apparently was nearly healed when serious symptoms became manifest. The trouble developed very rapidly, and on Friday, 7th inst. The patient was removed to the Hastings District Hospital. There she received every care and attention from the doctor and nursing staff, but all their efforts were unavailing, and Mrs Rosenbaum lapsed into unconsciousness at 10 am on Monday and passed peacefully to rest on Tuesday morning. The cause of death was diabetes, but was doubtless accelerated by the wound referred to. The late Mrs Rosenbaum was the eldest child of the late Mr & Mrs H Woodlands, of Bellangry. The last named, after the death of her husband many years ago, married a Mr Hall. Mrs Rosenbaum's father was the first ferryman at Ennis, and she was educated at the Public School at that centre. Soon after her marriage she and her husband permanently made their home in Port Macquarie. There are six children of the union 0- four sons, and two daughters, viz, Messrs Albert Rosenbaum of Smith's Creek, Harry, William and Thomas of Port Macquarie, Mrs W Ward and Miss Olive T (Dot) Rosenbaum of Port Macquarie. Three brothers and three sisters of deceased also survive her, viz. Samuel of Lansdowne, Silas of Greenhill, William Macksville, and Mesdames K Champness of St Marys, A Richardson and M Paul of Sydney. The late Mrs Rosenbaum found her principal interest in the care of her home and family, but though of a retiring disposition, she was a kindly and generous nature, evidenced by the many thoughtful acts for the comfort and welfare of others, which will live long in the memories of those who experienced them. We join in the expressions of sympathy for the bereaved husband and family in their great loss. The funeral took place on Wednesday morning, a large number attending to pay the last token of respect. The remains were interred in the Church of England section of the West Port Macquarie Cemetery, the Rev H B Madden officiating. The Rev. gentleman feelingly referred to the deceased lady's exemplary Christian life and loving devotion to her husband and family. Many beautiful wreaths were forwarded by sympathising relatives and friends.

OBITUARYMR H ROSENBAUM

As briefly mentioned in our previous issue, Mr Harry Rosenbaum passed away in the Hastings District Hospital on the evening of Monday, 13th November, aged 61 years.

Born at Port Macquarie, the deceased was the second son of the late Mr & Mrs Thomas Rosenbaum. Educated at the local public school, the late Mr Rosenbaum entered the service of Messrs Hibbard & Eaton, Sawmillers, Hibbard (then called Hamilton), at the age of 28 years as a clerk. Except for a break of a few years the deceased had been engaged at the sawmill all his life, and was managing clerk for the Hastings River Sawmilling Co at the time of his death. During these forty three years the sawmill had been controlled successively by Messrs Hibbard & Eaton, Mr John Hibbard, the British Australian Timber Co, and the H R Sawmilling Co. the present owners. The deceased capably filled the post occupied and gave undivided attention to his work and the interests of his employers, who regret the passing of a valued employee. The deceased had suffered with asthma and bronchitis, and was an inmate of the H D Hospital for ten weeks prior to his death. In his earlier days the late Mr Rosenbaum had been both a good cricketer and footballer. Of a reserved nature, he did not take any active part in public life. He was keenly interested in poultry and devoted leisure hours to the breeding of fowls.

The deceased was married at Port Macquarie to Miss Kate Porteus, whose parents kept the Royal Hotel. He lost his wife, who was drowned with her father and young lad named Brodie, in a boating accident on the harbour about 36 years ago. Her body was never recovered. For a time after this fatality the subject of our notice assisted Mrs Porteus with the management of the Royal Hotel, one of the breaks from his employment at the sawmill.

Surviving brothers and sisters are Messrs A Rosenbaum of Smith's Creek, W A Rosenbaum & T R Rosenbaum of Port Macquarie and Mesdames W Warde and W Grace of Port Macquarie.

The funeral took place on Wednesday morning of last week, following a service in St Thomas' Church of England conducted by the Rev Canon T M Gerry, who concluded the burial service at the graveside. Mr F V Hayward conducted the funeral arrangements.

PORT MACQUARIE NEWS
DECEMBER 5, 1908*Late Boating Fatality

As assiduous search has been maintained by the police, the pilot staff, and many willing residents to recover the body of Mrs Harry Rosenbaum who perished in the lamentable boating accident. When the disaster occurred Senior Constable Lawler was away on the Wilson River and Constable Morris was doing duty in an outlying district. They received news of the accident late in the evening, and immediately returned to town to give assistance. On Saturday morning the police were searching round the first bend of the river, some distance above where the boat overturned, when Constable Morris had the satisfaction of finding the body of little Charlie Brodie lying in a depression in the sand covered by a few feet of water. The boy had quite a natural appearance, and was not in the least mutilated. The little corpse was conveyed to town, much to the relief of the over wrought parents, who have the consolation of knowing that the little fellow is now sleeping in God's Acre, where those who loved him best may see the tiny mound that marks the last resting place of that dear child. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon, when the deceased was buried by the side of Mr Porteus, another victim of the accident. The little coffin was wrapped in wreaths of flowers made by the hands of affectionate friends. There was a large attendance at the graveside, including a number from Rawdon Island. Messrs E G Fenn, W C Atkinson, Morris Walsh, and Captain Baird carried the coffin from the hearse to the grave, where Canon Morrish conducted the impressive service of the Church of England. Notwithstanding a persistent search no trace has been found of the body of Mrs Rosenbaum, but a keen watch is still being kept in the hope that it might yet be discovered. On Thursday evening a bag which contained the fishing lines of the party on the day of the accident was washed ashore on the beach opposite the Royal Hotel.

The searchers deserve the greatest praise for the determined search they made, which action was much appreciated by the bereaved relatives.

The coronial inquiry will be held this Saturday morning. It was a kindly act on the part of Senior constable Lawler and the coroner to arrange for holding the inquest at the hotel, as some of the lady witnesses are still suffering from shock, and will possibly be much more composed at home than they would be at the Court House. It is only a formal matter anyway, and should not attract any attention more than that which arises from idle curiosity.

DEATH OF MRS ROSENBAUM

A WELL KNOWN RESIDENT OF Port Macquarie of long standing, Mrs Elsie May Rosenbaum, died in the Hastings District Hospital on Friday last, at the grand age of 80 years.

Deceased was the wife of Mr William Rosenbaum, a former Alderman and well known citizen of Swift Street, Port Macquarie.

The late Mrs Rosenbaum was a native of the Hastings River District - daughter of the late William Coombes family - and had lived in this area all her life.

At Forbes River, in 1915, she married Mr William Rosenbaum, and at that time they moved into their home in Swift Street, and there they resided happily ever after. Only a few months ago, November last year, they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Active for her Church in her younger days, Mrs Rosenbaum will be kindly remembered as one of the Church of England Women's Guild; she also interested herself in CWA activities.

Happy Nature

Of kindly disposition and friendly to her neighbours, the late Mrs Rosenbaum will be missed from the Swift Street area, after gracing it with her presence for 50 years.

The late Mrs Rosenbaum is survived by her husband, Mr William Rosenbaum, and their daughter Violet, Mrs Bubb, of Pennshurst, and son Victor of Port Macquarie.

There are six grandchildren. Her funeral on Saturday, April 2, moved from the Church of St Thomas at 4 pm, and the internment was made in the Church of England portion of Port Macquarie Cemetery.

The Late "Bill" Rosenbaum

WORTHY "LOCAL"
PASSED OUT QUIETLY

A man who served this community faithfully and well over a long period of years was laid to rest quietly on Sunday, July 19, following his death the previous day.

He was Mr William Augustus Rosenbaum, of 85 Swift Street, Port Macquarie, who died in the Hastings District Hospital on July 18, in his 85th year.

He was a true blue Port Macquarie identity, born here on y 16, 1886, christened in the historic Church of St Thomas, an Alderman of the Municipal Council for 17 years, a builder who left his mark behind, and a friend to the community in many ways. His parents were also born here his father Thomas Peter Rosenbaum and his mother was Sarah Woodlands, a name known and respected throughout the district.

The late "Bill" Rosenbaum went to school here and commenced in the building trade with an uncle also William Rosenbaum. At the age of 20 he went to Sydney for five years and gained building experience with the firm Mitchell Bros.

He came back to Port Macquarie to build many homes in the main street, buildings of his remaining are on the Mobil Garage on the corner of Horton & William Streets (built for his cousin the late Roy Rosenbaum), and the brick building for Miss Lachlan (Les Worthy's barber shop and the delicatessen), Dr Begg's residence (now Dr Simpson) in Wauchope, and Marchmont's main Street Store were built by him, also the Telegraph Pint hotel (destroyed by fire) Beechwood Hotel and the Ballengarra School.

The restoration of one of Port Macquarie's most historic buildings - the rectory of the Church of St Thomas - was faithfully done by the late "Bill" Rosenbaum.

During that period in Sydney, in 1907, he attended a historic meeting when Rugby League made the breakaway from Union, held in the Glebe Town Hall in the days of the famed "Dally" Messenger.

"Bill" Rosenbaum was a footballer; he played with the "Federals" here and none who had since seen his son Victor play could doubt his ability. True love for sport is revealed in what one gives to it, and the late "Bill" Rosenbaum sat on a dusty roadside as a gateman for the surf club for a period of 25 years!

He also had a long period of membership with Lodge Hastings - the Masonic Order. His was not a loud voice in the Council, but he was there - in service to the community - from 1933 to 1950, and in February, 1968, he was the recipient of a plaque of appreciation from the Local Government Association for his services to this Council.

In the booming Port Macquarie which he was one to "nurse along" for so many years, he lived quietly in retirement with Mrs Rosenbaum in their Swift Street home.

They were married at Forbes River (she was Else May Coombes) and they celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary in November 1965. Six months later in April, 1966, Mrs Rosenbaum predeceased her husband.

Their son and daughter survive Mr Victor Rosenbaum is a well known local resident and Violet (Mrs Bubb) lives at Penshurst.

A brother Mr T R Rosenbaum died last month and a cousin Mr Roy Rosenbaum (both well known local residents) died last year.

One sister Mrs Grace of Port Macquarie is the only surviving member of the late "Bill" Rosenbaum's family. Albert, Harry, Florence (Mrs Warde) and Thomas predeceased him.

His funeral on Sunday, July 19, moved from the Church of St Thomas, following a service at 3 pm, and the internment was made in the Church of England portion of Port Macquarie Cemetery.

Pictured at top, the late "Bill" Rosenbaum (in sweater) as an Alderman on the job when Port Macquarie Council was growing up and first took over the electricity supply from a private contractor; the second picture shows Mr Rosenbaum on the day of his 50th Wedding Anniversary.

DEATH OF MR T R ('TOM') ROSENBAUM

At the grand age of 80 years, Mr Thomas Reuben Rosenbaum, of Burrawan Street, Port Macquarie, died in Wauchope last week, July 7th.

Because of failing health he had been living in Wauchope with his daughter, Mrs Jean Marchment.

He was born in Port Macquarie and was a member of a very well known local family; indeed at one time he was one of the best known men about town in the locality.

A builder by trade, he was extremely thorough and capable and many of the fine old homes that still stand in Port Macquarie were built by him.

Late in life, and living opposite the links were the High School now stands, the late Tom Rosenbaum took an active interest in the game of golf as a player and in the affairs of the club. A water supply, from an elevated tank on his property, transformed the greens, and he was to the fore in much of the voluntary work associated therewith.

In many ways he was a generous supporter of the community in which he lived. Always good for a laugh, it was difficult to know when to take him seriously, and the town generally was the poorer as he gradually faded from the local scene.

His wife predeceased him and he is survived by the three members of his family: Jean, Mrs Marchment, of Wauchope, Doris, Mrs Joe Debenham of Port Macquarie, and Mr Harold Rosenbaum, also of Port Macquarie.

A brother, Mr William Rosenbaum, and a sister Mrs Grace, both of Port Macquarie, also survive.

Following a service at the Church of St Thomas, the internment was made in the Church of England portion of Port Macquarie Cemetery on Wednesday last, July 8, at 2.30 pm.

OBITUARY

With tragic suddenness, the death occurred on Friday morning last, at 4.30 am, of Mrs Ethel Hephzibah Rosenbaum, wife of Mr T R Rosenbaum, at her home in Burrawan St.

The late Mrs Rosenbaum was 56 years of age, and was born at Paddington, being a daughter of the late Mr & Mrs Charles W Graham. With her late parents who retired and came here to live, Mrs Rosenbaum came to Port Macquarie about 35 years ago. She learnt her trade as a tailoress with Hagan Bros, in Sydney, and here she was employed, by the late Mr W ("Bill") Atkinson. In 1916, at the Church of St Thomas, she was married to Mr T R Rosenbaum; and they have been a well known family of years standing. They had three children, viz, Jean, Mrs S Marchmont of Wauchope, Harold Gordon, and Doris Eileen, both at home, who are left to mourn the loss of a devoted mother.

For the past eight years, the late Mrs Rosenbaum had suffered with heart trouble, and she was a wonderful woman, who displayed great fortitude and patience with her ailment. Time and time again she rallied from severe attacks and threw aside her burden as if nothing troubled her. She was under constant medical aid, and had also sought specialist treatment in the city. Prior to her indisposition, the late Mrs Rosenbaum took an active interest in affairs of the town, and was for a few years a keen and energetic president of the surf ladies' auxiliary. She also took an active interest in her Church, and was recognised as a fine mezzo soprano. She loved to sing in the Church Choir, and also at public functions.

Though it came with tragic suddenness, the late Mrs Rosenbaum passed peacefully to rest. The funeral was conducted next morning, Saturday, at 11 am, when following a service in the Church of St Thomas, the cortege moved for the Port Macquarie Cemetery, where the interment was made in the Church of England portion. Rev Canon Gerry conducted the service, and officiated at the graveside. Mr F V Hayward had charge of the funeral arrangements.

RSL loses one of its pioneers

Longest-serving directory
 OBITUARY

Port Macquarie RSL Club's longest-serving director died recently.

He was Mr Harold Rosenbaum, one of the club's pioneers who gave stalwart service for more than half his lifetime.

He became a member of the club board in March, 1952, just three years after the club opened in 1948, and continued to hold office for 38 consecutive years.

He held the position of honorary treasure for 20 years.

Mr Rosenbaum retired from the board in November 1989 because of health problems.

During this tenure Mr Rosenbaum played an important role in directing the growth of the club from a small Nissen Hut to its present size and diversity.

He was a member of the board when decisions were made to relocate the club at Settlement Shores in a $21 million development.

Mr Rosenbaum was made a life member of the club in 1967 and in 1991 the Registered Clubs Association presented him with a plaque in testimony to his "long and outstanding service to the club movement of NSW".

Mr Rosenbaum died on Saturday, August 22, succumbing to cancer.

He was 72 years old and is survived by his wife Elaine, children Graham, Judith and Phillip and six grand children.

A funeral service was held on Tuesday, August 25, at St Thomas's Anglican Church which was attended by many of his RSL friends and associates.

The service was led by Rector Ken Munns and the eulogy delivered by Mr Stan Condon. The RSL sub-branch gave a final salute for Mr Rosenbaum at the crematorium with a special service reserved for ex-service men.

THREE LIVES LOST

A sad boating accident occurred in the Harbour on Wednesday afternoon. Mr Thomas Porteus, licensee of the Royal Hotel, took a small party of friends out for a sail and the excursion had an unhappy ending. The party consisted of Mr Porteus, who was in charge of the boat; Mr J Barsby, storekeeper, of Kempsey and Port Macquarie; Mrs Harry Rosenbaum, (Daughter of Mr Porteus); Miss Hickey of the Royal Hotel; Miss Alice Anderson niece of Mr Porteus; and Master Charlie Brodie, son of Mr J Brodie, of the Rawdon Island Public School, who was spending a holiday with Mr and Mrs Porteus.

On Wednesday afternoon when the boat was launched there was a gentle south-wind blowing, and indications all pointed to a pleasant outing. The boat was a sturdy one of 18 feet, originally owned by Mr H M Rixon, and she was by no means overloaded with six occupants. The sail was set immediately on leaving the boat shed at the wharf, and a course set for the North Shore. There was an unusually strong ebb tide at the time. All went well till nearly across the channel, when the wind suddenly veered round to another quarter. The party crossed over with the idea of "jibbing," when a sudden puff of wind came along and carried the sail back again, and that, with the weight of the six occupants on the one side, caused the boat to lie over and fill. The excursionists were all thrown into the water. Mr Porteus could not swim, but made an effort to get hold of the boat, and in doing so sang out to his daughter, Mrs Rosenbaum, "Stick to me, Kate," but this unfortunate young lady appears to have been entangled in the sailing gear, and was not seen after the accident. Miss Anderson daughter of Mr J Anderson, of the Agent Department in the railway service, who is spending a holiday with her aunt, Mrs Porteus, escaped best. She clung to the boat for a while, and when she was carried away from it was borne by the rushing current on to a sand spit; washed off again, and then back, till a boat came and rescued her.

The pilot boat, in charge of Messrs Mr Olsen and A E Lindeman, members of the pilot service was first on the spot, and the first body recovered was that of Miss Hickey, of the Royal Hotel, who was floating face upwards, in an unconscious state; and immediately afterwards they picked up Mr Porteus, who was floating face downwards, and to all appearances dead. When brought to the shore Miss Hickey showed signs of animation and was taken to her room, and restoratives applied, and after a long and hard fight she recovered, although still very weak and suffering from shock. Mr Porteus was to all appearances dead when brought ashore but vigorous efforts were made to resuscitate the body. Dr Doudney was out of town but Matron Felmingham was present, and did what she possibly could to restore animation. In this show was assisted by Captain Baird, and members of the pilot service together with many willing friends, who all did their best and worked hard in the hope that the vital spark in the poor Trooper would burn again. After about three hours of energetic and perseverance work by relay of townspeople, Dr Doudney arrived from up the river, and after an examination of the body pronounced life to be extinct. With feelings of deep regret the workers then ceased their operations, and the body was carried from the grassy slope that Mr Porteus was so fond of, upstairs, there to await the final act in the drama of life.

The second on the spot after the accident was Mr Joe Frank, who launched a punt that was lying in a boat shed, and quickly pulled to the scene of the disaster. The first one he assisted was Mr Barsby, who, though swimming and some distance from the upset boat, was in the last stages of exhaustion. Mr Franks got hold of him and supported him till another boat, manned by Messrs John Walsh, J Peterson, and J Guthrie came to his assistance, and Mr Barsby was taken into the boat; Miss Anderson was the next one picked up, and beyond a wetting she suffered nothing.

No one appears to have seen Mrs Rosenbaum or Charlie Brodie after the accident and it is thought that they were drowned immediately. A vigorous search for the bodies was made by all available boats which were manned by civilians only. These worked hard till night closed in without toward. The little boy's hat, one of the oars, and the skirting of the boat, were found on the northern shore, and must have crossed the bar to get there. There was a very strong ebb tide at the time of the accident and the finding of these articles on the northern beach strengthens the impression that the bodies have been carried out to sea. The search is being actively continued both inside the harbour and along the beaches north and south, and it is confidently hoped that the bodies will be recovered.

This terrible calamity has had a paralysing affect on the town, and people seem scarcely able to realise what has actually happened.

The big sale of land at Cooperabung took place on Thursday, and arrangements were complete for the conveyance of a number of residents out to the auction but this sad event -----of all town arrangements. Of the victims Mr Thomas Porteus was the most widely known? Beginning his career at nine years of age in the Newcastle pits he worked there to qualify himself for a situation in the railway service; this position he gained, and served 23 years on the line, the greater part of which was spent on the north-west section of the road. His head quarters were at Werris Creek, where many warm friends will read with dismay the tidings of his untimely death. Mr Porteus left the railway service about five years ago, and took charge of the Royal Hotel here, and the success that has followed, and the reputation the house has gained under his managements, is a tribute both to his capabilities and his worth. Mr Porteus was a keen observer, and a capable judge of human character, and his estimate and verdict were always very close to the mark. He made few intimate friends, but those who enjoyed his confidence had it to the limit. He was a warm hearted man, full of tender sympathies, and the cry of want or helplessness never reached him in vain, and possibly no one in Port Macquarie has ever been to ready to extend a helping hand to anyone that was temporarily in a fix. The warm side of his character attracted many friends, and he was exceedingly popular with the travelling public, for he never considered it any trouble to do a turn for a stranger. He was a man of the world himself, and knew how to treat men, and consequently was much appreciated. In many things pertaining to the advancement of the district he took an intelligent but unostentatious part, and was always on the spot when practical assistance was required. Mr Porteus was a member of the Masonic craft, and was accorded an official funeral on Thursday last, when the brethren of the lodge assembled in full force to take part in the beautiful Masonic burial ceremony and to pay the last earthly tribute to their dead comrade. Mr Porteus was very fond of boating - especially of sailing; but being a "western" man he did not thoroughly understand the management of boats; and although he could not swim a stroke he was absolutely fearless, and often before trod on the edge of danger to an alarming extent. However, the last scene in his history has been enacted, and with respect to his memory, and deep sympathy with the afflicted family circle, we feelingly say "Peace to his ashes."

MRS HARRY ROSENBAUM

One of the saddest features in this deplorable accident was the drowning of Mrs Harry Rosenbaum. This young lady, who was the only daughter of Mr and Mrs Thomas Porteus, was 22 years of age, and had been married only about 18 months. Her husband is manager of Mr Hibbard's Store, Hamilton, and he is a well known identity of the Hastings. He is now prostrated by the shock occasioned by losing his pleasant young wife, of whom he was passionately fond. The abort period of married life of this young couple was ideal. Full of affection for each other, they were exuberant with happiness, and on one ever saw either of them without a smiling face. The tragic separation, with its intense suffering, must be borne by Harry himself, and he alone knows the depths of it. We express our deep sympathy with him, and hope that the gentle touch of time will be some degree heal the sorrows incurred on Wednesday, and restore tranquillity, and an acceptance of the inevitable.

'We cannot, Lord,
Thy purpose see,
But all is well that's done by Thee.'

MASTER CHARLIE BRODIE

This cheerful little lad, also one of the victims, was the eldest son of Mr J Brodie, teacher of the Rawdon Island Public School, and had been spending a holiday with Mr and Mrs Porteus. He was only eight years of age, and although the cruel hand of affliction had touched him in his babyhood, he was unconscious of it, and was a happy and lively intelligent little chap. He was a general favourite at the hotel, both with the residents and visitors; for with his current knowledge, and his quaint way of expressing it he was a very entertaining little companion. Much sympathy is expressed for Mr and Mrs Brodie under the sad circumstances.

On Wednesday evening the Coroner, Mr R Hayward, J P, and Senior Constable Lawler viewed the body of Mr Porteus, and the former gave an order for burial. The inquest, which of course will only be a formal affair, was postponed owing to the agitated condition of Mrs Porteus and others who will be required to give evidence. It is also thought possible that the other bodies may be recovered, and in that case a second inquest might be avoided. This consideration on the part of the Coroner will no doubt be appreciated by those who are now suffering from the shock of this calamity.

FUNERAL OF MR PORTEUS

The burial of the remains of Mr Porteus took place on Thursday afternoon. The business places were closed, and the flags at the wharfs floated half-mast high. The cortege was a long and representative one, extending from Mr Hibbard's residence in West Port Macquarie to Hallett's corner, and was composed of sympathisers from all parts of the district. The Freemasons body, of which order the deceased was a member, marched in regalia at the head of the procession. At the grave Canon Morrish conducted the burial rites according to the beautiful service of the Church of England, after which the solemn Masonic Ceremony was carried out, Bro. W A Spence, P.W.M., pronouncing the funeral oration in a very impressive manner. The pall-bearers were Bros. R A Ayres, E G Fenn, A E May, and J Olsen. A large number of wreaths some of them very beautiful, surrounded the coffin. Mr Porteus was 50 years of age at the time of his death. Mr H Wilkins was the undertaker, and carried out his duties as usual in the most satisfactory manner.

Friday

The two missing bodies have not yet been recovered, although an energetic search is being kept up by the police and civilians. The beach has been patrolled from Point Plomer on the north to Cathie on the south, but no trace has been found. Miss Hickey is recovering from the effects of her immersion, and is now strong enough to leave her room. This young lady had a narrow escape indeed. Miss Anderson and Mr Barsby, the two other survivors, are alright again. Mr Harry Rosenbaum is still suffering from the result of shock. Mr and Mrs Brodie are in town, and are overwhelmed with grief at the tragic death of their little boy. Mrs Porteus has gained tranquillity. Much sympathy is expressed on all sides for her in the terrible bereavement that deprived of her husband and only daughter. The blow has been a heavy one; and it would be a great relief to her and the other afflicted ones if the bodies were recovered.

A word of praise is due to a large number of residents who worked so willingly in connection with the accident, and persevered so assiduously with the search for the missing bodies.

Mrs Porteus and her son Harry, as well as Mr Rosenbaum have received many messages of condolence from district residents and from friends residing in distant parts of the State.

We extend to all those in sorrow and bereavement our deepest sympathy.

The builder

The house (pictured), was built by Tom Rosenbaum — probably about 1928.

Located in Owen Street on the site of the present Manchester Unity building, it attracted the eye of our visitor of the thirties, who went into raptures about the dwelling and its builder — after he got through the usual preamble.

“To one who has adopted the trade of builder and become devoted to his calling, few tales of fiction can compare in interest to the story of his home town.

“When the scene of operations happens to be one whose slow but sure development into a super health and tourist resort, of what was once a penal settlement, its history makes a fascinating romance.

“Port Macquarie is now a land flowing with milk and honey in lavish and actual fact.

“Its present and future are assured.

“Mr T. Rosenbaum, whose active share in its construction bears ample testimony, has lived to proudly visualise his ideals of its destined and inevitable end, expressed in the manner of his work.”

A typical Rosenbaum-built dwelling in the late 1920s. It was shifted to make way for the Manchester Unity building.

RSL loses one of its pioneers

Longest-serving director

PORT Macquarie RSL Club's longest-serving director died recently.

He was Mr Harold Rosenbaum, one of the club's pioneers who gave stalwart service for more than half his lifetime.

He became a member of the club board in March, 1952, just three years after the club opened in 1948, and continued to hold office for 38 consecutive years.

He held the position of honorary treasurer for 20 years.

Mr Rosenbaum retired from the board in November 1989 because of health problems.

During his tenure Mr

OBITUARY

Rosenbaum played an important role in directing the growth of the club from a small Nissen Hut to its present size and diversity.

He was a member of the board when decisions were made to relocate the club at Settlement Shores in a $21 million development.

Mr Rosenbaum was made a life member of the club in 1967 and in 1991 the Registered Clubs Association presented him with a plaque in testimony to his "long and outstanding service to the club movement of NSW".

Mr Rosenbaum died on Saturday, August 22, succumbing to cancer.

He was 72 years old and is survived by his wife Elaine, children Graham, Judith and Phillip and six grandchildren.

A funeral service was held on Tuesday, August 25, at St Thomas's Anglican Church which was attended by many of his RSL friends and associates.

The service was led by Rector Ken Munns and the eulogy delivered by Mr Stan Condon.

The RSL sub-branch gave a final salute for Mr Rosenbaum at the crematorium with a special service reserved for ex-servicemen.

Wedding Bells.

ROSENBAUM—PORTEUS.

A VERY pretty wedding was solemnized at the Presbyterian Church, Port Macquarie, on Tuesday night last, when Mr. Harry Rosenbaum, second son of Mr. Thomas Rosenbaum, was united in the holy bonds to Miss Catherine A. Porteus, second daughter of Mr. T. Porteus, of the Royal Hotel, the Rev. G. M. Torbett performing the ceremony. The bride, who was given away by her father, was becomingly dressed in cream embroidered cashmere, trimmed with beautiful applique and ruffled ribbon, and wore the customary wreath and veil, and carried a pretty bouquet of white camellias, snowdrops and roses, and maidenhair ferns, and wearing a gold brooch, the gift of the bridegroom. Miss F. Rosenbaum, sister of the bridegroom, acted as bridesmaid, and wore a dress of white silk, trimmed with lace and ribbon, and carried a bouquet of white daisies and maidenhair ferns, wearing also a gold brooch, the gift of the bridegroom. Mr. H. Porteus, brother of the bride, filled the position of best man. After the ceremony, the happy couple adjourned to the Royal Hotel, where refreshments were partaken of by a number of friends, after which they left for their new home at Hamilton, amid showers of rice and the good wishes of all. We join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Rosenbaum much happiness in their future life. The bride was the recipient of many handsome presents.

PMN - JULY 14 1970 P10 C67

Death of Mr. T. R. (‘Tom’) Rosenbaum

At the grand age of 80 years, Mr. Thomas Reuben Rosenbaum, of Burrawan Street, Port Macquarie, died in Wauchope last week (July 7th).

Because of failing health he had been living in Wauchope with his daughter, Mrs. Jean Marchment.

He was born in Port Macquarie and was a member of a very well known local family; indeed at one time he was one of the best known men about town in the locality.

A builder by trade, he was extremely thorough and capable and many of the fine old homes that still stand in Port Macquarie were built by him.

Late in life, and living opposite the links where the High School now stands, the late Tom Rosenbaum took an active interest in the game of golf as a player and in the affairs of the club. A water supply, from an elevated tank on his property, transformed the greens, and he was to the fore in much of the voluntary work associated therewith. In many ways he was a generous supporter of the community in which he lived.

Always good for a laugh, it was difficult to know when to take him seriously, and the town generally was the poorer as he gradually faded from the local scene.

His wife predeceased him and he is survived by the three members of his family: Jean (Mrs. Marchment, Wauchope), Doris (Mrs. Joe Debenham (Port Macquarie), and Mr. Harold Rosenbaum, also of Port Macquarie.

A brother, Mr. William Rosenbaum, and a sister, Mrs. Grace, both of Port Macquarie, also survive.

Following a service at the Church of St. Thomas, the interment was made in the Church of England portion of Port Macquarie cemetery on Wednesday last, July 8, at 2.30 p.m.

OBITUARY

PMN - JULY 14 1970 P10 C67
MRS. T. R. ROSENBAUM

With tragic suddenness the death occurred on Friday morning last, at 4.30 a.m., of Mrs. Ethel Hephzibah Rosenbaum, wife of Mr. T. R. Rosenbaum, at her home in Burrawan St.

The late Mrs. Rosenbaum was 56 years of age, and was born at Paddington, being a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Graham. With her late parents who retired and came here to live, Mrs. Rosenbaum came to Port Macquarie about 35 years ago. She learnt her trade as a tailoress with Hagan Bros., in Sydney, and here she was employed by the late Mr. W. ("Bill") Atkinson. In 1916, at the Church of St. Thomas, she was married to Mr. T. R. Rosenbaum; and they have been a well-known family of years standing. They had three children, viz., Jean (Mrs. S. Marchment, Wauchope), Harold Gordon, and Doris Ellen, both at home, who are left to mourn the loss of a devoted mother.

For the past eight years, the late Mrs. Rosenbaum had suffered with heart trouble, and she was a wonderful woman, who displayed great fortitude and patience with her ailment. Time and time again she rallied from severe attacks and threw aside her burden as if nothing troubled her. She was under constant medical aid, and had also sought specialist treatment in the city. Prior to her indisposition, the late Mrs. Rosenbaum took an active interest in affairs of the town, and was for a few years a keen and energetic president of the surf ladies' auxiliary. She also took an active interest in her church, and was recognised as a fine mezzo soprano. She loved to sing in the church choir, and also at public functions.

Though it came with tragic suddenness, the late Mrs. Rosenbaum passed peacefully to rest. The funeral was conducted next morning, Saturday, at 11 a.m., when following a service in the Church of St. Thomas, the cortege moved for the Port Macquarie cemetery, where the interment was made in the Church of England portion. Rev. Canon Gerry conducted the service, and officiated at the graveside. Mr. F. V. Hayward had charge of the funeral arrangements.

DEATH OF MRS. ROSENBAUM

A well known resident of Port Macquarie of long standing, Mrs. Elsie May Rosenbaum, died in the Hastings District Hospital on Friday last, at the grand age of 80 years.

Deceased was the wife of Mr. William Rosenbaum, a former alderman and well known citizen of Swift Street, Port Macquarie.

The late Mrs. Rosenbaum was a native of the Hastings River District—daughter of the late William Coombes family—and had lived in this area all her life.

At Forbes River, in 1915, she married Mr. William Rosenbaum, and at that time they moved into their home in Swift Street, and there they resided happily ever after.

The late Mrs.
Rosenbaum

Only a few months ago, November last year, they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Active for her church in her younger days, Mrs. Rosenbaum will be kindly remembered as one of the Church of England Women's Guild; she also interested herself in C.W.A. activities.

Happy Nature

Of kindly disposition and friendly to her neighbours, the late Mrs. Rosenbaum will be missed from the Swift Street area, after gracing it with her presence for 50 years.

The late Mrs. Rosenbaum is survived by her husband, Mr. William Rosenbaum, and their daughter Violet (Mrs. Bubb, of Pennshurst), and son Victor (Port Macquarie).

There are six grandchildren.

Her funeral on Saturday, April 2, moved from the Church of St. Thomas at 4 p.m., and the interment was made in the Church of England portion of Port Macquarie cemetery.

We regret to record the death of Mrs. Elsie May Rosenbaum, wife of Mr. William Rosenbaum, of Swift Street, Port Macquarie, and mother of Violet and Victor.

Mrs. Rosenbaum, 80, died on Friday, and was buried on Saturday afternoon.

● The Late "Bill" Rosenbaum

WORTHY "LOCAL" PASSED OUT QUIETLY

A man who served this community faithfully and well over a long period of years was laid to rest quietly on Sunday, July 19, following his death the previous day.

He was Mr. William Augustus Rosenbaum, of 85 Swift Street, Port Macquarie, who died in the Hastings District Hospital on July 18, in his 85th year.

He was a true blue Port Macquarie identity, born here on January 16, 1886, christened in the historic Church of St Thomas, an alderman of the municipal council for 17 years, a builder who left his mark behind, and a friend of the community in many ways.

His parents were also born here his father Thomas Peter Rosenbaum, and his mother was Sarah Woodlands a name known and respected throughout the district.

The late "Bill" Rosenbaum went to school here, and commenced in the building trade with an uncle, also William Rosenbaum. At the age of 20 he went to Sydney for five years and gained building experience with the firm Mitchell Bros.

He came back to Port Macquarie to build many homes; in the main street buildings of his remaining are on the Mobil garage, on the corner of Horton and William Streets (built for his cousin, the late Roy Rosenbaum), and the brick building for Miss Lachlan (Les Worthy's barber shop and the delicatessen) Dr Begg's residence (now Dr. Simpson) in Wauchope, and Marchment's main street store were built by him; also the Telegraph Point hotel (destroyed by fire), Beechwood hotel, and the Ballengarra School.

The restoration of one of Port Macquarie's most historic buildings—the restory of the Church of St. Thomas—was faithfully done by the late "Bill" Rosenbaum.

During that period in Sydney, in 1907, he attended a historic meeting when Rugby League made the breakaway from Union, held in the Glebe Town Hall—in the days of the famed "Dally" Messenger.

"Bill" Rosenbaum was a footballer; he played with the "Federals" here and none who had since seen his son Victor play could doubt his ability. True love for sport is revealed in what one gives to it, and the late "Bill" Rosenbaum sat on a dusty roadside as a gateman for the surf club for a period of 25 years!

He also had a long period of membership with Lodge Hastings—the Masonic order.

His was not a loud voice in the council, but he was there—in service to the community—from 1933 to 1950, and in February, 1968, he was the recipient of a plaque of appreciation from the Local Government Association for his services to this council.

In the booming Port

Macquarie which he was one to "nurse along" for so many years, he lived quietly in retirement with Mrs Rosenbaum in their Swift Street home.

They were married at Forbes River (she was Elsie May Coombes) and they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in November 1965. Six months later, in April, 1966, Mrs Rosenbaum predeceased her husband.

Their son and daughter survive. Mr Victor Rosenbaum is a well known local resident, and Violet (Mrs. Bubb) lives at Penshurst.

A brother, Mr T R Rosenbaum, died last month, and a cousin, Mr Roy Rosenbaum (both well known local residents) died last year.

One sister, Mrs Grace, of Port Macquarie, is the only surviving member of the late "Bill" Rosenbaum's family. Albert, Harry, Florence (Mrs Warde) and Thomas predeceased him.

His funeral on Sunday, July 19, moved from the Church of St. Thomas, following a service at 3 p.m., and the interment was made in the Church of England portion of Port Macquarie cemetery.

Two wonderful local people celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary on Wednesday, November 17.

They are Mr. and Mrs. William Rosenbaum, of 111 Street, whose lives are part of a family history of pioneering achievement that goes back to the early free settlement days of Port Macquarie.

Their chapter in this history commenced at Port Macquarie on November 1915, when Mr. William Augustus Rosenbaum (29 years) married Else May Coombes (29 years).

That happy day was locally Australian — the day we got married to roasting hot, with buffets abundant, and "county black". Mrs. Rosenbaum recalled.

Born Here

Mr. Rosenbaum was born in Port Macquarie on January 16, 1886 to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rosenbaum snr., and was christened in the historic St. Thomas' Church of England.

Both his parents were born in this district — his father in Port Macquarie, and his mother, Sarah (nee Woodlands), of Ennis.

His grand parents — William and Louisa Rosenbaum, came to Australia from Hanover, Germany, where they kept a vineyard.

Mrs. Rosenbaum's parents were Mr. and Mrs.

William Coombes, farming people on Forbes River, where she was born and lived until her marriage.

Mrs. Rosenbaum's most vivid memory is of her cousin, the late Mr. William Coombes, being taken hostage by the notorious bushrangers, Jimmy and Joe Governor, who forded the river not far from their property.

[Mr. Isaac Coombes, of Bridge Street East, is another cousin of Mrs.

Rosenbaum and he and his wife celebrated their Sixtieth Wedding Anniversary last year.

For his part, Mr. Rosenbaum was reared in Port Macquarie, attend-

Own Business

Mr. Rosenbaum returned to Port Macquarie about 1910, and commenced building here on his own account.

He continued building up until his retirement four or five years ago, and he estimates that he has been connected with the construction of about 100 homes in Port Macquarie.

In the early days, he had to cover a wide area to get enough work, ing school at the present Primary School site, although the original building has been demolished. It consisted of two rooms and staff consisted of a headmaster and a man and woman teacher. When a verandah was being constructed, the pupils had their lessons in an old showground hall.

His parents lived in Lord Street, where his sister, Mrs. Grace, now resides.

Memories

He remembered the shows on Gaol Hill, the football on what is now Rotary Park, and two shipwrecks — timber vessels stranded on the bar.

Mr. Rosenbaum left school, with his certificate, at the age of 13 years, after completing some of his education in Sydney.

He commenced work in the building trade here with his uncle, also William Rosenbaum, until he was 20 years, when he went to Sydney for five years, and there was engaged with Mitchells, a building firm.

He spent the first eight months constructing the ticket offices at Central Railway Station, when that station was being built in 1906-7.

In 1907, Mr. Rosenbaum attended one of the first meetings of Rugby League in Australia, at Glebe Town Hall, St. John's Road. The meeting resulted from a "split" with Rugby Union.

The leaders of that meeting were, Victor Trumper, the renowned cricketer, and J. J. Gilfrin.

including Wauchope and Beechwood.

He was a keen football fan, playing in the local team, called "Federalers", up until his marriage, and also played in the Port Macquarie cricket team against Beechwood, Wauchope, and Telegraph Point.

Pending his marriage, Mr. Rosenbaum bought 10 acres of land around the present Swift Street home, which was a vineyard and orchard with an unimproved capital value of 10/- an acre. The value is now £1255 an acre.

He brought his wife here from Forbes River in 1915, and they have lived there to the present day.

They had a family of two — daughter Violet (Mrs. Bubb, Peshurst, Sydney) who was born in 1918, and one son Vic (living next door to his parents); he was born in 1920.

They have six grandchildren — three sons and a daughter to Vic and his wife, and Violet has one daughter.

Mr. Rosenbaum was elected to the Municipal Council and served for 17 years (1933-1950); he assisted as gatekeeper with the Surf Club for over 25 years, since the first carnival in depression years, at Town Beach, the carnivals later moving to Flynn's Beach. He was one of the first members of Port Macquarie Bowling Club, although he never played the game.

Socially Active

Mrs. Rosenbaum, in her younger days, was an active church woman, a member of the Guild, and also held interests in C.W.A. activities; her favourite sport was tennis.

A wide circle of local friends will wish them a happy day tomorrow (November 17).

Obituary

ALICE ROSENBAUM

The death of Mrs. Alice Rosenbaum, of 21 Oxley Highway, Port Macquarie, occurred in the Hastings District Hospital on Tuesday, January 18.

Aged 59 years, Mrs. Rosenbaum was the wife of the late Cecil William Rosenbaum. She is survived by her sons Albert and Robert and daughters Josephine, Beverley and Caroline.

A funeral service will be held in St. Thomas Church today at 11.30 a.m. and will then move to the Port Macquarie Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were made by E. McMurtrie and Sons.

...ready to extend a helping hand to anyone that was temporarily in a fix. The warm side of his character attracted many friends, and he was exceedingly popular with the travelling public, for he never considered it any trouble to do a turn for a stranger. He was a man of the world himself, and knew how to treat men, and consequently was much appreciated. In many things pertaining to the advancement of the district he took an intelligent but unostentatious part, and was always on the spot when practical assistance was required. Mr. Porteus was a member of the Masonic craft, and was accorded an official funeral on Thursday last, when the brethren of the lodge assembled in full force to take part in a beautiful masonic burial ceremony and pay the last earthly tribute to their dead comrade. Mr. Porteus was very fond of sailing—especially of sailing; but being a "western" man he did not thoroughly understand the management of boats; and though he could not swim a stroke he was absolutely fearless, and often before trod the edge of danger to an alarming extent. However, the last scene in his history has been enacted, and with respect to his memory, and deep sympathy with the afflicted family circle, we feelingly say "Peace to his ashes."

Mrs. HARRY ROSENBAUM.

One of the saddest features in this deplorable accident was the drowning of Mrs. Harry Rosenbaum. This young lady, who is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Porteus, was 22 years of age, and had been married only about 18 months. Her husband was manager of Mr. Hibbard's store, Hamilton, and he is a well-known identity on the coastings. He is now prostrated by the shock occasioned by losing his pleasant young wife, of whom he was passionately fond. The short period of married life of this young couple was ideal. Full of affection for each other, they were exuberant with happiness, and no one ever saw either of them without a smiling face. The tragic separation, with its intense suffering, must be borne by Harry himself, and he alone knows the depths of it. We express our deep sympathy with him, and hope that the gentle touch of time will in some degree heal the sorrows incurred on Wednesday, and restore tranquility, and an absence of the inevitable.

This child, the eldest son of Mr. J. Brown, teacher of the Rawdon Island public school, and had been spending a holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Porteus. He was only eight years of age, and although the cruel hand of affliction had touched him in his babyhood, he was unconscious of it, and was a happy and intelligent little chap. He was a general favourite at the hotel, both with the students and visitors; for with his current knowledge, and his quaint way of expressing himself, he was a very entertaining little companion.

Hayward, J.P., and Senior constable Sawyer viewed the body of Mr. Porteus, and the former gave an order for burial. The inquest, which of course will only be a formal affair, was postponed owing to the deplorable condition of Mrs. Porteus and others who will be required to give evidence. It is also thought possible that the other bodies may be recovered, and in that case a second inquest might be avoided. This consideration on the part of the Coroner will no doubt be appreciated by those who are now suffering from the shock of this calamity.

FUNERAL OF MR. PORTEUS.

The burial of the remains of Mr. Porteus took place on Thursday afternoon. The business places were closed, and the flags at the wharfs floated half-mast high. The funeral was a long and representative one, extending from Mr. Hibbard's residence in Port Macquarie to Hallett's corner, and was composed of sympathisers from all parts of the district. The Freemason body, in which order the deceased was a member, marched in regalia at the head of the procession. At the grave Canon Morriah conducted the burial rites according to the ritual service of the Church of England, for which the solemn Masonic ceremony was carried out, Bro. W. A. Spence, W.M., pronouncing the funeral oration in a very impressive manner. The pall-bearers were Bros. R. A. Ayres, E. G. Fenn, A. E. Fry, and J. Olsen. A large number of guests, some of them very beautiful, surrounded the coffin. Mr. Porteus was 50 years of age at the time of his death. Mr. Wilkins was the undertaker, and carried out his duties as usual in the most satisfactory manner.

Friday.

The two missing bodies have not yet been recovered, although an energetic search is being kept up by the police and civilians. The beach has been patrolled from Point Piper on the north to Cathie on the south, but no trace has been found. Miss Hickey, recovering from the effects of her husband's death, and is now strong enough to leave her home. This young lady had a narrow escape from death. Miss Anderson and Mr. Barsby, the two other survivors, are alright again.

Harry Rosenbaum is still suffering from the result of shock. Mr. and Mrs. Brodie are in town, and are overwhelmed with grief at the tragic death of their little boy. Mrs. Porteus has gained tranquility. Much sympathy is expressed on all sides for her in the terrible bereavement that deprived her of her husband and only daughter. The blow has been a heavy one; and it would be a great relief to her and the other afflicted ones if the bodies were recovered.

A word of praise is due to a large number of residents who worked so willingly in connection with the accident, and persevered so assiduously with the search for the missing bodies.

Mrs. Porteus, and her son Harry, as well as Mr. Rosenbaum, have received many messages of condolence from district residents and from friends residing in distant parts of the State.

We extend to all those in sorrow and bereavement our deepest sympathy.

Mr. Lechlan Lindsay, jr., of Huntingdon, is at present very ill, and is under the careful attention of Dr. Doudney.

THREE LIVES LOST.

SAD boating accident occurred in harbor on Wednesday afternoon. Thomas Porteus, licensee of the Royal Hotel, took a small party of friends out for a day and the excursion had an unhappy end. The party consisted of Mr. Porteus, who was in charge of the boat; Mr. J. R. Arnsby, storekeeper, of Kempsey and Macquarie; Mrs. Harry Rosenbaum (daughter of Mr. Porteus); Miss Hickey, of the Royal Hotel; Miss Alice Anderson, niece of Mr. Porteus; and Master Charlie Brodie, son of Mr. J. Brodie, of the Royal Hotel public school, who was spending his holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Porteus.

On Wednesday afternoon when the boat was launched there was a gentle south wind blowing, and indications all pointed to a pleasant outing. The boat was a steamer of 18 feet, originally owned by Mr. R. R. Rixon, and she was by no means crowded with six occupants. The sail was immediately on leaving the boat-shed at the pier, and a course set for the North Shore. There was an unusually strong ebb tide at the time. All went well till nearly at the channel, when the wind suddenly veered round to another quarter. The party were with the idea of "jibing," when a puff of wind came along and carried the boat back again, and that, with the weight of the occupants on the one side, caused the boat to lie over and fill. The excursionists were all thrown into the water. Mr. Porteus could not swim, but made an effort to hold of the boat, and in doing so, saved his daughter, Mrs. Rosenbaum, "Stic Kate," who this unfortunate young lady appears to have been entangled in the sea, and was not seen after the accident. Miss Anderson, daughter of Mr. J. Anderson, of the Agent Department in the railway service, who is spending a holiday with her mother, Mrs. Porteus, escaped best. She clung to the boat for a while, and when she was carried away from it was borne by the current on to a sand-spit; washed ashore, and then back, till a boat came to rescue her.

The pilot boat, in charge of Messrs. J. J. J. and A. E. Lindeman, members of the pilot service, was first on the spot, and the first body recovered was that of Miss Hickey, of the Royal Hotel, who was floating face upwards, in an unconscious state; and immediately afterwards they picked up Mr. Porteus, who was floating face downwards, and to all appearances dead. When brought to the shore Miss Hickey showed signs of animation and was taken to her room, and restoratives applied, and after a long and hard fight she recovered, although still very weak, arising from shock. Mr. Porteus was at first appearances dead when brought ashore, and vigorous efforts were made to resuscitate his body. Dr. Doudney was out of town, and Matron Felmingham was present, and did what she possibly could to restore him to life. In this she was assisted by other members of the pilot service, and together with many willing friends, who gathered round their best and worked hard in the attempt to revive the victim. The body was taken to the hospital, and after an examination of the lungs pronounced life to be extinct. With feelings of deep regret the workers ceased their operations, and the body was carried from the grassy slope that Mr. Porteus was so fond of, upstairs, there to meet the final act in the drama of life. The second on the spot after the

... was Mr. Joe Frank, who launched the boat that was lying in a boat shed, and quickly pulled to the scene of the disaster. The first one he assisted was Mr. Brodie, who, though swimming and some distance from the upset boat, was in the last stage of exhaustion. Mr. Franks got hold of him, and supported him till another boat, manned by Messrs. John Walsh, J. Peterson, and Charlie Brodie, came to his assistance, and Mr. Brodie was taken into the boat; Mr. Peterson was the next one picked up, and a wetting she suffered nothing. Mr. Brodie appears to have seen Mrs. Rosenbaum or Charlie Brodie after the accident, and it is thought that they were drowned immediately. A vigorous search for the bodies was made by all available boats, which were manned by civilians only. They searched hard till night closed in with a heavy fog. The little boy's hat, one of the articles and the skirting of the boat, were found on the northern shore, and must have been carried over the bar to get there. There was a strong ebb tide at the time of the accident, and the finding of these articles on the northern beach strengthens the impression that the bodies have been carried out to sea. Search is being actively continued in the harbor, and along the beach to the north and south, and it is confidently hoped that the bodies will be recovered. This terrible calamity has had a paralyzing effect on the town, and people seem scarcely to realize what has actually happened. A big sale of land at Cooper's place on Thursday, and arrangements were complete for the conveyance of the bodies of residents out to the sea.

... the most widely known... career at nine years of age in the New South Wales pits he worked there to qualify himself for a situation in the railway service; this position he gained, and served 23 years on the line, the greater part of which was spent on the north-west section of the road. His head-quarters were at Werris Creek, where many warm friends will read with dismay the tidings of his untimely death. Mr. Porteus left the railway service about five years ago, and took charge of the Royal Hotel here, and the success that has followed, and the reputation the house has gained under his management, is a tribute both to his capabilities and his worth. Mr. Porteus was a keen observer, and a capable judge of human character, and his estimates and verdict were always very close to the mark. He made few intimate friends, but those who enjoyed his confidence had it to the limit. He was a warm-hearted man, full of tender sympathies, and the cry of want or helplessness never reached him in vain, and possibly no one in Port Macquarie has

OBITUARY. P2

MR. H. ROSENBAUM.

As briefly mentioned in our previous issue, Mr. Harry Rosenbaum passed away in the Hastings District Hospital on the evening of Monday, 13th November, aged 61 years.

Born at Port Macquarie, the deceased was the second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rosenbaum. Educated at the local public school, the late Mr. Rosenbaum entered the service of Messrs. Hibbard & Eaton, sawmillers, Hibbard (then called Hamilton), at the age of 18 years as a clerk. Except for a break of a few years the deceased had been engaged at the sawmill all his life, and was managing clerk for the Hastings River Sawmilling Co. at the time of his death. During these forty-three years the sawmill had been controlled successively by Messrs. Hibbard & Eaton, Mr. John Hibbard, the British Australian Timber Co., and the H. R. Sawmilling Co., the present owners. The deceased capably filled the post occupied and gave undivided attention to his work and the interests of his employers, who regret the passing of a valued employee. The deceased had suffered with asthma and bronchitis, and was an inmate of the H. D. Hospital for ten weeks prior to his death. In his earlier days the late Mr. Rosenbaum had been both a good cricketer and footballer. Of a reserved nature, he did not take any active part in public life. He was keenly interested in poultry and devoted leisure hours to the breeding of fowls.

The deceased was married at Port Macquarie to Miss Kate Porteus, whose parents kept the Royal Hotel. He lost his wife, who was drowned with her father and a young lad named Brodie, in a boating accident on the harbour about 36 years ago. Her body was never recovered. For a time after this fatality the subject of our notice assisted Mrs. Porteus with the management of the Royal Hotel, one of the breaks from his employment at the sawmill.

Surviving brothers and sisters are: Messrs. A. Rosenbaum (Smith's Creek), W. A. Rosenbaum and T. R. Rosenbaum (Port Macquarie), and Mesdames W. Warde and W. Grace (Port Macquarie).

The funeral took place on Wednesday morning of last week, following a service in St. Thomas' Church of England conducted by the Rev. Canon T. M. Gerry, who concluded the burial service at the graveside. Mr. F. V. Hayward conducted the funeral arrangements.

NEWS, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1908.

Late Boating Fatality. DNM. 3 DEC 1908

AN assiduous search has been maintained by the police, the pilot staff, and many willing residents to recover the body of Mrs. Harry Rosenbaum who perished in the lamentable boating accident. When the disaster occurred Senior Constable Lawler was away on the Wilson River and Constable Morris was doing duty in an outlying district. They received news of the accident late in the evening, and immediately returned to town to give assistance. On Saturday morning the police were searching round the first bend of the river, some distance above where the boat overturned, when Constable Morris had the satisfaction of finding the body of little Charlie Brodie lying in a depression in the sand covered by a few feet of water. The boy had quite a natural appearance, and was not in the least mutilated. The little corpse was conveyed to town, much to the relief of the over-wrought parents, who have the consolation of knowing that the little fellow is now sleeping in God's Acre, where those who loved him best may see the tiny mound that marks the last resting place of that dear child. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon, when the deceased was buried by the side of Mr. Porteus, another victim of the accident. The little coffin was wrapped in wreaths of flowers made by the hands of affectionate friends. There was a large attendance at the grave-side, including a number from Rawdon Island. Messrs. E. G. Fenn, W. C. Atkinson, Morris Walsh, and Captain Baird carried the coffin from the hearse to the grave, where Canon Morrish conducted the impressive service of the Church of England.

Friday.

Notwithstanding a persistent search no trace has been found of the body of Mrs. Rosenbaum, but a keen watch is still being kept in the hope that it might yet be discovered. On Thursday evening a bag which contained the fishing lines of the party on the day of the accident was washed ashore on the beach opposite the Royal Hotel.

The searchers deserve the greatest praise for the determined search they made, which action was much appreciated by the bereaved relatives.

The coronial inquiry will be held this (Saturday) morning. It was a kindly act on the part of Senior Constable Lawler and the coroner to arrange for holding the inquest at the hotel, as some of the lady witnesses are still suffering from shock, and will possibly be much more composed at home than they would be at the Court house. It is only a formal matter anyway, and should not attract any attention more than that which arises from idle curiosity.

Port Macquarie News.
 SATURDAY, MAY 25, 1940.

MR. T. P. ROSENBAUM.

Another link with the early days of the Hastings River was severed on Tuesday morning, when death came peacefully to Mr. Thomas Peter Rosenbaum, at his home, Lord Street, Port Macquarie, at the age of 83 years.

Deceased was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Rosenbaum, and was born at Ellenborough, on the Hastings River, and had passed the whole of his 83 years in the district. He was one of a family of three, his brother, the late Mr. William Rosenbaum, predeceasing him at Port Macquarie a number of years ago, whilst a sister, Mrs. Wooderson, of Kempsey, survives. The late Mr. Rosenbaum devoted the whole of his life in interests apropos to the land, dealing with dairying, cattle-raising and timber, working holdings at Ellenborough, Camden Haven and Smith's Creek. For some 30 years he leased what was then known as Cooperabung Station, a large holding in the Cooperabung district.

In the year 1881, deceased was married at Beechwood to Miss Sarah Woodlands (daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. Woodlands), who predeceased him some 17 years ago. They raised a family of six children, all of whom survive, viz., Albert (Smith's Creek), Messrs. Harry, William and Thomas (Port Macquarie), Mrs. W. Warde and Mrs. Grace (Port Macquarie). Also surviving are 14 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Of a quiet and retiring nature, the late Mr. Rosenbaum, although always keenly interested, never associated himself in public life, but devoted his time to his work and his family. He made his home at Port Macquarie some 50 years ago, but spent a good deal of time away from the town attending to his interests in different parts of the district. About 12 years ago he retired from active work, and took to gardening, a hobby he dearly loved, deriving much pleasure from giving away the fruits of his labours. He was a noted gardener, and grew some wonderful vegetables on the property now owned by Mr. W. Doak.

For the past twelve months he had been practically bedridden, but in this he was greatly comforted by his daughter, Dorothy, who lived with him for some years, and whose patient nursing knew no bounds. She was greatly assisted in this by her husband, Mr. Grace.

The late Mr. Rosenbaum took a bad turn on Sunday last, but appeared to rally, and was in his usual good spirits shortly prior to his demise.

The funeral cortege, which moved from his late residence on Wednesday morning, was largely attended by relatives and friends. The remains were laid to rest in the C. of E. portion of the Port Macquarie Cemetery, Canon L. E. J. Gray performing the last sad rites. Four grandsons, Messrs. H. and V. Rosenbaum, and A. and R. Warde, acted as pall-bearers, whilst Mr. S. J. Nowlan had charge of the funeral arrangements.

MRS. T. ROSENBAUM, Ssn.

On Tuesday last death removed another well-known and respected resident of Port Macquarie, in the person of Mrs. Thomas Rosenbaum, sen., at the age of 64. The deceased lady, who suffered more or less from diabetes for the last couple of years, was attending to her fowls about five weeks ago, when she had the misfortune to have her left hand pierced by a rooster's spur. The wound was attended to, and apparently was nearly healed when serious symptoms became manifest. The trouble developed very rapidly, and on Friday, 7th inst., the patient was removed to the Hastings District Hospital. There she received every care and attention from the doctor and nursing staff, but all their efforts were unavailing, and Mrs. Rosenbaum lapsed into unconsciousness at 10 a.m. on Monday and passed peacefully to rest on Tuesday morning. The cause of death was diabetes, but was doubtless accelerated by the wound referred to. The late Mrs. Rosenbaum was the eldest child of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. Woodlands, of Bellangry. The last named, after the death of her first husband many years ago, married a Mr. Hall. Mrs. Rosenbaum's father was the first ferryman at Ettis, and she was educated at the Public School at that centre. Soon after her marriage she and her husband permanently made their home in Port Macquarie. There are six children of the union—four sons and two daughters, viz., Messrs. Albert Rosenbaum (Smith's Creek), Harry, William and Thomas (Port Macquarie), Mrs. W. Warde and Miss Olive D. (Dot) Rosenbaum (Port Macquarie). Three brothers and three sisters of deceased also survive, viz., Samuel (Lansdowne), Silas (Greenhill), William (Macksville), Mesdames K. Champness (St. Marys), A. Richardson and M. Paul (Sydney). The late Mrs. Rosenbaum found her principal interests in the care of her home and family, but though of a retiring disposition, she was of a kindly and generous nature, evidenced by many thoughtful acts for the comfort and welfare of others, which will live long in the memories of those who experienced them. We join in the expressions of sympathy for the bereaved husband and family in their great loss.

The funeral took place on Wednesday morning, a large number attending to pay the last token of respect. The remains were interred in the Church of England section of the West Port Macquarie cemetery, the Rev. H. B. Madden officiating. The rev. gentleman feelingly referred to the deceased lady's exemplary Christian life and loving devotion to her husband and family. Many beautiful wreaths were forwarded by sympathising relatives and friends.

DEATH OF Mr. ROY

ROSENBAUM

A highly respected, lifelong resident of Port Macquarie, Mr. Roy Rosenbaum, died in the Hastings District Hospital at Port Macquarie, on Wednesday last, January 21, at the age of 73 years.

For a number of years past he had lived quietly in retirement—with Mrs. Rosenbaum—in their home in William Street; prior to that he was in business here for many years.

He owned and conducted a garage business in the middle of the eastern side of Horton Street (in Cuttriss' drapery area) when Port Macquarie was a much smaller town than today; he later moved to new premises on the corner of William and Horton Streets.

The late Roy Rosenbaum was one of the town's keenest and most proficient tennis players, and he and Mrs. Rosenbaum were a formidable combination indeed.

Mrs. Rosenbaum today is particularly well known to members of the Port Macquarie Bowling Club's women bowlers.

Two brothers of the late Mr. Rosenbaum were well known here for many years in the building trade and many town homes were built by them—Messrs. "Bill" Rosenbaum, of Swift Street, and Tom Rosenbaum, of Burrawan Street, and now at Wauchope with his daughter.

Mr. Roy Rosenbaum is survived by Mrs. "Fernie" Rosenbaum, and their two sons, both living away from Port Macquarie.

Following a service at the Methodist Church in Port Macquarie on Friday last, cremation took place at Beresfield.

On Sunday last Mr. William Rosenbaum, senr., an old and highly esteemed resident of Port Macquarie, died at his home at the advanced age of 87 years, 53 of which were spent here. Mr. Rosenbaum was born at Hanover, Germany, on May 26, 1821, and came to Australia in 1856 in the vessel Willhelmburgh, which was the first emigrant ship to leave the "Fatherland" for this continent. Shortly after his arrival in Sydney he set out for the Hastings, which was then not much known, and took up his residence in Port Macquarie, which has ever since been his home. He devoted his time principally to grape cultivation and the wine industry, and he took a willing and intelligent part in the pioneering work of the early days. In the course of his long residence here he only left the district on two occasions; once, when attracted by tales of the golden wealth at Wide Bay, Queensland, he went there and spent two years on the field. His second expedition was also in search of gold. This time he tried his luck on the alluvial deposits at Nuggety Gully, near Nowendoc, at the head of the Manning, where he had a companion in another well-known identity, Mr. Youdale. Since then he spent his time quietly, and ended his days peacefully, in the old town he loved so well. Mrs. Rosenbaum predeceased her husband by five years—Mr. Rosenbaum dying on the fifth anniversary of his wife's death.

Three children were the fruits of the marriage, viz., Mrs. F. Wooderson, of Kempsey; Mr. T. Rosenbaum, of Cooperabung; and Mr. W. Rosenbaum, who resides here, and is Mayor of the town, and, like his sister and brother, is highly esteemed.

The remains of the deceased were laid to rest in the local cemetery on Monday, when Canon Morrish conducted the beautiful service of the Church of England, in the presence of a large number of sympathisers, who had assembled to pay their last tribute of respect to one they held in high regard. Mr. H. T. Wilkins was the undertaker.

During the day the flags throughout the town were flown at half-mast.

Death.

ROSENBAUM.—At her husband's residence, Port Macquarie, on Sunday, October 18th, MARRIED
LOUISA ROSENBAUM, the beloved wife of William Rosenbaum, senr., aged 83 years.

The Port Macquarie News

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1903.

DEATH.

MRS. W. ROSENBAUM, SENR.

THE Grim Reaper once again has appeared in our midst, claiming as its victim one of the oldest residents of the district in the person of Mrs. Wm. Rosenbaum senr., at the ripe old age of 83 years. Death was due to senile decay, after an illness of two months.

Deceased was a native of Hanover, Germany, and she and her husband, who survives her, came to this State in 1853, in the ship Williamsburg. On arrival in Sydney, they came immediately to Port, and entered the service of Canon O'Reilly. Afterwards they went to live at Lake Innes, and finally settled in their present home.

She was of a very sturdy nature, and was much beloved by all who knew her. She leaves a husband and two sons (Thomas and William) and a daughter (Mrs. Wooderson), of East Kempsey, to mourn their loss, and we extend our heartfelt sympathy to them in their sad bereavement.

A large number of persons followed the deceased's remains to the grave, at which Rev. C. M. Thomas read the burial service.
