PREFACE.

THE late Major-General Sir John Hoad, K.C.M.G., had long been desirous that the great mass of statistics accumulated in the Defence Department relative to the Australian Military Contingents should be tabulated and arranged in a comprehensive yet compact and systematic shape. In this manner there would be an official record for preservation in our annals, as a memorial of the period when Australia poured forth her levies to do battle for the Empire—many of her sons doomed never to return, but fated to take their last rest beneath the veldt upon which they had fought. In the absence of such a memorial, it might be that in process of time little would be recalled of the stirring events of 1899-02 except the mere fact that there once was a war in South Africa in which the Colonies took some share.

The General was at length authorized to realize his wish; though he was not permitted to witness the completion thereof. It involved a task of no ordinary magnitude; comprising, as it did, firstly, the evolution of order from chaos; secondly, the partition of the materials; and, thirdly, a judicious selection of that which it was desirable to preserve, coupled with the rejection of matter which was superfluous or cumbersome. In some instances it was found impossible to complete certain minor particulars; lists having been mislaid, and State-District Staff officers not supplying the information.

It must be understood that this volume is not a history of the war. It is a statistical register and reference. The short narratives which accompany the records of Contingents are intended only as sketches or illustrations of each campaign. For certain portions of the outlines of service of some South Australian, Western Australian, and Tasmanian Contingents, the compiler has been indebted to a work entitled Colonials in South Africa, by John Stirling, which is based chiefly upon the despatches of the Commander-in-Chief at the seat of war.

PREFATORY.

IT has not been considered desirable to detail the preliminary training in the case of each Contingent or draft. It may readily be understood, however, that it would have been impossible to clothe, equip, drill, and despatch 6,000 men and horses to the seat of the war, readily and steadily, without perfect system and regularity of method. The first Contingents embarked were in reality drafts from the three New South Wales mounted regiments; the company of infantry was enrolled entirely from selected men of the Militia and Volunteer Battalions. These were, therefore, a superior class of individuals, from whom considerable was to be expected; and there was little trouble in getting them away. "A" Battery R.A.A. was, of course, under strict discipline; and the same may be said of the Army Medical Corps.

But much rougher material had to be dealt with in the Bushmen's and subsequent Contingents; though, of course, they ultimately became leavened with a proportion of men who had been to the war and gained valuable experience. Many of the recruits, however—a large majority in some cases—were mere rough bushmen, countrymen, handicraftsmen, farm labourers, and the like, who had never soldiered before, and had everything to learn in the way of drill and discipline.

Camps of Instruction were established at Randwick and elsewhere; and the men, having been accepted, passed the tests, and enrolled, were put through such a rapid and comprehensive course as should fit them for duty. Horses were selected and purchased as rapidly as possible, consistently with fair accuracy of judgment, and handed over to their riders, who were taught the routine of stable duty. They were issued with uniforms and equipment, and organized into squadrons; squadrons subdivided into troops, and troops into sections of four. The men were exercised in recruit drill, musketry, marching, and squadron work, and the duties of an irregular horseman, both mounted and dismounted. Finally, the battalion was paraded as such; and officers and sergeants tested in their work. Interior economy, as applied to the routine of camp life and the field, and discipline, also formed important subjects of instruction.

Duly qualified officers and staff-sergeants were selected for the training, and a Camp Commandant appointed for each Camp. Selected officers were likewise detailed to make the necessary arrangements for embarkation of men and horses in the transports available in each case; so that when the day arrived, all things being in readiness, there might not be any hitch.

By these means, and a severe course of what might be termed "forcing," the various Contingents were enabled to make quite a creditable appearance when they marched to the quay for embarkation; usually in the presence of thousands of interested and enthusiastic spectators. Great encomium was due to the Head-Quarter Staff, both the A.A.G. and A.Q.M.G. Departments, and to the Pay Department, under Mr. J. B. Laing, upon which an unusually severe strain was placed. Also to the officers and sergeants instructors for the unanimity and energy with which they worked to bring about so desirable a consummation.

No horses were brought back from South Africa; they were handed over to Remount Depôts prior to embarkation of each Contingent for Australia.

In addition to the articles of uniform noted as issued to Contingents, each man was supplied with boots and a full and complete kit, comprising clothing, underwear, necessaries, &c.

THE NEW SOUTH WALES LANCERS.

THE draft of Lancers which from force of circumstances was the first to go to the front from Australia represented the senior cavalry regiment of New South Wales, now the 1st Australian Light Horse (New South Wales Lancers). It was raised in 1883, first as Light Horse, but in 1885, after the return of the Contingent from the Soudan, it was converted into Lancers, as a compliment to the 5th Royal Irish Lancers, which were encamped with the New South Wales Artillery at Handoub. The uniform of that regiment was also adopted with slight variations; but a few years later it was relinquished for the distinctive drab with scarlet plastrons.*

A squadron of 100, under Captain C. Cox, had proceeded to England in 1899, to take part in the annual military tournament at Islington, and for training at Aldershot; the expense of which was defrayed entirely by the regiment. Upon the war breaking out, permission to volunteer was cabled for and acceded to. The detail, with their horses, then proceeded to Cape Town, where they were enthusiastically received, equipped with the service uniform and accoutrements, and despatched to the scene of hostilities.

The subsequent drafts were supplied with horses, but in many instances spare chargers were taken.

PAY.

Rates of pay (as sanctioned by G.O. 107, 21.10.99) "for members of Partially-paid or Volunteer Forces," were as follow:—Buglers and privates, 2s. 3d. per day, with 2s. 3d. deferred pay; corporals, 4s. 9d. and 2s. 3d.; sergeants, 5s. 9d. and 2s. 3d.; company sergeant-majors or colour-sergeants, 6s. 3d. and 2s. 9d.; staff-sergeants, 6s. 6d. and 3s. 6d.; warrant officers, 7s. 6d. and 4s.; lieutenants, 16s. and 3s. deferred pay; captains, 20s. and 3s. 6d.

N.C. officers and men of the Permanent Forces would receive, from date of landing, Imperial rates of pay in addition to existing rates.

"Separation allowance" was also granted to wives and families of N.C.O.'s and soldiers serving in South Africa, at varying rates according to rank. If in occupation of quarters or drawing lodging allowance, the wife received 4d. per diem; for each girl under 16 years 1½d. per diem; each boy under 14 years, 1½d. per diem. When not in occupation of quarters or receipt of lodging allowance, payment was made at rates varying from warrant officers' wives 2s. 3d. per diem, 10 privates' wives, 1s. 1d.

Pay was issued by the Imperial Government after the landing of Contingents at Imperial rates. These varied from lieutenant-colonel, 25s. per diem and 4s. field allowance, to subaltern, 15s. and 2s. 6d.; and from 9s., R. sergeant-major. to 5s. privates. Buglers, saddlers, and farriers, 1s. per diem extra.

ESTABLISHMENT.

The following was the establishment authorized for Lancer Contingent, in the first instance:—1 major (temporary), 1 captain, 3 subalterns, 1 Sq. S.M., 1 Sq. Q.M.S., 2 staff-sergeants, 4 sergeants, 2 sergeant-farriers, 2 shoeing smiths, 2 buglers, 8 corporals, 97 privates, including cooks and bātmén, 1 saddler. Total, 125.

Men volunteering were required to be from 20 to 40 years of age, preferably single, and good shots. Horses brought in had to be for M.I. work, and pass veterinary examination.

* The Regiment is allied with "King Edward's Horse," the King's Oversea Dominions Regiment.

The fourth draft departed 16th February, 1900; it comprised 1 officer and 40 others. Total: 8 officers, 162 others, with 246 horses.

The squadron arrived home on 6th December, 1900, and 8th January, 1901.

RECORD OF SERVICE.

The detachment of this regiment undergoing a course of training at Aldershot at the outbreak of the war volunteered for active service in South Africa; the offer being accepted, they embarked on 10th October, 1899, and arrived at Cape Town 2nd November, 1899.

In order to complete and maintain the service establishment of the unit, detachments embarked at Sydney on transport Kent on 28th October, arriving at Cape Town 1st December; on transport Moravian on 17th January, arriving at Cape Town on 18th February; and on transport Australian on 16th February, arriving at Cape Town 19th March, 1900.

The Aldershot detachment after its arrival was attached to General French's command, and was employed on patrol duty in the Colesberg district. On the 6th December, the detachment, under Major Lee, with remounts for the whole squadron, arrived at Naauwpoort, Major Lee assuming the command of the squadron.

Present at capture of Arundel on 8th December, and took part in several minor actions in the vicinity.

A detachment of 28 men, under Lieutenant Osborne, temporarily attached to Lord Methuen's command, took part in the battles of Belmont, Grasspan, Modder River, and Magersfontein, and afterwards rejoined the squadron.

On 2nd January, 1900, a supply train was, by some means started from Rensburg Siding, and ran on a down grade close to the Boer position; the squadron was ordered to recover or burn the trucks. As some of them were derailed, it was found impossible to recover them; they were, consequently, burned under a very heavy fire from the enemy.

On the 16th January a troop of Lancers and Australian Horse, under Lieutenant Dowling of the latter regiment, when returning to camp at Slingersfontein, was surrounded; and after a sharp fight, in which Sergeant-Major Griffin of the Australian Horse was killed, Corporal Kilpatrick of the Lancers mortally wounded, and Lieutenant Dowling and Trooper Roberts severely wounded, the patrol surrendered.

On the 7th February the squadron proceeded to Belmont, and on the 13th were attached to Scots Greys, forming part of the 1st Cavalry Brigade.

Present at the relief of Kimberly on 15th February, action at Dronfield on 16th February, and at the operations which led to the surrender of General Cronje at Paardeburg. Took part in the battle of Poplar Grove on 7th March, and assisted to turn the enemy's left flank.

Present at Dreifontein on 10th, and at the occupation of Bloemfontein on 12th March.

Captain Nicholson, with a detachment of 40 N.C. officers and men from New South Wales, joined on 5th May.

The squadron was now attached to the Inniskillings, under Major Allamby and took part in the advance on Pretoria. Kroonstadt was occupied on 12th May; the Vaal River crossed on 24th May. Took part in heavy fighting at Klip River on 28th May, when Major Lee was complimented by General French on the excellent work of the squadron while with the advance guard.

Took part in operations in the vicinity of Johannesburg, including the severe action at Valkheuvel Poort on 3rd June, when the Australians were again thanked by General French for their gallant conduct.

Present at the release of prisoners at Waterval on the 6th June. On the 9th July reinforced General Hutton at Oliphantsfontein, and was engaged with the enemy on 11th and 12th.

Took part in various engagements in the eastern Transvaal, including LangKloof and Swartz Kop, also in the operations in the Carolina and Barberton districts.

The squadron embarked at Cape Town on transports Harlech Castle on 11th November, and Orient on 13th December, and arrived in Sydney on 6th December, 1900 and 8th January, 1901, calling at Albany, Adelaide, and Melbourne en route.

EXTRACTS FROM REPORT OF MAJOR G. L. LEE, NEW SOUTH WALES LANCERS.

Monday, 15th January.—About 5.15 p.m. I saw Colonel Porter with Warrant-Officer Duncan and Private Buckholtz, 1st Australian Horse. The latter reported that Lieutenant Dowling's patrol had been surrounded and cut up, and that he was the only one who had escaped. Warrant-Officer Duncan and two others had been detached by Lieutenant Dowling to examine Foster's farm, and so escaped.

The patrol had reconnoitred, according to instructions, and was about returning to camp when Warrant-Officer Duncan with two men was detached to examine Mr. Foster's farm at Kleinfontein. After doing so, he went in search of Lieutenant Dowling's party, failing to find them, he concluded they had returned to camp. At 4.30 p.m. I was informed that a New South Wales Lancer patrol had been cut up.

Upon examination it was found that Sqdn. Sergeant-Major Griffin, 1st Australian Horse, had been killed, and Corporal Kilpatrick, New South Wales Lancers, was found severely wounded through the lungs, and the lower jaw smashed.

Corporal Kilpatrick expired at 11 a.m.

One officer (Lieutenant Dowling) and 13 men are still missing.

Bloemfontein, 4th May, 1900.—Writing a full report is out of the question, as our position has been continually on the front of the Cavalry Brigade (1st), consequently we have not been off "perpetual motion." On arrival here we were on our last legs so far as clothing, cleanliness, and horses were concerned.

We have now been re-fitted afresh, and we start off on the second phase, viz., "Bloemfontein to Pretoria." So we now move off again with the 1st Cavalry Brigade, in the best of trim and spirits. The men are all old soldiers now, and will be very useful.

Jordan's Siding, near Kroonstadt, 15th May, 1900.—The night before leaving Springfield camp for marching northwards, Captain Nicholson marched into camp with 37 N.C.O.'s and men (38) of the New South Wales Lancers, and 39 horses. They had been sent on from Cape Town. We will march from here with about 8 officers and 92 N.C.O.'s and men.

I have pleasure in reporting the arrival of four cases of warm clothing, tobacco, chocolate, &c., from Lady Hampden.

Three boxes of tobacco came from Lady Duff; six cases (puddings, pipes, chocolate, &c.), from F. H. Dangar, Esq.

24th May (Queen's Birthday).—We crossed into Transvaal Territory in the afternoon. A few days' rest and we moved off again north-west for a similar move to the north of Pretoria.

We marched through the Magaliesberg range at Crocodile Pont, about 14 miles west of Pretoria. Then, turning to our right, we camped north of Pretoria some 5 or 6 miles.

The following day, 6th June, we went to "Waternal" and released the British prisoners, or rather, the prisoners released themselves by breaking out on the arrival of our advanced scouts. From the 6th June, we have been operating north-west of where we now camp.

Prisoners.—When the prisoners were released, our lot (who were captured on patrol), with the exception of Ford and Whittington who had escaped, were among the released. They all looked thin, and were destitute of clothing. After being released, a Court of Inquiry was held, and found they were free from all blame. It was the 1st Cavalry Brigade that rescued them, and our squadron was in the advance guard.

(It appeared that there were some 3,000 prisoners altogether; and that they hastened to join the British troops. The sight was characterized by Col. Lee as "novel.")

Eureka City, 12 miles from Barberton, 21st September, 1900.—On the 9th July, our Brigade was suddenly ordered south, to the east of the railway line.

After the engagement with Botha, we kept moving eastward on the south side of the Delagoa railway line, thence towards Carolina, where we joined with General Buller. After a few days there, we moved north (leaving General Buller), keeping Belfast on our right. Our arrival at Waternal-Onder station caused the Boers to release the prisoners (except officers) they had at Noitegacht. Returning through Machadodorp, we re-entered Carolina. Just before reaching here, Trooper Avarz (New South Wales Lancers) was shot through the kidneys, and died some time afterwards.

Wittekop Farm, 15 miles east of Heidelberg, 25th October, 1900.—We have just reached this place from Barberton. Returning, we stayed a few days at Machadodorp, and then moved off towards this place, via Carolina, Ermelo, and Bethel. We were fighting from Carolina, a rear-guard action, right up to here. I had two men wounded. The casualties on the march to here are over 100.

THE ARMY MEDICAL CORPS.

THE New South Wales Army Medical Corps despatched three Contingents to the war (the third being styled "The Imperial Draft"), and the Australian Army Medical Corps sent one. The division was originally organized and established through the exertions of Colonel (afterwards Surgeon-General) W. D. C. Williams. He had succeeded in placing the various units of Mounted Bearer Companies, Bearer Companies, and Field Hospitals, &c., with their Field Medical Equipment, Ambulance and Wag on Transport, in so efficient a condition as regards personnel, material, and horses, that upon the initiation of the war no difficulty was experienced in embarking expeditiously, complete and thoroughly-disciplined details. These comprised officers and men who had been carefully instructed in the technique and training of their arm, and who, therefore, required no hurried supplementary curriculum. They were also supplied with all the essential equipment upon a scale of entire comprehensiveness. These were the causes which enabled the Army Medical Corps to present so fine an appearance upon their arrival at the seat of war, and which insured them so cordial a welcome by Imperial officers, who found their collaboration with the Imperial Army Medical Corps invaluable. It was thus also that they acquitted themselves with skill and gallantry that elicited such an unequalled distribution of honours.

EXTRACTS FROM REPORTS OF COLONEL W. D. C. WILLIAMS, PRINCIPAL MEDICAL OFFICER, NEW SOUTH WALES ARMY MEDICAL CORPS.

Orange River, 7th January, 1900.—Our first camp at Green Point, about 1½ miles from the wharf, and about 3 miles from town. After duly reporting arrival to C. of S. and Surgeon-General of Army Corps and the G.O.C. of L. of C., I was informed that they had given the A.A.M. Corps the highest post of honour they could, by attaching us to the Field Army under Sir Redvers Buller.

Our inspection was all that could be desired, and Colonel Stevenson, the Inspecting Officer, was profuse in his compliments.

The order to move on to Orange River came just before dark. I had reveille sounded at 3.30 a.m. on 21st December, 1899, and at 7.20 a.m. stores were packed and camp cleaned up, and we were at the railway station at five minutes before 8 a.m.—our orders being to entrain at 8 a.m.

On arriving at Orange River about 8 a.m. on the 23rd December, we detrained and moved down to a point 1½ miles from the station, and pitched the Bearer Company camp and Field Hospitals as two distinct units. The Field Hospital was ready to receive patients at 5 p.m. the same day.

They were very short of Field Hospital accommodation, and we had orders to receive all the sick of the Royal Scots Greys, No. 37 R.F.A. Howitzer Battery, Imperial Mounted Infantry, Queensland Mounted Infantry, Remington's Guides, and the sick and wounded coming in by train from the north.

Naturally, we rapidly filled up, and had to extend our accommodation to nearly double our original scale. Major-General Elliott Wood, R.E., is in command here, and has made great demands on our Bearer company. Captains Roth and Martin, with three ambulances, one cart, and stretcher party, left here 14 days ago with a flying column, and did good work at the Sunnyside fight.

Another wagon and party went with the Scots Greys the next day to Douglas. On Friday, the 5th, Captain Perkins and Lieutenant Edwards, with ambulance and cart transport and stretcher party, moved off at 8 p.m. with a flying column of mixed arms under Colonel Alworth, north of Orange River. Captain Green, with two carts for ambulance transport and one transport cart and stretcher party, moved off at 4 a.m. next day, with another column of 700 men under Lieut.-Colonel Davidson, R.H.A., to a point south of Orange River, meeting the northern force by a R.E. pontoon bridge. This leaves only Major Fiaschi and myself to run the Field Hospital, and as we have twelve cases of enteric fever and over twenty cases of dysentery, besides a large number of other cases, including officers, we are busy-to a degree.

I have visited, by direction of the Principal Medical Officer, Orange River, the New South Wales Lancers and the New Zealanders at Arundel, and have adjusted one or two items re the medical services there.

The Principal Medical Officer next sent me to Belmont, Enslin, and the Modder, to visit Australian troops there.

23rd February, 1900.—I was instructed by the Principal Medical Officer, South Africa, to proceed from Orange River to Cape Town to meet the New South Wales Army Medical Corps units which arrived at Cape Town on the 17th inst. by the transports Moravian and Southern Cross. I was instructed to distribute them as follows :—

Moravian unit to proceed by sea to East London, and thence to Sterkstroom, and hand over to General Gatacre. This was in accordance with special instructions from Lord Roberts, Commander-in-Chief. As this unit was most urgently needed, the Moravian was turned round and left for East London a few hours after its arrival off Cape Town. Lieutenants Samuelson and Dick, New South Wales Army Medical Corps, remained behind and proceeded north for duty with the New South Wales Lancers and No. 1 Field Hospital (New South Wales).

From the composite Half-Bearer Company and Field Hospital units, I was instructed to detail for special temporary duty at the stationary 100-bedded Field Hospital two officers and twelve N.C.O.'s and men.

This was done, with Lieut.-Colonel Kelly in command. Miss Gould (New South Wales), Lady Superintendent Army Nursing Service Reserve, and three nursing sisters (New South Wales) are at this hospital. Miss Gould is in nursing charge of the District (Orange River).

Four (New South Wales) nursing sisters were detailed for duty at the Base Hospital, East London, and six nursing sisters went to the General Hospital, Wynberg.

Bloemfontein, 4th April, 1900.—The Commander-in-Chief paid an official inspection to the hospital we have established here in the Orange Free State Artillery Barracks. A wretchedly dirty and out-of-repair structure, when we took it over; but by heavy fatigue parties and the help of the Royal Engineers, we have made it passable. We run 150 beds. Lord Roberts went round each ward and cheered up the wounded, and at the end of the inspection graciously informed me that he was extremely pleased with all he had seen, and complimented the staff of the hospital on the manner in which they had carried out their difficult work. His Excellency also spoke in high terms of our New South Wales ambulance wagons, and stated he intended to recommend them as a pattern.

"A" SQUADRON MOUNTED RIFLES.

THIS was originally a draft from the regiment of New South Wales Mounted Rifles, which had been in existence for some years before the war, and served upon the partial-payment system. It still figures in the Army list as the 2nd Australian Light Horse, "New South Wales Mounted Rifles," on the Militia establishment.* The squadron comprised a picked body of especially smart men; good shots and daring riders, excellently mounted; and it did exceptional service during the war.

The establishment authorized in the first instance was as for Lancers, omitting "Major" and substituting 98 privates for 97.

The squadron at first consisted of 4 officers and 100 others, with 104 horses and 3 carts. It was despatched on 3rd November, 1899, and was shortly afterwards followed by a draft of 25 sergeants and rank and file, with 25 horses. One medical officer joined in South Africa, and 6 men were enrolled there. Of these details, 8 were killed or died, 5 were struck off the strength in South Africa, 1 officer was commissioned in the Imperial Army, and 2 men were sent back respectively from Albany and Cape Town; 4 officers and 113 men returned to Australia.

Subsequent to the departure of the squadron, however, a second Contingent had been formed, comprising "B," "C," and "D" Squadrons, "1st Regiment, New South Wales Mounted Rifles," despatched on 17th January, 1900 (vide record). The first Contingent, consisting of the squadron now referred to, and a company of Infantry (vide record) which left in the same ship, became absorbed as "A" and "E" squadrons respectively of this regiment; the company being mounted at the seat of war.

As already stated, the squadron embarked at Sydney on the transport Aberdeen, 3rd November, 1899, arrived at Cape Town on 6th December, and disembarked on the following day. Embarked again at Cape Town on the Transport Orient, 13th December, 1900, called at Albany and Melbourne, arrived at Sydney, and disembarked, 8th January, 1901.

PRINCIPAL OPERATIONS.

Left De Aar 30th December, 1899, with Colonel Alderson, for Prieska, to cope with a rising of rebels in the district.

3rd January, 1900.—Colonel Alderson returned to De Aar, leaving the New South Wales Mounted Rifles with a small detachment of the Remington Guides to take charge of the township and district (strength 130).

13th January.—Owing to a large force of Boers (estimated 800) attacking, retired towards De Aar; were reinforced by Colonel Alderson, and again advanced on Prieska, and after remaining a short time, marched to Orange River station.

Unit was sent to a farm at Ramah, about 15 miles east of Orange River station, to clear the Boers from the locality, where it remained till 10th February, when it was taken over by Colonel Hannay, and after fighting a severe action near Ramah, as the rear guard to Lord Roberts' column, advanced with the latter through Ram-dam and Jacobsdal to Klip Drift; where, following French's force to the relief of Kimberley, it was engaged with Cronje's army on 16th February.

Was detailed on the following day to follow Cronje, and located his laager at noon at Paardeburg, sustaining some casualties. Paardeburg followed; the commanding officer (Colonel Hannay) being killed.

On the surrender of General Cronje, the New South Wales Mounted Rifles were personally detailed by Lord Roberts to take over his laager and prisoners. It was then attached to Colonel Le Gallais' command, and joined by Colonel Knight, with the 2nd Contingent at Osfontein, 5th March. Took part in the engagements at Abrahams Kraal and Dreifontein and the march to Bloemfontein, which was reached on 14th March.

Marched to the Glen and engaged the enemy on 29th March; remained here until 1st May on outpost duty, and joined General Hutton, being part of the 2nd Corps (Colonel De Lisle). Occupied Brandfort, and present at the engagements at Vet River, and an important reconnaissance of Botha's army at Zand River, followed by a fight at Ventersburg-road on the 10th May. On arrival at Kroonstadt on the 12th May, were taken from General Hutton and attached to General Ian Hamilton; marching on the 15th May through Lindley and Heilbron to the Vaal River, which was crossed on 25th May.

Engaged with the enemy at Johannesburg on 28th May, and occupied the city next day. Marched on Pretoria, 2nd June, and were the first troops to reach the city on the evening of 4th June, after some few hours opposition.

Marching through Irene, moved on and fought a severe battle at Diamond Hill on 11th and 12th June; casualties heavy, and the regiment specially mentioned in Divisional Orders by General Ian Hamilton. Followed Botha's army to Bronkhurst Spruit, returning to Pretoria 16th June, from thence south to Heidelberg, which was taken on 23rd June; and thence through Villiersdorp, Frankfort, and Reitz to Bethlehem on 9th June. Here De Wet was hiding in the rough country to the south, from whence he broke out on 17th June. Followed him generally north-west, with numerous rear-guard engagements, when he eventually got away to the railway at Roodeval, where he had passed the day previously, burned a train, and moved on to the Vaal.

Sent out by the General Officer Commanding as a contact squadron to recover touch with De Wet, he having been lost by the Cavalry, and located him 20 miles north-east at Vredefort, where he was surrounded until 5th August, when, having moved north along the Vaal, the whole force of some five divisions chased him to the Megalesberg, through which at Oliphant's Nek he escaped on 15th August.

Moved westward by forced march, and relieved the Bushmen under Colonel Hore at Elands River on 16th August; thence again to Pretoria through Rustenburg on 25th August.

After taking part in sundry small reconnaissances in this district, the regiment was split into two, one part moving along the railway through Middelberg to Machadodorp, and the remainder south, where it took part in the severe fight at Rustenburg Drift, the regiment capturing a Krupp from De Wet (sent to New South Wales by the Commander-in-Chief); and to Bothaville, where there was a severe fight on 6th November. A large number of Boers were killed and taken prisoners; all their waggons, three Krupps, one 15-pounder, one 12-pounder, a Pom-pom and a Maxim were captured. Reached Kroonstadt on 17th November, joined by the remainder of the Contingent which had come from Machadodorp; entrained to Cape Town, and embarked for Sydney 13th December, Lord Milner and several Generals coming to the transport (Orient) to say good-bye. Reached Sydney and disbanded 8th January, 1901. The Contingent lost no horses on their voyage to South Africa. No men were taken prisoners during the campaign. Its strength was 130. Its honours were:—One C.B.; one D.S.O.; three D.C.M.'s.

CORPS ORDER BY COLONEL H. B. DE LISLE (2ND MOUNTED INFANTRY.)

Elands River Station, 13th June, 1900.

General Hamilton Commanding the Force has desired the Commandant to express to all ranks of the 2nd Corps and the Pom-Pom Section "A" his congratulations on their achievement on the evening of the 12th instant at Diamond Hill, of which he has made a special report to the Field Marshal Commander-in-Chief. In publishing this, the Commandant wishes to express his high appreciation of the way Captain Antill and the New South Wales Mounted Rifles advanced to take the hill yesterday, and the gallant way the regiment pushed forward beyond the crest under a murderous fire. He deeply regrets the casualties and especially the death of Lieutenant Drage, when bravely leading his men.

By order,

R. FANSHAW, Captain,
S.O. De Lisle's Corps.

COPY OF LETTER FROM GENERAL RIDLEY, COMMANDING 2ND BRIGADE, MOUNTED INFANTRY.

My dear Antill,

I cannot let you leave the country without telling how much I have appreciated the services of yourself and your men. Their gallantry, endurance, and cheeriness under very great stress have been beyond praise, and their skilful handling was admirable. Please remember me to all officers. I shall be glad to assist any of them, as far as I can, especially in any way to further any ideas they may have of making a career in this country.

Yours very sincerely,

C. RIDLEY, Brigadier-General,
2nd Brigade Mounted Infantry.

COPY OF LETTER FROM GENERAL ALDERSON, COMMANDING MOUNTED INFANTRY.

Major J. M. Antill, New South Wales Mounted Infantry, has been under my command on several occasions during the past year, and I have been much impressed with the way in which he has handled and managed his men. I consider that his Contingent has been more under control and in hand than any of the Colonial troops I have seen.

Major Antill is a dashing and capable leader in action, and remarkably cool under fire. I have personally seen him carry out some difficult and dangerous tasks with great success. I am extremely sorry Major Antill and the 1st Contingent New South Wales Mounted Rifles are now leaving my command, and I am very glad to have been able to bring his services especially to the notice of the Field Marshal Commander-in-Chief.

E. A. S. ALDERSON, Brigadier-General,
Commanding Mounted Infantry Brigade.

Pretoria, 16/11/1900.

The majority of the Contingent earned the following clasps:—(1) Relief of Kimberley, (2) Paardeburg, (3) Driefontein, (4) Johannesburg, (5) Diamond Hill, (6) Wittebergen.

EXTRACTS FROM DIARY OF CAPTAIN J. M. ANTILL, NEW SOUTH WALES MOUNTED RIFLES.

Honwater, 16/1/1900.—My last letter advised departure from De Aar through to Prieska on 30th ult. The column consisted of 80 mounted rifles, one company mounted infantry, one troop Remington's Guides, and two Maxim guns. The march (135 to 140 miles) was done in three days. The water is scarce in this district, necessitating fixed stages. Arrived within 15 miles of Prieska on the Orange River on the evening of the 3rd, finishing our march by 4 a.m. next day. Colonel Alderson in command, directed me to at once occupy the southern bank—the northern being in possession of the rebels—and to attack immediately they made their appearance, which was expected to be at sunrise (5 a.m.) At daylight some twenty of them showed and after a smart fire for some 20 minutes, in which five of them were wounded, they decamped, over the mountainous country towards Grigus-town. I crossed over on foot, and pursued them on foot, with a troop for some distance, but could not get near them. Returning to the huts occupied by them, secured a quantity of arms, ammunition, saddlery, &c., and found a Kaffir of their party badly wounded. Started to-day to make "dampers" from wheat; bread unprocurable.

Omdraau Vlei, 22/1/1900.—Prieska having been attacked by rebels on the 13th, I retired to this place (about 40 miles south), and here I await reinforcements which arrive to-morrow from De Aar. Our relief consists of a battery R.A., one squadron of Imperial Light Horse, two companies infantry, and two companies mounted infantry. I was, fortunately, able to effect retirement without loss of life or mishap; but only evacuated Prieska 1½ hours before it was occupied by the Boers in large numbers. I also got my prisoners away to De Aar, as well as 1,000 sheep. The horses we took were much needed. The men are in splendid health, two only being exempt from work. I am very pleased to state the discipline is all that can be desired, and our commanding officer has expressed his (Colonel Alderson's) very great satisfaction with the work done by our squadron. The duties are arduous for so small a unit, there being 20 miles of front to watch. This means only about two nights a week in "bed." There are also three roads diverging from here to patrol. I greatly miss veterinary assistance, as the country teems with horse sickness.

Zand River, 8/5/1900.—During an engagement yesterday, in which I was in command of the advanced guard, on coming in contact with the enemy numbering 8,000 Boers, the following were wounded:—Sergt.-Major McAlister, Corporal Osborne, Privates Tonkin, Mitchell, and McMillan. These casualties occurred at Zand River at railway crossing. The reconnaissance was for the purpose of gaining information of the enemy, and to prevent, if possible, his destroying the bridges and culverts on the railway line. General Hutton expressed himself as pleased with the manner in which the work was carried out by the New South Wales Mounted Rifles. The men of my unit (all ranks) have done most excellent work, and have earned commendation from the various officers under whom they have worked.

12/6/1900. We are now attached to Colonel Hannay's brigade, en route to Modder River. There has been continuous marching and fighting since I last wrote. Our squadrons have acted as advance guards right through and have taken part in almost every action, and have been conspicuously steady under fire.

NEW SOUTH WALES INFANTRY (SUBSEQUENTLY "E" SQUADRON 1st NEW SOUTH WALES MOUNTED RIFLES).

THIS was the only Infantry Contingent despatched from New South Wales; and it was subsequently mounted in South Africa, and became "E" Squadron of the 1st New South Wales Mounted Rifles. It was recruited from 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th regiments of New South Wales partially-paid infantry, the Scottish, Australian, and St. George's (English) Rifles, the National Guard (these four being Volunteer regiments), besides three men from the Field Artillery as transport drivers.

The recruits were carefully selected, not only on account of physique, but in regard to good character; and no man was enrolled who had not during the previous year classified in the musketry course, as either a marksman or a first-class shot, and been efficient. They were further required to be between 20 and 40 years of age, preferably single, height 5 feet 7 inches and upwards, chest 35 inches and upwards.

The company was embarked in the transport Aberdeen, leaving on 3rd November, 1899; and having on board also the squadron of Mounted Rifles that was destined to be "A" Squadron of the 1st Regiment. It comprised 5 officers, and 121 sergeants and rank and file; with 1 machine-gun, 1 horse, and 1 cart. Of these 11 were killed or died, 2 were struck off the strength in South Africa; 5 officers and 108 others returned to Australia.

RECORD OF SERVICE.

The corps left Sydney by steamship Aberdeen, 3rd November, 1899, and called at Melbourne on 5th; left again on 8th. Arrived Port Elizabeth, 3rd December at 10 p.m., left at 8.30 a.m. on 4th, and arrived at Cape Town, 7 a.m., 6th December. Disembarked on 7th December, at 5 a.m.

On the 9th December the Company joined "The Australian Regiment" at Belmont, and served with it until April, when the battalion was broken up. For an account of the excellent service done, vide "First Victorian Contingent" under "Australian Regiment."

The company was engaged on outpost duty at Enslin on the line of communications to Kimberley, from 10th December, 1899, to 30th January, 1900.

On 1st February it was converted into Mounted Rifles at Naauwpoort; Indian cavalry remounts being supplied. No difficulty was experienced, as, with the exception of about six, every man was a good rider. On 3rd February the corps was inspected by General J. D. P. French, and put to work as mounted troops next day.

The corps, under the command of Captain J. G. Legge, accompanied General Clements' column from Arundel via Colesberg to Norval's Pont, Orange River, thence through the south-western portion of the Orange Free State to Bloemfontein.

At Bloemfontein the corps, under the command of Captain W. Holmes, joined General Ian Hamilton's column as portion of De Lisle's (II. M.I.) corps, and proceeded thence to Pretoria, Diamond Hill, &c.

On 13th June, 1900, Captain F. A. Dove assumed command, vice Holmes (wounded and invalided). The corps returned to Pretoria and took part in the campaign against De Wet and De La Rey, under Generals Hunter, Broadwood, Lord Kitchener, and Clements respectively, operating in the Transvaal and northern part of Orange River Colony.

EXTRACTS FROM REPORT OF CAPTAIN J. G. LEGGE.

February, 1900.—On 20th February we went out with a force to repel an attack upon our right rear. One division, under Lieutenant Dove, was escort to some of the guns, where, unfortunately, Private Atchison was killed by a shell, together with his horse; Private Southey was also wounded.

With the other three divisions, reinforced by the Victorian Mounted Rifles, we were sent to occupy some kopjes in front. After crossing with two divisions under fire, and taking two ridges, we received an order to retire, which it appears was never meant for us. The men retired under a very heavy fire and kept their heads well. Finding the order was never intended for us, we again went across, and by evening drove the Boers along 5 miles of ridges. We were assisted greatly by a cross-fire from our artillery.

At dusk we were, with 55 rifles and 20 in reserve, opposed to 200 Boers in a farm and on the opposite ridge. The rest of our men were holding the other part of the ridge already taken. Here we came to a stop, and had a furious rifle duel, which the Boers finished up by firing shrapnel from an invisible gun at about 1,000 yards. They also used explosive bullets. We had good cover, however, and had no other loss. The whole of the company fought well under a heavy fire, and it is really wonderful how we escaped without loss.

As my orders were to secure all the positions I took, I had to move from one point to another, and entrusted the firing line to Lieutenant Holmes, who acted with great dash and coolness. At night we received orders to return to the guns and went back to camp with them. The Boers retired from the vicinity during the night. Major Enthoven, R.A., was kind enough to send over a message saying "We could not have done better."

After a reinforcement of guns on the 22nd February, our force advanced west, and another force from the camp attacked the Boers on the south, and gave them a heavy shell fire. Lieutenant Dove did an excellent piece of scouting on the right with his division, and drove off the Boer patrols, thus rendering the advance of the guns possible.

About 3 p.m. the Boers retired in great haste, making north, and we returned to camp at night.

The last fortnight has been extremely trying on both men and horses, through broken rest, irregular and deficient food and water. The latter is not due to the A.S.C., but to the rapid moves we have to make as mounted men.

EXTRACTS FROM REPORT OF CAPTAIN W. HOLMES.

28th April.—In camp, Israel's Poort. Detailed Lieutenant Dove and 25 men to scout in the vicinity of Thaba Mountain and Houtnek. Lieutenant Dove was instructed to locate the position of the Boer laager. In this duty he was eminently successful, and received the commendation of General Ian Hamilton and Colonel De Lisle. As a result of this reconnaissance, the battle of Houtnek was fought two days later.

30th April.—Marched at daylight, and came into collision with the enemy, who were strongly posted at Thaba Mountain and Houtnek. Lieutenant Dove and 25 men were detached from my command for scouting work; with the remainder I was ordered to occupy an advanced kopje, which proved to be an important strategical point. Remained in possession all day under very heavy fire (shrapnel and rifle) from front and right flank. At night retired to a farm house. No casualties.

Re-occupied the position of the previous day before dawn. Remained there under an exceedingly heavy fire until about noon, when I was ordered to withdraw as best I could, as the Infantry was advancing to attack. As the best means of leaving the position, I determined to retire at the gallop by groups of four, widely extended, to another hill about $\frac{3}{4}$ -mile in rear. In this retirement Private F. V. Smith was killed and Privates Lewis, Tweedie, and Maxwell, wounded, and two horses killed.

THE FIRST AUSTRALIAN HORSE.*

THE "First Australian Horse" should not be confounded with the "Australian Commonwealth Horse," which consisted of service battalions of Mounted Rifles, raised after the establishment of the Commonwealth, and despatched successively to the seat of war; the squadrons being from the different States. The First Australian Horse was Bush Cavalry upon the Volunteer system originally; but subsequently converted to the partial-payment class; and raised in 1895, chiefly by the exertions of Colonel J. H. K. Mackay, their first commanding officer, for service in the remote country districts of New South Wales. The movement became very popular; and several excellent squadrons were enrolled, of a superior class of men, who were admirably mounted. They wore a distinctive and somewhat remarkable uniform of dark green with black embroidery, of the hussar pattern; with handsome belts and accoutrements, including sabretaches. For irregular cavalry they attained a high standard of proficiency; and when the war broke out they were not behind their comrades of the other arms in seeking service, or obtaining honour.

The First Australian Horse despatched two Contingents; the first of which departed on the 14th November, 1899, taking their own horses with them. It consisted of 2 officers and 32 sergeants and rank and file, with 36 horses. Of these, 1 died, 1 officer and 2 others returned to Australia, 28 were transferred to the second Contingent, and 1 officer and 1 trooper were commissioned in the Imperial Army.

The second Contingent or service squadron left on the 17th January, 1900. It comprised 5 officers and 102 others, with 28 that joined subsequently from the first Contingent, and 112 horses. One man joined in Western Australia and one in South Africa. Of these, 2 officers and 8 others were killed or died; 1 officer and 121 others returned to Australia; 1 officer and 1 other quitted the corps in South Africa; and 1 officer and 2 others were commissioned in the Imperial Army. The squadron arrived in Sydney on 2nd May, 1901.

On arrival they were attached to the Royal Scots Greys serving in General French's cavalry division. Present at battle of Slingersfontein on 16th January, in which they were sharply handled; Lieutenant Dowling being severely wounded and captured, Sergeant-Major Griffin killed, and Corporal Kirkpatrick severely wounded, afterwards dying of his wounds. Sergeant-Major Griffin was the first Australian soldier who fell in the war. Present at various actions in Cape Colony during February.

Early in March the Service Squadron, which recently arrived from Australia, joined.

The Service Squadron, 1st Australian Horse, embarked at Sydney, on transport Surrey, on 17th January, and arrived at Cape Town on 23rd February, 1900.

Ordered to Modder River, arriving there on 3rd March; proceeded to Ossfontein and joined the Royal Scots Greys on 6th. Took part in the battle of Poplar Grove on the 7th March. Present at Dreifontein, 10th March, and occupation of Bloemfontein, 13th March. Formed portion of escort to Thaba 'Nchu under Major Allanby, Inniskilling Dragoons.

Present at Karee Siding, 29th March, under very heavy fire for some time. Present at Sannas Post and at affair at Evans' Farm.

Continued with advance to Pretoria, taking part in various actions en route. On 10th August, Lieutenant Vaughan was ordered into hospital at Pretoria, Lieutenant Wilkinson being the only officer left with the squadron.

Present at battle of Belfast on 27th; the splendid scouting of the Australian Horse enabling General French to turn the Boer right flank, and compel them to retire.

The squadron was engaged almost daily during the month of September, including the occupation of Barberton. Took part in operations round Ermelo and Bethel, where some heavy fighting took place; in fact, the squadron was engaged almost every day during October.

Returned to Pretoria for a much needed rest on 29th October, and remained until 12th December, on which date it was ordered to Machadodorp, joining some Queenslanders and South Australians, and employed patrolling railway line. Ordered to Belfast on 10th February, where remounts were obtained; and, on 14th, took part in sharp action near Belfast, the Australian Horse being complimented by General Kitchener on their gallant conduct.

On 25th February the squadron entrained at Middelberg for Pretoria, en route for Australia, and on 31st March embarked on s.s. Tongarivo at Cape Town, and arrived at Sydney on 2nd May, 1901.

At 2 a.m. on 8th March, the squadron marched with the 1st Brigade of the Cavalry Division and took part in the engagement at Poplar Grove. The first shot was fired by our artillery at 5.20 a.m., the Boers replying with shell and rifle fire.

In the afternoon Trooper Palmer was shot in the head (our first casualty).

This trooper behaved very pluckily when wounded; he bandaged his own head and rejoined the ranks, until compelled to retire through loss of blood. He has since been in hospital, and is now invalided to England.

No further casualties occurred amongst the men, but several horses were lost through exhaustion during the rapid advance.

The advance was continued next day; the squadron being detailed to furnish scouts, and when extended, covered in front and flanks about 5 miles of country.

10th March.—Battle of Dreifontein.—The squadron moved off with the Royal Scots Greys at daybreak, and occupied two kopjes in succession and used volley-firing at long ranges, which had the effect of stopping the independent firing and causing the Boers to open fire with artillery. In advancing across some open country, mounted, some Vickers-Maxim shells (pom-poms) dropped between the 2nd and 3rd troops. One horse was killed, and Trooper Owen Taylor wounded in the shoulder. Trooper Parry, whose horse was killed, had his leg broken.

This was a general engagement; 380 casualties—about 200 killed.

On Wednesday, 14th March, I heard certain British prisoners were in Bloemfontein Free State Hospital, and visited it in the hope of finding some of the Australian Horse prisoners who had been captured at Rensburg. I found Lieutenant W. V. Dowling, who had been seriously wounded, now fairly convalescent. He had lost the sight of one eye, his right thumb, and had been wounded in the thigh, but was otherwise in good health. Although he desired to continue serving throughout the campaign, the Medical Board decided that he should return to Australia.

The camp remained at "The Willows" until the 18th, when the brigade moved 4 miles further west to "Wessels Farm"; still without tents.

"A" BATTERY, ROYAL AUSTRALIAN ARTILLERY.

THIS unit was formed entirely of officers and men belonging to the Royal Australian Artillery, New South Wales; the officers and men of the Field Battery already in existence being taken as the nucleus, and the strength made up from the Garrison companies.

In point of personnel it was, probably, in point of discipline it was certainly, the most highly classed detail that left Australia for the war. The Royal Australian Artillery, New South Wales, under their "Naval and Military Forces Act of 1871" were subject to the Imperial Army Act and Regulations, and to the King's (then the Queen's) Regulations for the Army; therefore the code under which they were trained was a complete replica of that of the Royal Artillery. Thus the men were embarked under a perfect system of organization.

The battery was equipped with six 15-pr. B.L. guns, with their wagons, &c., and supplied in all respects as a complete unit of its arm. It was the only Australian Field Battery sent to the front.

CLOTHING.

This consisted of the brown F.S. uniform, cord pants and puttees, with helmets.

ESTABLISHMENT.

The following was the establishment approved:—One commanding officer; 4 subalterns (1 acting-captain); 1 battery sergeant-major; 1 battery Q.M.-sergeant; 6 sergeants; 1 farrier-sergeant; 4 shoeing-smiths; 2 collar-makers; 2 wheelers; 2 trumpeters; 6 corporals; 6 bombardiers; 76 gunners; 63 drivers. Total Field Battery, 175.

The actual captain of the battery was Captain H. Dangar, who was at the time of departure in South Africa as a Special Service officer. It was expected that he would join the battery there, which he did.

Pay and separation allowance were at the usual rates.

EMBARKATION AND RETURN.

The battery embarked at Sydney on the 30th December, 1899, in the transport Warrigal, comprising 7 officers (including Captain G. A. Marshall, A.M.C., and Rev. E. C. Beck, C.E. chaplain, with relative rank of major), and 170 non-commissioned officers, artificers, and rank and file, with 148 horses, 6 guns, 6 wagons, 11 carts. Arrived at Cape Town 5th February, 1900. Two of the men died in South Africa.

Captain Dangar joined at Cape Town on 6th February, and remained with the battery for some months.

On the 15th March, 1901, Lieutenant R. G. King, with a draft of 43 sergeants and rank and file, and 19 horses, left Sydney and proceeded to South Africa, where he joined the battery, and was posted for duty with the section under Captain Antill, serving with Colonel Williams' column in Transvaal.

The battery having completed about 18 months' arduous service, was ordered home, and the various sections (which had been detached for special duty in different parts of the country), having re-united, the embarkation took place on the transport Harlech Castle on 12th August, 1901, arriving at Sydney on 15th September; having called at Albany, Adelaide, and Melbourne on the passage.

SERVICE.

"A" Battery, soon after its arrival in South Africa, joined General Settle's column, which was then engaged in clearing the districts of Prieska, Kenhardt, and Goodania, in north-western Cape Colony.

In December, 1900, the left section joined Colonel Crabbe's column, then operating on the Orange River, and remained with him until March, 1901, taking part in the chase after De Wet in the Hopetoun district. Was instrumental in capturing De Wet's guns north of Pompean Pan in February. Also attached to Colonel Grenfell's column in Graff Reinets district, operating against Commandants Malan and Kritzinger.

The battery was subsequently employed in the Transvaal with Colonel Williams' and Colonel Remington's columns, and took part in the operations against the commandoes then in the field.

It was unfortunate that the battery, from beginning to end, was split up, and hardly served at all as a complete unit. Colonel Smith observes in his diary, 25th October, 1900:—"My battery now has its right section at Vryburg, its left at Prieska, and the centre here (Upington), thus covering a front of 360 miles." The sections, however, individually did especially good service.

Lieutenant E. A. Antill was promoted captain, and subsequently major (local rank) from 20th June, 1901.

For promotions of sergeants and rank and file see nominal roll of battery.

* Col. S. C. U. Smith, R.F.A.'s services are referred to in the extracts from his Report, next page.

EXTRACTS FROM REPORT OF COLONEL S. C. SMITH, ROYAL FIELD ARTILLERY.

7th April, 1900.—Arrived near Draghoender about 6 p.m., in a heavy downpour of rain; 2 inches in three-quarters of an hour.

31st March, 1900.—Camped awaiting supplies. A small column with one section Royal Australian Artillery, under Lieutenant Sweetland, proceeds to Upington. We are all put on half rations.

1st April, 1900.—A small party with two guns, under Lieutenant Christian, start for Kenhardt.

2nd April, 1900.—General Settle left for Upington, and left me in command here at Draghoender. I am guarding a swinging bridge, which is the only means of crossing the Orange River anywhere for miles, and is known as Coejas Pont. Received a report that the Boers, who are very active north of the river, proposed to cut the wire of the bridge. Sent out a troop of yeomanry to reinforce 40 men of Orpheus' Horse, holding the position.

3rd April, 1900.—Our patrol on the other side of the river had a brush with the enemy—no casualties.

12th May, 1900.—I am still at this station (Draghoender) as military commandant. We are not to shift at present as we are forming a supply depôt for future use. We are confronted by about 400 Boers just across the river, who are anxious to destroy the flying bridge here, so as to check our advance. They attacked us on the 13th of last month. We had two killed and one wounded (none of the Royal Australian Artillery); their loss being twelve killed and others wounded.

Owing to the ground on this side of the river being flat, I have made my defences on the other side, as it is hilly. With 120 men and one gun, I can keep the Boers at bay unless they can procure guns, which so far they have failed to do, although they have been trying to get them. Their numbers have been increasing, and we have been expecting further attacks daily.

A patrol was attacked on the 28th April, when we lost six horses. We have about 40 miles of river to guard and patrol.

An apprehended attack on Upington caused General Settle to order the two guns I had at Kenhardt to proceed to Upington, so that now four guns are there under Lieutenants Christian and Sweetland. I have despatched Captain Dangar to take command.

The Royal Australian Artillery lost their first man here on the 1st inst., Gunner W. Edwards, a garrison gunner, a good fellow; he was kicked by a horse and died of tetanus. He is buried here in our small graveyard, and we are erecting a wooden cross. He behaved throughout with great pluck.

10th July, 1900.—On the 2nd July the two guns stationed here (Draghoender) were ordered to De Aar. This leaves me here "gunless." I have applied to be relieved of my command here, so as to rejoin my four guns at Upington, but up to date have received no reply.

13th August, 1900.—I heard of Lieutenant Antill's safe arrival at De Aar with his section, and the fact that they had been ordered to Petrusville near the Free State border.

20th July, 1900.—Major Mynors arrived, and I handed over my command to him. Lieutenant Taylor, Rev. E. Beck (chaplain), and Head-quarters' Staff preceded by march route to Upington, where we arrived on the 23rd. Upington is 240 miles from Orange River station—the nearest point of railway. I found the officers and men of the battery all well.

4th August, 1900.—Received orders to proceed with a patrol of 50 men of the Border Scouts, Orpheus' Light Horse, and Imperial Yeomanry, down the Orange River towards German territory.

I was away 8 days and patrolled the country 90 miles west. I marched every morning at 6.45, and made 9 or 10 miles before breakfast, then 14 miles between that and lunch, and 6 or 7 miles in the afternoon. We averaged just over 5 miles per hour. I have just heard from Lieutenant Antill that his section have been ordered back to De Aar.

The officers are worse off for clothes than the men, and wander about in a sort of collection of patches.

25th October, 1900.—Captain (Dr.) Marshall rejoined head-quarters of the battery here (Upington) from Draghoender on 4th October. The need of his medical services being required there till relieved.

Lieutenant Christian, with his section, marched from Kenhardt yesterday for Prieska, there to be stationed.

My battery has now its right section at Vryburg, its left at Prieska, and the centre here, thus covering a front of 360 miles.

The men of the battery continue to keep their health well, and have throughout their stay in this country in this respect shown a marked difference to other troops. Lieutenant Antill reports from Vryburg all well.

21st November, 1900.—On this day the Rev. E. C. Beck, who has been with the battery throughout its service in South Africa, left to return to Sydney. His loss was much felt by the battery and by the inhabitants of Upington. By his kindness and forethought, by his interest in and assiduous attendance on the sick in the hospitals, he had endeared himself to all ranks, both military and civil. Although it was his misfortune, in common with many of us, to see no fighting, his services were invaluable, particularly to the wounded after the battle of Keis, and also to the many sick, and not a few dying, at Draghoender; and throughout his duties were carried out conscientiously, quietly, and unostentatiously.

On this day also, I subsequently heard that Lieutenant Antill with the right section were engaged in action at Vryburg. With much assistance from these guns, the garrison were enabled to beat off a party of looting Boers, and to recover a quantity of stock. They were in action twice on this day. They have been frequently utilized as mounted infantry, and acted as such on patrol.

10th November, 1900.—Lieutenant Christian with his two guns at Prieska was ordered to Colesberg, but on arrival at De Aar, were sent on to Petrusville.

A wire to-day (21st November) states that a laager of 250 Boers are in the drifts close to Petrusville, where Lieutenant Christian arrived yesterday.

13th November, 1900.—Lieutenant Sweetland with his two guns marched for Prieska.

I left for Prieska to-day (14th November) to take over command of the district.

17th November, 1900.—Arrived in Prieska, which is at present garrisoned by three companies, 3rd Welsh, one squadron Nesbitt's Horse, a few Border Scouts, and Cape Police.

19th November, 1900.—Lieutenant Sweetland, with the centre section Royal Australian Artillery, marched into Prieska, having marched 130 miles over very bad roads, in 6 days, bringing all his horses in fit—a capital performance, especially compared with our outward journey, through horse sickness.

4th December, 1900.—I received report from Lieutenant Christian that his section had been twice in action on the drifts near Petrusville, and had no casualties (24th November). 29th November, 1900.—Report from Vryburg states the right section Royal Australian Artillery had sent one gun, under Lieutenant Antill, as part of escort to a convoy to Schweizer-Rencke. On its way back, the convoy was attacked by a superior force of Boers, during which I regret to have to report Gunner B. Gowing of the battery was dangerously wounded and died shortly after. The gun did capital work.

A native runner was sent 16 miles into Vryburg for reinforcements, and the other gun, with some of the Australian Bushmen, proceeded to the scene of action, when the Boers retired.

No. 2 gun on this occasion fired 190 rounds, the engagement lasting from 7 a.m. till 7 p.m. Two battery horses were wounded and had to be destroyed.

Gunner B. Gowing is a great loss to the battery; he was a good shoeing-smith, a good and cheery soldier, and his death is much deplored by his officers and comrades.

4th December, 1900.—Heavy rain fell to-day, $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches. Our Christmas beer en route to here (Prieska) was intercepted by the Boers, and a convoy of much needed clothes was also "commandeered" by them.

25th December, 1900 (Christmas Day).—Still no reported advance of the Boers. Men had a capital Christmas dinner, with plum pudding and beer.

5th February, 1901.—In my last I was not in a position to say what was happening in the two outlying sections of the battery. It appears the right section, under Lieutenant Antill, went off with a column to Kuruman. On the 2nd January the Boers had surrounded the town. They arrived and relieved the town without opposition. On their way back they were attacked, and drove the Boers off without any Royal Australian Artillery casualties. They are now back to Vryburg, which was attacked on the 2nd of this month; the Boers being again easily repulsed.

Lieutenant Christian and his two guns from Petrusville joined Colonel Crabbe's column operating between Orange River and De Aar, to oppose any further incursions of the Boers.

The battery is doing very well indeed, and the men's behaviour is exceptionally good compared with other troops with which they are quartered, and I have every reason to be proud of them.

Lieutenant Sweetland's men fired the Royal salute here on the accession of King Edward the Seventh.

We have been improving our defences, which is work that interests the men and at which the Royal Australian Artillery are facile princeps.

FIRST NEW SOUTH WALES MOUNTED RIFLES.

THIS was the first Contingent despatched from New South Wales which did not consist entirely of drafts from local regiments or of men recruited from different local infantry regiments. One squadron from the Mounted Rifle Regiment had already been sent, together with a company of infantry which was mounted in South Africa. It was now resolved that three squadrons of Mounted Rifles should be raised; to be "B," "C," and "D" squadrons of the 1st Regiment, and that the squadron and company at the seat of war should be "A" and "E" squadrons respectively. Men who were good shots and good riders were required, and preference was given to those serving, or who had served, in the local forces, provided they fulfilled the necessary qualifications. Reservists and men of civilian rifle clubs were also eligible on the same terms.

The establishment authorized was:—Staff: 1 major, 1 adjutant and quartermaster, 3 sergeants, 2 drivers, 3 batmen; total, 10, with 11 horses. Details of a company (or squadron): 1 captain, 4 subalterns, 1 colour-sergeant, 4 sergeants, 1 farrier-sergeant, 4 shoeing-smiths, 2 buglers, 6 corporals, 92 privates (including batmen), 5 drivers; total, 120, with 130 horses. Dismounted: 1 saddler, 5 batmen riding spare horses), 2 cooks, 2 wagon-men; total, 10.

EMBARKATION AND RETURN.

The three squadrons of the regiment, under the command of Lieut.-Colonel Knight, embarked at Sydney on the transport Southern Cross on the 17th January, 1900, and arrived at Cape Town on 17th February, disembarking on the 19th. It comprised 20 officers, 385 sergeants and rank and file, with 404 horses and 17 carts. Of these, 3 officers and 20 others were killed or died, 3 officers and 4 others were transferred to 2nd and 3rd Mounted Rifles, 2 officers and 21 others were struck off the strength in South Africa, 1 officer and 4 others were commissioned in the Imperial Army; 11 officers and 336 others returned to Australia.

Campbell, and G. Murray, were wounded. Captain Cortis (Australian Medical Corps), under heavy fire, did splendid work in attending to the wounded.

Camped for the night near the scene of the day's engagement.

13th June, 1900.—Corps pushed on to Shietport. Two companies of 6th (Imperial) Mounted Infantry and "C" Squadron (Captain Hilliard) met with heavy rifle and shell fire, but our "pom-pom" effectively replied. Buried Lieutenant Drage in a garden at Rhenosterfontein Farm. Regiment returned to Elands River station and camped.

14th June, 1900.—Camped at Elands River station. News of Lieutenant Harriott's death received this morning. General Ridley reviewed the corps and complimented all hands on work done. The Gordon Highlanders and 6th (Imperial) Mounted Infantry cheered the New South Wales men for the gallantry displayed by them at Diamond Hill on the 12th inst.

27th June, 1900.—Lieutenant Newman, in charge of a small reconnoitering party, left camp at 4 a.m. in the direction of Heidelberg. Finding entrance to town clear the party entered, and amidst much enthusiasm hoisted the British flag. A number of Boers handed in their arms to Lieutenant Newman. The main body of troops entered Heidelberg before noon.

19th July, 1900.—Marched at daylight. Regiment acting as right flank guard to General Broadwood's force. On finding Boers in front, the regiment pushed on, and was directed to clear the right of the advance. This they did, and in the advance on the enemy's position Private Palazzi was shot through the heart. A small party of "B" Squadron lost touch owing to ground formation, and getting temporarily blocked by a wire fence found themselves exposed to a strong fire at short range. Private Biddle was killed and Sergeant Nicholson severely wounded. After this, "A" Squadron was sent, under orders from the commanding officer (Colonel De Lisle), to my left front, when they became so hotly engaged that for a time it was doubtful whether we would not lose heavily, but by the timely arrival of reinforcements, the enemy retired. Private Bennett, "A" squadron, was killed, and Lieutenant Tooth wounded.

20th July, 1900.—Bodies of Privates Bennett, Biddle, and Palazzi buried this morning; graves marked with crosses. Burial services read by Father Patrick.

23rd July, 1900.—Regiment marched at noon and camped for the night within 8 miles of Vredefort. On outpost all night; bitterly cold.

NEW SOUTH WALES CITIZENS' BUSHMEN.

THE New South Wales Contingent of Citizens' Bushmen was raised in the first instance by public subscription; whence the name. The object was to enrol a regiment of countrymen acquainted with the vicissitudes of bush life; good shots, good riders, and of sound physique—such a class of men, in fact, as would be fitted to cope with the enemy, according to the methods of the latter. Preference, therefore, was given to men who had previously served in South Africa, and those having experience of country work in Australia, management of horses, and bush travelling.

The following establishment was approved:—One lieutenant-colonel, 1 major, 1 adjutant, 1 quartermaster, 1 veterinary officer, 1 regimental sergeant-major, 1 quartermaster-sergeant, 1 transport-sergeant, 1 orderly-room sergeant, 1 orderly-room clerk, 2 drivers, 6 batmen, 1 cook, 1 wagonman; total regimental staff, 5 officers, 15 N.C.O.'s and men, with 14 riding and 4 draught horses. For each squadron:—One captain, 2 lieutenants, two 2nd lieutenants, 1 squadron sergeant-major, 1 squadron quartermaster-sergeant, 6 sergeants, 1 sergeant-farrier, 2 shoeing smiths, 2 trumpeters, 6 corporals, 87 privates, 4 drivers, 5 batmen, 2 cooks, 1 saddler, 2 wagonmen; total, 5 officers, 120 N.C.O.'s and men, with 117 riding and 8 draught horses, besides 4 pack and 9 spare. Four squadrons; grand total, 25 officers, 495 others; 482 riding horses, 36 draught, 16 pack, 36 spare.

Pay was issued at cavalry rates up to disembarkation and afterwards from 25s., with 4s. to commanding officers, to 15s. and 2s. 6d. subalterns; and from 9s. to sergeant-majors to 5s. to privates; buglers, saddlers, and farriers, 1s. per diem extra. Colonial allowance to all officers, 3s. per diem; on A.S. Corps duty, 5s. per diem additional. "Separation allowance" was also paid to wives and families of soldiers at the front. Vide also p. 85.

The Contingent left Sydney on the 28th February, 1900, at a strength of 30 officers and 495 of other ranks, with 570 horses and 10 carts. Of these, 1 officer and 29 others died or were killed, 6 officers and 8 others were transferred, 3 officers and 49 others were struck off the strength in South Africa, 1 officer and 1 other were commissioned in the Imperial army; 23 officers and 404 others returned to Sydney. The 4 officers additional in the total accounted for were appointed in South Africa.

OUTLINE OF SERVICES.

The Citizens' Bushmen embarked at Sydney on transports Atlantian and Maple-more, on 28th February, 1900; arrived at Cape Town 2nd April, and proceeded to Biera, where they disembarked on 12th April, and proceeded, via Marandellas, to Bulawayo.

Staff and "A" squadron served under General Plumer at relief of Mafeking. Served in General Plumer's Brigade, in General Baden-Powell's column, at the relief of Rustenburg. After a smart engagement, occupied the town 7th July, 1900.

"B," "C," and "D" squadrons, under Lt.-Colonel Airey, D.S.O., took part in a severe engagement at Koster's River on 22nd July, in attempting to relieve the Eland's River garrison.

"A" squadron, assisted by about 50 men of other details, defended Eland's River post against De la Rey with 1,000 men and guns for 13 days, refusing to surrender on any terms. They were eventually relieved by Lord Kitchener's force on 15th August, and Lord Methuen's column arrived from the north, 18th August, 1900.

GENERAL ORDERS.

By Major-General R. S. S. Baden-Powell, Commanding Frontier Force.

Rustenburg, Monday, 9th July, 1900.

The General Officer Commanding desires to thank Colonel Airey on the prompt and efficient measures taken by him to maintain Her Majesty's supremacy in Rustenburg, at a critical time, and the Australian Squadrons, C.B.C., for the dash and gallantry with which they made the affair a brilliant success.

By order,

A. J. GODLEY, Lt.-Colonel,
A.A.G. Frontier Force.

The Citizen's Bushmen embarked at Cape Town on their return to Australia, 9th May, 1901, and disembarked at Sydney, 11th June. They called at Fremantle, Adelaide, and Melbourne en route.

EXTRACTS FROM REPORT OF MAJOR W. HOWARD TUNBRIDGE, OFFICER COMMANDING 2ND REGIMENT RHODESIAN FIELD FORCE.

The Eland's River camp was attacked by Commandant De la Rey on 4th August, at daybreak.

The garrison consisted of 105 of the 1st Regiment Rhodesian Field Force (New South Wales), 145 of the 2nd Regiment, Rhodesian Field Force (141 Queenslanders, 2 Tasmanians, and 2 Rifle Brigade), 51 of the 3rd Regiment, Rhodesian Field Force (42 Victorians, 9 West Australians), and 201 Rhodesian and other South African volunteers, with two Canadians and 1 Army Service Corps man attached. One 7-lb. screw gun, 1 .303 Maxim, and 1 .45 Maxim. The attacking force consisted, as far as we could learn, of from 2,000 to 3,000 men, with 5 guns, 3 pom-poms, and 1 Maxim. As the camp was only a rest camp, and an attack in force had not been anticipated, the defences were not at all complete, consisting only of a series of half-moon loose stone walls on two sides of the main camp, and on a kopje held by Captain Butters and 80 men. As soon, however, as the sun had set, and shelling had ceased, the men not required for picket and watering guard were at once got to work throwing up earth on the outside of the walls, and trenching on the inside. Stores were also used to protect the back of the trenches, banked with earth on the reverse side, as, the camp being very small, a large proportion of the wounds were from the reverse fire.

The hospital was inside the camp, and was composed of the three ambulances of my regiment, covered by buck sheets, and on the first day of attack was only protected by a double row of biscuit boxes, about 5 feet high. This was raised afterwards and strengthened by another row of boxes and earth banked to the top on the outside.

The horses, oxen, and mules, being on an exposed slope, suffered very heavily, over 1,500 being killed altogether; but it was impossible to protect them.

A picket from Captain Butters' post first discovered the enemy, and opened rifle fire, which was immediately responded to by shell fire, which was kept up the whole day until dark.

The enemy shelled us daily until the 9th August, on which date only a few shells fell.

Over 1,700 shells were counted the first day, and about 480 the second day; but after that the firing gradually slackened until the afternoon of the 9th, when it ceased altogether.

Besides the shell fire, which was from all sides, rifle fire commenced on the morning of the 4th, and was kept up all day and night for eleven days, at distances varying from 300 to nearly 3,000 yards; the riflemen being in every case well protected by natural cover and seldom showing themselves.

The enemy brought up their guns to within 2,100 yards on the 5th, but were compelled to retire by our volleys, and finally took up a position out of range of rifle fire.

The gun we had was only an old 7-pounder muzzle-loading screw gun, mounted on a 9-pounder gun carriage, and we only had 100 rounds in all.

The gun was constantly getting jammed, and I had to take it to pieces four times, and finally filed the gas-checks on the shells, which had become burred up. The cartridges were black powder. The .303 Maxim also continually jammed with the ammunition served to them. Captain Hockings informed me of this, and asked if I would allow our ammunition to be used, which I did; the elevation had to be increased about 200 yards, and after this the gun worked excellently.

The .45 Maxim with Captain Butters also jammed once or twice, but was got to work well afterwards; this also had black powder.

On the 8th, Commandant De la Rey summoned Colonel Hore to surrender, officers to be allowed their arms and to be permitted to march the men to the nearest British post. This was refused.

The siege was raised on the evening of the 14th. Lord Kitchener's advance guard was seen approaching about sundown on the 15th, and he marched into camp on the 16th. Lord Methuen arrived from Magato Pass on the 18th, and the garrison returned to Mafeking with him next day.

I am sorry to have to report a rather heavy casualty list of New South Wales men under my command—4 killed and 6 wounded.

The casualties were very heavy on the first day; nearly all being from fragments of shells, and were very bad wounds.

Surgeon-Captain Duka and his staff—one of them, Trooper W. Hunt of your Colony—were untiring in their work, which was all done under shell fire. Captain Duka did splendid work the whole time, and had his hands very full.

IMPERIAL BUSHMEN.

THE New South Wales Imperial Bushmen was one of the regiments raised in response to an invitation from the British Government, which (the second phase of the war having commenced) now asked the Colonies for hardy bushmen—men who could ride, shoot, and find their way about—in order to fight the Boers with their own weapons.

Volunteers were tested and subsequently enrolled in Cootamundra, Gundagai, Wagga, Young, Hay, Cooma, Moree, Cobar, Tenterfield, and Bourke.

PAY.

Pay was issued by the New South Wales Government at Imperial Cavalry rates until landed in South Africa. These ranged from 23s. per diem with 4s. field allowance in camp to lieutenant-colonel, to 9s. 10d. and 2s. 6d. to 2nd lieutenant; and from 6s. 4d. per diem to regimental sergeant-major, with 1s. field allowance, to 2s. 3d. to buglers and privates. “Separation allowance” was also granted to wives and families of soldiers serving in South Africa, from 2s. 3d. to warrant-officers’ wives to 1s. 1d. those of privates; and 2d. per diem each child, or 4d. per diem to wife, with 1½d. each child, if in quarters or drawing lodging allowance.

EXTRACT FROM REPORT OF MAJOR D. MILLER.

Ottoshoop, 4th September, 1900.—Since my last report we have been continually engaged in sniping, skirmishes, or heavier engagements daily, and are now awaiting orders for another advance.

General Carrington and staff left us, and are now at Buluwayo, organizing a force there to repel a threatened Boer invasion of Rhodesia.

Lord Errol, in command of our first brigade, has assumed command of our division, which is under the orders of Lord Methuen, who marched through here (Ottoshoop) a few days ago with his force, which had been on march since early in May.

The horses have suffered terribly up to now; we have lost nearly 200; some of our very best amongst them.

Leeupan, 20th September, 1900.—We are now in Lord Methuen’s division, General Douglas’ column, operating in the north-west corner of the Transvaal in the Marico and Lichtenburg districts. We marched out of Ottoshoop in the direction of Lichtenburg on the 9th inst., since when we have had five encounters with the Boers, who bolted each time.

The immediate results of the fights consist of 50 prisoners, 40 wagons with spans complete, a number of cattle and sheep, besides rifles, ammunition, &c.

On our side we lost Lieutenant White, killed in action, also two troopers; and one officer, Captain Byrie, with several troopers, were wounded.

Lord Methuen joined us on Tuesday, but marched out the same day, taking 200 of our regiment to act as scouts for his column.

On Wednesday he had a fight, in which he captured 27 prisoners, 28 wagons, 1 15-pr. which the British lost some time ago at Colenso, 1 Maxim, 20,000 rounds of ammunition, sundry rifles, 3,000 sheep, and 500 oxen.

He then continued to march south to relieve some 300 troops who are held up by 2,600 Boers.

We are now camped about 35 miles south-west of Lichtenburg.

Cape Town, 6th November, 1900.—Colonel Mackay returned on the 23rd September from Lord Methuen's command. The General was delighted with the work done by the "Bushmen," and retained "D" Squadron for his personal bodyguard.

27th September.—Moved out at 4 a.m., marched until noon, covered 12 miles; occupied Reitkuil. The result of the day's work was—9 prisoners, 95 oxen, 1 wagon, some rifles and ammunition. At 5 p.m. the Boers attacked our outposts. Mounted troops turned out and engaged the enemy, volley-firing at long ranges. Pom-poms were brought into action, also our 15-prs. with shrapnel. The enemy, as usual, dispersed.

29th September.—Convoy moved out at 2.30 a.m. and marched 15 miles to Dinkfontein. Commandant Lemmer attacked Lord Methuen's force, which is marching parallel to ours; several casualties. These Boers have now adopted precisely similar formations, columns of troops, &c., to ours, the result being most confusing. They are also dressed in khaki.

30th September.—Moved out at 2.30 a.m. Arrived at Rietpan at 10 a.m., 14 miles; found Lord Methuen's column here.

12th October.—Moved off at 2 a.m., trekked 10 miles, and surprised the residents at Waterval. Captured 9 prisoners, 500 oxen, 300 sheep, several trek wagons, 1 ammunition wagon, also large quantities of mealies, hay, &c.

17th October.—Moved out at 3.15 a.m.; arrived at Dammenburg at 8.30 a.m. (10 miles), again overtaking Lord Methuen's column. The Boer gun shelled Lord Methuen's camp, with serious results.

18th October.—Moved off at 3 a.m.; arrived at Zeerust at noon.

19th October.—Moved out at 3.30 a.m.; halted at noon.

20th October.—Moved out at 4 a.m. General Douglas engaged the enemy at daybreak. Lord Methuen assisted.

Arrived at Mafeking at 3 p.m., 21st inst.

This record, which it is impossible to beat, speaks volumes for the spirit and soldierly qualities of the Australian soldier. No column has made more night marches; and one march, made on the night of 11th March, 1902, from Brugspruit, over the difficult Wilge River to Doornek (230), a distance of 45 miles, which, with the return journey, makes a distance of 75 miles, is worthy of mention. Finally, to Lieut.-Colonel Lassetter, Commanding 2nd New South Wales Mounted Rifles, and to Major Lydiard, 2nd Mounted Rifles, the officer commanding Column desires to express his grateful thanks.

One hundred and forty-one officers, N.C.O.'s, and men, never missed a trek during the regiment's service in the field.

THIRD NEW SOUTH WALES IMPERIAL BUSHMEN.

RECORD OF REGIMENT.

THE Third New South Wales Imperial Bushmen was a regiment formed at Klerksdorp, Transvaal, on 4th May, 1901, from drafts consisting of 230 officers, N.C.O.'s and men intended for the New South Wales Imperial Bushmen and the Citizens' Bushmen; but owing to these two regiments being under orders for home, the men were formed into a separate regiment under the command of Major Hon. Rupert Carington.

This regiment was attached to Lieut.-Colonel E. C. Williams D.S.O.'s Column, and took part in all the engagements of that Column (with the exception of Karanfontein), and during the year marched over 4,000 miles.

During the months of May, June, July, August, September, and part of October, they operated in the Western Transvaal, where numerous captures of prisoners, wagons, and stock were made. On 24th October, the Column left Klerksdorp and went to Eastern Transvaal, where they took part in General Bruce Hamilton's operations, resulting in heavy loss to the enemy.

● In January, 1902, another squadron was formed from Australians, recruited in Cape Town, and in February another was formed, bringing the strength of the regiment up to over 500 men.

On 4th May, 1902, some of the time-expired men of the regiment proceeded home in the transport Ansonia; but many of the men and nearly all the officers volunteered for further service.

A draft of 200 Riverina bushmen, raised by Mr. J. S. Horsfall, of Widgawa, New South Wales, and the volunteers for further service, joined the regiment at Klerksdorp, Transvaal, and were attached to Colonel Williams' Column, who again was operating in the Western Transvaal, and served until peace was declared in June, 1902.

The regiment sailed from Durban, Natal, under the command of Lieut.-Colonel Hon. Rupert Carington, in the transport Drayton Grange, 12th July, for Sydney, calling en route at Albany and Melbourne, and arriving 11th August.

EXTRACT FROM FORCE ORDERS, KLERKSDORP, 4TH JUNE, 1902, PARA. 2.

The following telegram from Sir Ian Hamilton is published for information :—

"I am ordered to revert to my post as Chief of Staff, Head-Quarters, and must, therefore, bid you and your gallant troops farewell. Convey to them my very good wishes, and congratulate them from me in having played so distinguished a part in the closing scenes of the South African War, whereby I am convinced you have contributed in a very special degree to the termination of hostilities."

EXTRACT FROM FORCE ORDERS, KLERKSDORP, 16TH JUNE, 1902, PARA. 3.

The officer commanding Column wishes to express his regret at the departure of the 3rd New South Wales Imperial Bushmen, who have been under his command for over a year in the field, during which time they have gained an excellent reputation for the good work they have done, and well maintained the credit of Australian soldiers. He wishes all ranks a safe voyage and good luck.

LETTER FROM MAJOR-GENERAL R. S. FETHERSTONHAUGH.

To Colonel Carington, officers and men of the 3rd Imperial Bushmen.

Now that you are on your way home I wish to thank you for your good and gallant services in the Western and Eastern Transvaal, especially for your gallant conduct in the Tellowa Valley, and also for the capture of the Middelberg commando on the Bothasberg in the Eastern Transvaal.

I have written to General Hutton, commanding troops in Australia, and sent him a diary of the combats and skirmishes in which you took part, and I have told him that your conduct was most gallant, and that no night or day march was too long for you.

I hope that your friends and relations in New South Wales will hear of your distinguished services, and that you will live many years to wear the medal that you have so well earned. I shall always look back to the time I served with the 3rd Imperial Bushmen with the greatest pride, and I wish you a good voyage and a happy and prosperous future.

R. S. FETHERSTONHAUGH,
Major-General.

FIRST BATTALION AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH HORSE.

AFTER the Commonwealth had been established and the Australian Defences handed over to the Federal Government, it was decided to send further Contingents of Mounted Rifles to the war; and that battalions of a representative character should be formed, with squadrons from the different States. Then the first of these was made up of three units from New South Wales, one from Queensland, and one from Tasmania.

The establishment of each unit authorized was 121 of all ranks. Pay at cavalry rates for all ranks, viz., basis of 1s. 2d. for privates till date of embarkation, and from date of embarkation 5s. per diem for privates; other ranks at the rate allowed to Imperial (Australian) Contingents. Officers were granted an allowance of £30 to provide uniform, equipment, and saddlery. Vide also 2nd A.C.H., Victoria.

The men selected were required to be good shots and good horsemen; men of previous service having preference, if medically fit. Only single men were taken, and unmarried officers had preference, other conditions being equal.

The system of selection and purchase of horses was left to State Commandants, as with previous Contingents. Officers were allowed two horses; and 10 per cent. spare horses were to be sent with each unit.

The battalions were in the first instance known as "——— Battalion Commonwealth Contingent," but this was altered to "Australian Commonwealth Horse."

DETAILS OF ESTABLISHMENT.

Staff:—1 lieutenant-colonel, 1 major, 1 adjutant, 1 quartermaster, 1 medical officer, 1 veterinary officer, 1 regimental sergeant-major, 1 regimental quartermaster-sergeant, 1 orderly room sergeant.

Each company (or squadron):—1 major or captain, 4 subalterns, 1 company sergeant-major, 1 company quartermaster-sergeant, 1 farrier-sergeant, 4 sergeants, 3 shoeing-smiths, 1 saddler, 2 buglers, 6 corporals (including paid lance-sergeants) at the rate of two per battalion), 97 privates, including 4 paid lance-corporals.

Twenty-one officers and 330 others returned by transport Drayton Grange—which left Durban on 11th July, and arrived at Sydney on 11th August, 1902, having called at Albany and Melbourne on the way.

OPERATIONS.

This battalion proceeded on 19th March, 1902, by train from Durban to Newcastle, and thence to Klerksdorp on 10th April, arriving at the latter place on the 13th. Joined Column under the command of Colonel De Lisle, which formed part of Thornycroft's brigade.

This Column was inspected by Lord Kitchener on 22nd April, who expressed himself as pleased with the appearance of men and horses.

The Column was employed clearing the district north of Klerksdorp, and took part in a drive which commenced on 7th May, moving westward to the Kimberley-Mafeking railway blockhouse line. In this, 251 prisoners, including General De la Rey's brother, were captured, also 300 horses, 144 rifles and bandoliers, 6,000 rounds ammunition, and a large quantity of stock.

Colonel De Lisle, who was leaving for England, handed over his command to Colonel Williams. The Column then returned to Klerksdorp, reaching that place on the 21st May, where the regiment remained until the declaration of peace, when they were ordered to Elandsfontein to prepare for return to Australia.

The regiment proceeded by rail to Newcastle on 29th June, and to Durban on 9th July, for embarkation.

PROMOTIONS.

Major J. H. Lee to Lieut.-Colonel, 5th June, 1902.

FIFTH BATTALION AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH HORSE.

THIS consisted of four squadrons, with the following establishment:—Staff—1 lieutenant-colonel, 1 major, 1 adjutant, 1 quartermaster, 1 medical officer, 1 veterinary officer, 1 regimental sergeant-major, 1 quartermaster-sergeant, 1 O.R. sergeant; total, 6 officers, 1 warrant-officer, 2 sergeants, with 9 horses. Squadron of 4 troops—1 major or captain, 4 subalterns, 1 squadron sergeant-major, 1 squadron quartermaster-sergeant, 4 sergeants, 1 sergeant-farrier, 3 shoeing-smiths, 1 saddler, 2 trumpeters, 6 corporals, 97 privates; total, one squadron, 5 officers, 6 sergeants, 5 artificers, 2 trumpeters, 103 rank and file—in all, 121, with an equal number of horses. Total of battalion of 4 squadrons, 26 officers, 1 warrant-officer, 26 sergeants, 20 artificers, 8 trumpeters, 412 rank and file; in all, 493, with 493 horses.

ORGANIZATION.

It was resolved no longer to create composite battalions representing different States, but to raise the whole corps in New South Wales on a territorial basis, in order to associate defined districts, and the military units existing in those districts, with each battalion, squadron, and troop. By such means it was considered the battalion would consist of officers and men who represented the State. Each squadron would represent a distinct district, and the troops in that district; and each troop would further represent a particular corps or military unit in a defined locality. Officers and men would thus bring with them to the squadrons and troops so formed (representative of defined districts and the troops belonging to such districts), all the cohesion, comradeship, and local association which are such valuable elements in promoting the highest standard of discipline in the field, and gallantry before the enemy.

Enrolment, therefore, was carried out under the General Officer Commanding Commonwealth Forces, New South Wales, by the commissioned officers of regiments and squadrons of the districts and localities selected to furnish a quota of men; and, as soon as appointed, the officers commanding battalion, squadrons, and troops assisted. Preference in selecting men was given (1) to those then serving in existing military units in each of the districts named; (2) to those who had served in South Africa; (3) to civilians possessing the most valuable military qualities. Enrolling officers were required to ascertain that the applicant fulfilled the required conditions, and that he was a suitable representative of the district troops; upon which he was furnished with a certificate and directed to present himself at the place of concentration of the squadron upon a given date. Candidates were then medically examined, tested in horsemanship and rifle practice; and finally, if passed, enrolled and attested.

Upon this principle "A" Squadron represented New South Wales Lancers and troops in localities covered by this regiment; "B" Squadron—New South Wales Mounted Rifles and troops in such localities; "C" Squadron—Australian Horse and troops in localities covered by half this regiment; "D" Squadron—Australian Horse and troops in localities covered by half this regiment.

The four "troops" into which each squadron was divided were thus recruited:—

"A" Squadron (Lancers)—1st troop—Sydney squadron, enrolled at Sydney; 2nd troop—Camden-Berry squadron, enrolled at Berry; 3rd troop—Maitland, Singleton, and Newcastle squadron, enrolled at Newcastle; 4th troop—Parramatta, Richmond, and Windsor squadron, enrolled at Parramatta.

"B" Squadron (Mounted Rifles)—1st troop—Tenterfield, Inverell, Lismore, and Casino squadron, enrolled at Tenterfield; 2nd troop—Bathurst-Molong squadron and Forbes half-squadron, enrolled at Bathurst; 3rd troop—Picton-Camden squadron, enrolled at Camden; 4th troop—Bega and Canterbury half-squadrons, enrolled at Canterbury.

"C" Squadron (Australian Horse)—1st troop—Armidale, Glen-Innes squadron, enrolled at Armidale; 2nd troop—Tamworth-Gunnedah squadron, enrolled at Tamworth; 3rd troop—Scone, Belltrees, and Muswellbrook squadron, enrolled at Scone; 4th troop—Mudgee, Lue, and Rylstone squadron, enrolled at Mudgee.

"D" Squadron (Australian Horse)—1st troop—Goulburn squadron, enrolled at Goulburn; 2nd troop—Braidwood-Araluen squadron, enrolled at Araluen; 3rd troop—Bungendore and Michelago squadron, enrolled at Bungendore; 4th troop—Gundagai, Cootamundra, and Murrumburrah squadron, enrolled at Murrumburrah.

SERVICE.

The battalion embarked on transport Columbian at Sydney, on 22nd May, 1902, and disembarked on 18th June, at Durban. It comprised 22 officers, 465 other ranks, with 490 horses; 91 were struck off in South Africa, and 22 officers, 374 others, returned.

This splendid battalion had no chance of displaying its capabilities, the war having ended before its arrival. During its short stay in South Africa, half the battalion was stationed at Newcastle, Natal, and the other half at Durban, and subsequently at Gillett's, Natal.

The battalion again embarked at Durban on the transport Manchester Merchant on 1st July, and disembarked at Sydney on 1st August, 1902, having called at Albany, Adelaide, Melbourne, and Hobart en route.

SPECIAL SERVICE OFFICERS.

A CERTAIN number of officers were sent to the war, with the sanction of the Imperial War Office, not detailed to Contingents, but independently, for the purpose of employment at the theatre of operations, as authorized by the Commander-in-Chief. Thus, either in staff employ or attached to Columns in the field they would gain valuable experience in the many changes and chances which occur during active service. They would also be afforded opportunity to observe and sustain the vicissitudes and privations of warfare, and to note the value of initiative, and capability to act promptly upon any available resources in each and every emergency.

It should be noted that four of the officers whose record is included in the subjoined series, did not originally proceed to South Africa as Special Service officers, but were, nevertheless, employed as such, and could not, therefore, properly be omitted. These were:—

Onslow, Lieut.-Colonel.—Went to South Africa at his own expense, and was attached to Field Force as Special Service officer.

Rose, Rev. H. J.—Went as chaplain with Second Contingent, Australian Horse; and was attached to South African Field Force.

Morris, Major.—Was in charge of troops on Amillian, and was employed at the base.

Niesigh, Captain.—Went with draft of "Spare" details, and was employed with staff, Oversea Colonials.

Nine N.C.O.'s and men went as officers' servants.

Bayly, Major (afterwards Lieut.-Colonel) M. W.—Proceeded to South Africa 3rd November, 1899, by the transport Aberdeen. He saw service in various capacities, and was taken prisoner. Subjoined is his own account of his experience:—

"Cape Town, 23rd August, 1900.—I have been with Lord Methuen's force attached to his staff, and then to Lord Chesham with the 1st Imperial Yeomanry Brigade of the same division. Briefly, events were as follows:—Actions, Swartz Kopjesfontein, Spitzkop, about April (the dates were in my diary which I had to destroy when captured); then Ville Bois Mareuil; then marched to Hoopstad, Bothaville (south bank of Vaal River), to Kroonstad, where we arrived on the 28th May. This was the longest march without coming in contact with the Boers during the campaign—250 miles. We had a convoy of six miles of waggons, and lost 3,000 oxen en route. I was temporarily attached to the A.S.C., and learned a good deal re transport. Thence on to Lindley, where we were too late to relieve the 13th Yeomanry, but defeated De Wet and recaptured Lindley. From there we marched to Colville and on to Heilbron, arriving on the 7th June. Thence along the main line (where we fought C. De Wet at Kopjesfontein) and Rhenoster, but again too late to rescue the Sherwood Foresters. Marched on to Kroonstad and back in a hurry to help Colonel Spence at Kopjesfontein, and chased De Wet, who still had 800 Sherwood Foresters in tow. Thence to Eland's Laagte, where De Wet got away on the 19th June. Ordered to Kroonstad once more, and here I was captured en route while foraging for cattle, &c. My mate's horse was shot and I couldn't get him away, hence capture. The Boers took us to Rietz and Bethlehem where we met Steyn; re-arrested by Theron and taken to the mountains during the fight at Bethlehem, before the British got in. We were then permitted by Skyn to try and get back to Bethlehem, which we eventually succeeded in doing. We were heartily glad to be once more with 'our own.' General Hunter was very kind to us. Meanwhile the 1st Division trekked to the Vaal, and I returned to Cape Town."

Grieve, Lieutenant G. J.—Embarked at Sydney on transport Kent on 28th October; arrived at Cape Town, 1st December, 1899. Attached to Royal Highlanders (Black Watch). Killed at Paardeberg Drift, 18th February, 1900.

EXTRACTS FROM REPORT OF LIEUTENANT G. J. GRIEVE.

Modder River, 1st January, 1900.—On arrival at Cape Town on the 6th December last, I was detailed by the Chief Staff Officer, line of communications, as railway staff officer, Cape Town.

As I felt that this position would not enable me to see active service, I interviewed the Chief Staff Officer, who informed me that I must remain in the position referred to for the time being.

On the 13th I heard of the losses sustained at Magersfontein; I immediately called on the Chief Staff Officer who, after a large amount of hesitation, gave me orders to leave at once and report to the Officer Commanding Highland Brigade here. I left at an hour's notice, and on arrival was appointed to the command of "T" Company, 2nd Black Watch.

Since my arrival I have been constantly employed on outpost duty and working parties, owing to the shortness of officers (only eight) four of whom are under six months' service) in the battalion; I am on outpost every second day.

The great loss sustained by the battalion has seriously affected its morale, and I think it will be left here (Modder River) when an advance takes place. In that case I intend to apply to join another battalion of the brigade or get appointed to the staff of Brigadier-General Macdonald, to whom I am known.

The position of the enemy is very strong. I have been twice on escort to the guns with my company on reconnaissance, and have been within 2,000 yards of their trenches, which are in tiers with good head cover. Shelling on both sides goes on daily, but their shells are very defective, while our 4.7 naval guns always silence their guns. I have been under fire on four occasions, but only of a very trivial nature.

GENERAL ORDER (NEW SOUTH WALES) 146, 19TH OCTOBER, 1900.

The General Officer Commanding has much pleasure in making known through General Order the following opinions expressed by the immediate Commanding Officers of the late Lieutenant Grieve, and which have only recently been received:—

From Major-General H. A. Macdonald, C.B., D.S.O., Commanding Highland Brigade.

"You should all be proud of Lieutenant Grieve. He was ever foremost in his desire to show that those from Australia would not be behind in the attack; and thus he was always ahead gallantly leading his men to victory, men who deplore his loss and who knew his skill as a leader. The officers and men of the famous battalion to which he was attached—a battalion whose record is second to none—mourn for him as for one of themselves, and in the history of the Royal Highlanders, the name of Lieutenant Grieve will find honorable mention and abiding record, an honour to his people and to his country."

From Lieut.-Colonel A. M. Carthew-Yorstoun, Commanding 2nd "The Black Watch."

Bethlehem, 9th August, 1900.

To the Brigade Major, Highland Brigade.

Sir,—I have the honour to submit the following report concerning late Lieutenant Grieve of the New South Wales Forces, as it might be of use or give pleasure to his relatives :—

"Lieutenant Grieve was attached to the battalion under my command in January, 1900. He was a most useful officer, full of resource and energy. He knew his work thoroughly, and was in command of a company for some time. He was present at the action at Koodesburg, as well as at Paardeberg, and on each occasion distinguished himself by untiring energy and zeal. His loss was much regretted by this battalion, with whom he was most popular, on account of his genial temperament, as well as his sterling qualifications as an officer and a soldier. He had much influence with the men, in whose welfare he took great interest.

I have the honour to be, &c.,

A. M. CARTHEW-YORSTOUN, Lieut.-Colonel,
Commanding 2nd 'The Black Watch.'

Bridges, Major (now Brigadier-General) W. T.—Embarked at Sydney on transport Aberdeen, 3rd November, arrived at Cape Town, 6th December, 1899.

Attached to R.A. Cavalry division while in South Africa. Brigadier-General Bridges was present at the operations in Cape Colony, south of Orange River, 1899–1900, including action at Colesberg. He was also with the army at the relief of Kimberley. Present at operations in Orange Free State, February to May, 1900, including Paardeberg, Poplar Grove, Drifontein, and Karee Siding. Being taken with enteric fever was sent to hospital in Bloemfontein, and upon becoming convalescent, was invalided to England, from whence he returned to Sydney, via Cape Town, arriving 21st September, 1900. Queen's Medal with three clasps.

EXTRACT FROM MAJOR W. T. BRIDGES' REPORT.

Bloemspruit, near Bloemfontein, Orange Free State, 20th March, 1900.—I left Orange River and proceeded to Modder River Station on 5th February. At this place I saw the siege guns in action against the trenches of Magersfontein. It was the custom to fire a few rounds at sunrise and sunset. The guns (5" B.L.) were laid by means of General G. A. French's telescopic sights, i.e., a telescope was attached to a bar fixed to the fore and hind sights. The arrangement I was told acted satisfactorily, though it was only roughly made on the spot.

The cavalry division was re-organized at Modder as follows :—

1st Brigade (Colonel Pater in command).—Carbineers, Scot's Greys, Inniskillings, New South Wales Lancers; R.H.A., T, Q, and U; Lieut.-Colonel Rochford.

2nd Brigade (Colonel Broadwood).—Household Cavalry; 12th Lancers; R.H.A., G and P (P battery joined at Ram Dam); Major Barmatynne-Allison.

3rd Brigade (Colonel Gordon).—9th and 16th Lancers, Mounted Infantry, Colonel Hannay's Brigade; R.H.A., O and R Batteries, Lieut.-Colonel Eustace.

Colonel Davidson, R.H.A., on whose staff I am, was appointed C.R.A. on General French's staff. The division marched from Modder at 3 a.m. on 11th February, and reached Ram Dam about 10 a.m.

On 12th, moved at 1.45 a.m., and the first Boer gun opened at 6.30 a.m. The Reit River, between Waterval Drift and De Kiel's farm, was reached about 10 a.m., and after a slight resistance the Drift was secured.

The division moved off next day at 10 a.m., and secured the passage of the Modder about 5 p.m. Halted at Modder during the 14th.

It was decided here not to have a C.R.A. for the division, and Colonel Davidson took command of the 2nd Brigade division; consequently, I have since remained with the 2nd Cavalry brigade.

On 15th February we moved off at 10.15, and came into action about twenty minutes later. Obtained first sight of Kimberley at 2.45 p.m., and bivouacked some 7 miles south of it about sunset. Here it was understood we were to remain a few days to refit and rest the horses, many of whom had died, e.g., G battery lost 12 on 13th, and 1st Brigade Division 39 horses on the same day. My second charger was stolen at De Kiel's farm, and the other, which I brought from Australia, had to be shot at Kimberley. However, at 2.30 a.m. on 17th, orders were suddenly received to march at 3 a.m. The brigade started at 3.30 a.m.; watered at a dam, such horses as would drink the water, at 8.30 a.m., and reached Rannefontein at 11.45 a.m. Here we saw Cronje's force and laager which had got away from the infantry, and which we engaged at 12.5 p.m. and forced to halt. The guns remained unlimbered until 10 a.m., 18th, when the horses were watered for the second time since leaving Kimberly.

I entered the laager of Paardeberg on the afternoon of 27th, the day of Cronje's surrender. Considering the bombardment it had been exposed to, the material damage was very slight. The effect of lyddite seemed to be nil. None of the damage I saw was of any extent, e.g., one lyddite shell fell within 12 inches of the back of a wheel, and did no damage beyond bending slightly the front of the fork. Several Boer prisoners I spoke to told me that they did not mind lyddite shells in the open as the usual resultant effect was small upon material. I heard General Albrecht was knocked down by a lyddite shell that burst close to them, but suffered no injury from it.

From the time we left Kimberley until getting here, both men and horses have been on half, quarter, and, sometimes, three-quarter rations; the horses generally getting 8 lbs. of oats per diem. It is generally estimated that we have lost at least 50 per cent. of the horses we started with.

The Cavalry division left Ofontein on 7th March and marched to Salderspoort, a few miles east of Poplar Grove on Modder River, making a turning movement which enabled the infantry to enter the trenches of the "Seven Kopjes" without having to fire a shot. The 2nd brigade were in action off and on from 6 a.m. to 2.30 p.m.

The 1st brigade marched to Abram's Kraal on 9th March; the 2nd brigade to Driefontein on 10th; and the 3rd brigade to Petersburg. About half of the casualties in the Cavalry Division on the 10th, occurred in the 2nd brigade.

On the 12th, orders arrived at 2.30 a.m. for the 2nd brigade, which was bivouacked at Blanbosch Pan, to march at 5 a.m. This day was one of the hardest marches we have had. There were no halts practically until we got to Venter's

Vallie at 12.45 a.m., where the water so dirty the horses would not drink. We moved again at 2.30, and bivouacked at 8.30 p.m., the horses being 13½ hours in the collar. I have no doubt that our loss in horses would have been much less and our pace more rapid had regular halts been made, and when we reached good grazing the horses allowed to graze for 15 minutes.

On 13th inst. we reached Bloemfontein and bivouacked at this farm, where we understand we are likely to remain until the batteries get remounts, and stores are brought up.

Nearly all the ammunition and supply waggons have been left behind on the veldt, batteries having in many cases only three ammunition waggons with them, and most guns are drawn by eight horses. The buck waggons have been more efficient than ammunition and supply. The delay at Koodstrand, after the surrender of Cronje at Paardeburg, was due to the shortness of supplies. The deficiency of supplies is due chiefly to the fact that after we seized Klip Drift on the Modder River, Cronje decided to evacuate Magersfontein, and thereupon the army had to march east instead of west.

Shortly after Lord Kitchener's arrival regimental transport was abolished.

VICTORIA.

PREFATORY.

ON the 28th September, 1899, and following days, a Conference of Military Commandants was held at Victoria Barracks, Melbourne. This had been convened at the invitation of the Government of Victoria for the purpose of submitting a scheme for the consideration of the various Governments, by which, should they decide to do so, a United Australian Military Contingent could be organized for service in South Africa in the event of a war with the Boers.

President :

Major-General Sir Charles Hotted Smith, K.C.M.G., Commandant, Victoria.

Members :

Major-General G. A. French, C.M.G., Commandant, New South Wales.

Major-General Hunter, Commandant, Queensland.

Colonel G. H. Chippindall, Commandant, Western Australia.

Colonel W. V. Legge, Commandant, Tasmania.

Colonel J. Stuart, Commandant, South Australia.

Secretary :

Colonel J. C. Hoad, A.A.G., Victoria.

It was decided (inter alia) that in the opinion of the Conference the necessary Acts should be passed without delay by each of the several Colonies to enable their respective Military Contingents to act, either as a combined force or otherwise, for service outside Australia.

Further, that pay should be recommended on the following scale :—Gunnery and privates, 4s. 6d. per diem; acting bombardiers, 5s.; bombardiers, 6s. 6d.; corporals, 7s.; sergeants, 8s.; coy. sergeant-majors, 9s.; staff sergeants, 10s.; warrant officers, 11s. 6d.

And that a force of about 2,000 of all ranks should be sent, divided as follows :—New South Wales 745, viz.—Horse Artillery 120, Cavalry and Mounted Rifles 300, Infantry 265, Department Corps and Engineers 60. Queensland—Mounted Rifles and Machine Gun Section, 275. South Australia 140, namely—Mounted Rifles 60, Infantry 80. Tasmania—Infantry 160. Western Australia—Infantry, 160. Victoria, 543; thus disposed—Mounted Rifles 198, Infantry 345. General Staff, 30, to be made up amongst the Colonies.

No result followed, however, other than that when the war broke out, an Australian Regiment was formed (for details of which see 1st Victorian Contingent). This was an administrative, not a consolidated battalion.

Victoria passed the following enabling Acts :—63 Vict. No. 1619 (Victorian Military Contingent Act), enabling forces to be raised under Defences and Discipline Acts, and to come under Imperial Army Act of '81, when serving with Her Majesty's regular troops. £30,000 was appropriated for this purpose. 63 Vict. No. 1627 appropriated £35,000 for the purposes of a second Contingent; 63 Vict. No. 1655 appropriated £30,000 for a third Contingent; 64 Vict. No. 1698 appropriated £45,000 for further Contingents. 63 Vict. No. 1640 authorized contributions by Municipal Councils, banks, and other bodies towards military Contingents, or any members thereof, or their relatives, or in aid of the Patriotic Fund.

CAMP OF INSTRUCTION.

The Camp of Instruction where the various Contingents were stationed, under Colonel Otter and other selected and experienced officers and staff-sergeants, prior to being despatched to the theatre of war, was at Langwarrin. There the men, after having been tested and enrolled, were drilled, trained, organized, disciplined, clothed, equipped, and supplied with horses. When the celerity with which the battalions were raised and sent away is considered, it may readily be judged that more than ordinarily strenuous exertions must have been made by all concerned, including the Commissary and Veterinary Departments and the embarkation officers, whose duty it was to see that all was in readiness on board the transports.

Not a great deal of instruction was required for the earlier Contingents, because the officers and men were mostly drawn from the local regiments ; but in the case of the Bushmen's and successive battalions, usually several weeks became necessary to make something like soldiers of these very raw levies before they could be embarked for the front.

No horses were brought back from South Africa. Contingents handed them over into Remount depôts prior to embarkation for Australia.

I congratulate you on having such a command, and I would impress on you all the importance of the duties you are called upon to discharge here. There are large quantities of stores at this station, and it is one of strategic value. It is your duty to help in guarding it just now, but very soon you will be sent where you will get plenty of work of the kind which I know you want."

The Regiment took over the first detail of 260 horses and 260 men were equipped and mounted.

The General Officer Commanding wishes to place on record his high appreciation of the courage and determination shown by a party of 20 men of the Western Australians, under Captain Moor, in the above operations. By their determined stand against 300 or 400 men they entirely frustrated the enemy's attempt to turn the flank of the position."

The position defended by the Western Australians was named "West Australia Hill."

The General Officer Commanding wishes to place on record his appreciation of the spirit and determination of the troops in the operations of the 9th to the 14th instant. The powers and endurance of the troops were fully taxed, and they well sustained the strain. The resistance which the Worcester Regiment offered to a large number of the attacking force at Slingersfontein was highly creditable, as was that offered by the Wiltshire Regiment at Hobkirk's Farm. The assistance rendered to their dismounted comrades of the Wiltshire Regiment by the Victorian Rifles is deserving of the highest praise. The General Officer Commanding wishes his thanks conveyed to all ranks of the forces."

6th.—Major-General Hutton inspected the regiment and said:—"Colonel Hoad, Officers, Non-commissioned Officers, and Men of the Australian Regiment, I wish to explain to you the circumstances which have led up to an alteration now to be made in the constitution of the various Contingents from the Australian Colonies. As you are no doubt aware the Australian Regiment was formed in the first instance with a view of simplifying the administrative work of the units from Australia. This object, I may tell you, has been fully achieved, and the organization has been a complete success. I may further express to you my high appreciation, not only of the administrative work, but of that done in the field by the Regiment since its formation. That work redounds to the credit of Colonel Hoad and of every officer and man in the Regiment. As later Contingents have arrived, it has been thought desirable that in future troops from individual Colonies should, as far as possible, work together. The advantages of this arrangement are, no doubt, obvious. While small units engaged in a large campaign like this are unquestionably doing good work—most admirable work—they can scarcely, while acting separately, make their work sufficiently pronounced and distinctive of the several Colonies they come from. By becoming units in a larger sense they may be able to play a much more important part in operations in the field.

"I am sure that every officer and man present desires to add to the honour of the Colony from which he comes. The formation of a Colonial Division, comprising, as it will do, two brigades of about 6,000 men each, should materially assist you in accomplishing that object.

"I am very pleased indeed to renew my acquaintanceship with my old friend, Colonel Hoad, and also with Australian troops generally. Some of your faces are well known to me, and recall pleasant recollections of the time I spent in Australia. I feel sure that the disposition of troops from the several Colonies which has been decided upon will considerably increase your volume of usefulness.

"I have appointed Colonel Hoad my A.A.G., and he will represent me here in camp."

6th.—Colonel Hoad, in bidding good-bye to the Regiment, said:—"Officers and men of the Australian Regiment, as this is the last parade on which you appear as a regiment, I desire to express to you my appreciation of the loyal support and assistance I have received from you during the period of my command. The work done by the Regiment speaks for itself. I may tell you that General Clements yesterday informed me that he was going to report to Lord Roberts on the admirable character of that work performed by you in the field. The organization of this regiment at Enslin on a new basis as a mounted infantry corps, needless to say, involved a great deal of work. I desire to express my personal indebtedness to Captain Lascelles who, as you know, wrought like a Trojan as our adjutant, at a period when there was very much to do. In saying good-bye to you as a regiment, I am pleased to know I am not to be disassociated from you, and can only express the hope that every officer and man may be able to look back to the time we have spent together, and think of me not so much as a commanding officer, but as a friend and comrade, as one who has slept beside him on the South African veldt. I may tell you that the alteration now to be made, and which the General has described to you, is one about which I was consulted, and in which I have at every stage most heartily concurred, and I feel that it will be a great advantage to the troops from Australia. I wish you all good-bye and good luck, and I pray that if God wills you may all be spared to return to your wives, families, and dear ones in Australia."

8th.—The Australian Regiment with several other corps, was absorbed in the 1st Mounted Infantry Brigade, formed under the command of Major-General Hutton, C.B., A.D.C.

The regiment served under the following General Officers:—Lieutenant-General Sir F. W. E. F. Forestier-Walker, G.C.M.G., K.C.B.; Major-General A. G. Wauchope, C.B., C.M.G.; Major-General Elliott Wood, R.E., K.C.B.; Lieutenant-General P. S. Lord Methuen, K.C.B., K.C.V.O., C.M.G.; Lieutenant-General T. Kelly-Kenny, C.B., p.s.c.; Lieutenant-General Sir J. D. P. French, K.C.B., K.C.M.G.; Major-General R. A. P. Clements, D.S.O., A.D.C., and formed part of the Kimberley Relief Force, under Lord Methuen, K.C.B., K.C.V.O., C.M.G.

Operations in Cape Colony, south of Orange River, including actions round Colesberg, operations in the Orange Free State, and the advance to Bloemfontein.

Note.—This company was converted into Mounted Infantry at Naauwpoort on 1st February, 1900.

(For nominal rolls of New South Wales, South Australia, Western Australia, and Tasmanian Companies, see under those States).

THE SECOND (MOUNTED RIFLES) CONTINGENT:

EXCEPT that no infantry was raised, the second Contingent was formed upon much the same principles as the first. Under G.O. 94 (Vic.) '99, the Commanding Officer Mounted Rifles was directed to submit a return of officers, N.C.O.'s, and men of his corps who volunteered for active service. They were required to be good shots, and medically fit. Applications were also received from officers, N.C.O.'s, and men of the Militia and Volunteer Forces, to be considered in the event of an insufficient number of Mounted Rifles being available to complete a Contingent of 250. Such candidates to be riflemen, hardy riders, medically fit, and preferably unmarried. In addition to men from the Mounted Rifles, a considerable proportion were thus enrolled from the Rangers (an infantry regiment of similar organization), Militia, and Volunteer regiments, and a few from the Royal Australian Artillery.

The Mounted Rifle Regiment was raised in 1885 by Colonel T. Price, who now obtained the command of the Contingent.

CLOTHING, ETC.

The men were issued with khaki tweed uniform, comprising F.S. jackets, cord pants, puttees, F.S. hat, F.S. cap, and greatcoat; besides boots and a complete kit of clothing, underclothing, necessaries, &c.

Fully horsed and supplied with bandoliers and saddlery, rifles, and bayonets.

ESTABLISHMENT.

The following establishment was approved:—1 commanding officer, 2 captains, 8 subalterns, 1 adjutant, 1 medical officer, 1 veterinary officer, 2 coy. sergeant-majors, 2 quartermaster-sergeants, 8 sergeants, 12 corporals, 2 saddler-sergeants, 2 saddlers, 2 farrier-sergeants, 4 shoeing-smiths, 4 buglers, 200 privates, 12 drivers. Total—14 officers, 12 sergeants, 10 artificers, 4 buglers, 224 rank and file. In all, 264, with 305 horses (28 officers' horses, 238 other ranks, 24 spare, and 15 transport and pack).

RATES OF PAY.

Pay to all ranks was approved as under:—Privates, 4s. 6d. per diem; corporals, 7s.; sergeants, 8s.; company sergeant-majors, 9s.; staff sergeants, 10s.; warrant officers, 11s. 6d.; lieutenants, 16s. and 3s. field allowance; captains, 20s. and 3s. 6d.; majors, 25s. and 4s. 6d.; adjutants, 5s. per day in addition to pay of their ranks. These rates, it was stated, were to be considered as in full; and any payments made by the Imperial Government would be deducted therefrom. Members of medical or veterinary staff to be paid according to relative rank. Portion of pay might be drawn by authorized persons in Victoria; and one month's pay, in advance, could be drawn by any member of Contingent desiring to do so.

DEPARTURE AND RETURN.

The 2nd Victorian Mounted Rifles left on the 13th January, 1900, comprising 15 officers, 250 of other ranks, with 305 horses, and 6 wagons. Of these, 1 officer and 9 others were killed or died; 2 officers and 4 others were transferred; 2 officers and 13 others were struck off the strength in South Africa; 1 officer was commissioned in the Imperial Army; 10 officers and 223 others returned to Australia.

SERVICE.

The Second Contingent embarked in the Euryalus on the 13th January, 1900, and arrived at Cape Town on 5th February. There the ship was inspected by Lord Roberts, who expressed himself in complimentary terms. Only three horses had been lost on the passage. On the 7th, the troops proceeded to Maitland Camp, and on the 10th, entrained and arrived at Naauwpoort on the morning of the 14th. The Tasmanian Contingent, under Captain Cameron came in that evening. Colonel Price was placed in command of what was known as the "Hanover Road Field Force," consisting in the first instance of about 80 Prince Albert's Guards, 60 Tasmanians, 230 Victorians, and one battalion of 8 companies of the Lancashire Militia ; they were without artillery. They were constantly in touch with the enemy and patrolling work was very heavy. On the 21st, Colonel Price broke two of his ribs by falling down a donga in the dark, but he still continued at his duty. On the 24th, it was determined to shell Kuilfontein Kopje, which was very strongly held ; it being the key to the position of the advance upon Colesberg. Colonel Page Henderson, 6th Inniskilling Dragoons, commanded the left attack, Colonel Price the centre, and General Clements, under whose direction the whole operations were conducted, the right. Lord Kitchener was present to watch the proceedings. Colonel Price's command was reinforced by one battery of artillery, and about 150 Eastern Province Horse ; but he gave Colonel Page Henderson two companies—Victorians and Tasmanians. This column met with very heavy fighting, and 1 officer, West Riding Mounted Infantry, was killed, and Captain (now Major) Cameron wounded and taken prisoner ; 15 rank and file of the West Riding were reported killed ; 20 wounded. The shelling commenced about 6.30 a.m., and was sustained by 24 field guns, 2 howitzers, and 1 5" R.M.L. It was carried on until about 5.30 p.m., but no impression was made on the enemy ; though (as was afterwards ascertained) they suffered severely. They remained on the hill until dusk, when they began to draw away in small parties, making towards Colesberg.

On the 26th, the Hanover Road Field Force again moved on Kuilfontein, and occupied it without opposition. On the 28th, they participated in the relief of Colesberg. On the 14th March, the passage of the Orange River was carried out ; the pontoon bridge being 260 yards long, upon which the whole army crossed into Orange Free State. On the 17th, news was obtained of the death of Captain Salmon, of enteric, at Naauwpoort. Colonel Price received orders to march on Bloemfontein via Philippolis and Fauresmith, with the Head-Quarters Flying Column, which consisted of the Victorians (2nd contingent), Grahamstown and E.P. Horse, and one battery artillery; in all, about 1,000. This command was broken up on the 20th, and the Contingent then joined the main column at Donkerspoort and formed part of the advanced guard. On the 23rd, Philippolis was occupied, on the 26th, Wittevreeden; and on the 27th, Fauresmith.

On 4th April, General Clements' column reached Tempe, outside Bloemfontein, where it was broken up; and the whole of the Mounted Infantry, both Imperial and Colonial, was placed under the command of Colonel Price, and marched into Bloemfontein, where there was a re-organization. The Victorians, South Australians, Tasmanians, and 4th Mounted Infantry Corps, were formed into the 4th Mounted Infantry Corps, under the command of Colonel Henry, 5th Fusiliers. The Australian Regiment was severed; and the troops of all the Colonies formed into their own Colonial regiments. The Victorians were placed under their own commanding officer, the Tasmanians under Major Cameron (who had been released), and the South Australians under Major Reade. These remained at Bloemfontein refitting and rehorsing, until the 20th. Enteric now began to develop itself, and amongst the victims was Lieutenant Bree, who died on the 26th.

On the 21st, the 4th Mounted Infantry marched on the glen to the north of Bloemfontein, this being the first step in the great main advance of Lord Roberts. On the 22nd, the Victorians relieved Kitchener's Horse at Houdenbeck, about 6 miles from Karee Kloof, where the remainder of the corps had gone, and had to hold the extreme left of the line of outposts; the Boers occupying the Modderspruit, along the front of the Victorian position. The work was very heavy and involved constant skirmishing with the enemy. On the 29th, the Contingent joined Colonel Henry at Karee Kloof, where these experiences were continued.

On the 30th, the Victorians were attacked by a force of about 1,500 Boers, and retired about $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles, under shell, pom pom, and rifle fire. Lieutenant Lilley was dangerously wounded, Private Coughlan's leg broken, and Reg. S. M. Healy was captured. Many men went back under pom pom fire, and carried out those whose horses had been killed.

There was fighting all the way to Mooifontein, where they bivouacked on the ground, 4th May. On the 5th, there was the action at Vet River, in which the Victorians participated; being on the right. From this on, until the 10th, they were with the advance, and no resistance of any moment was offered. The weather was extremely cold by night and hot by day. Twice the troops were without any rations, and so knocked up by work and starvation that they had to be halted at Lewkville for a day. At the Zand River, Virginia Siding, the Boers were driven in after contesting the whole way, and the Victorians advanced and made good their lodgment in a deep donga, under very heavy fire. From the 12th to the 21st, they remained outside Kroonstadt, which surrendered. On the 22nd, the advance on the Vaal River was continued, and though the enemy were frequently seen, there was no engagement until Vereeniging was arrived at, where the troops were opposed by the Irish Brigade, who made good their retreat, blowing up the bridge over the river after they had crossed it. On the 27th, the Vaal was crossed.

On the 29th, the Victorians were engaged at the Black Reef Mine, Witwatersrand, where they were met with a heavy rifle fire; and subsequently shell fire when endeavouring to turn the enemy's flank; nevertheless, they accomplished the movement. During the day a company was detached, under Lieutenant Kirby to assist a mixed party of Lumsden's Horse and Imperial Mounted Infantry, who, were hard-pressed at the railway station, close to Germiston Junction. Lieutenant Kirby pushed in, and, after a fairly sharp struggle, captured several engines, a considerable amount of rolling stock, and an ambulance train that was going out. For this he received the D.S.O. About this time no less than 79 Victorian horses succumbed to the privations and severity of the weather.

In June, they moved to a bivouac near Orange Grove, north of Johannesburg. On the 4th, they were heavily engaged at the 6-Mile Spruit, and advanced, fighting all the way, to the outskirts of Pretoria, which were reached on the following day, and the Victorians, owing to the formation of the march, were the first to enter. They remained there until the 7th (Pretoria having surrendered), when they were marched into Perraarspoort, where they remained until 22nd July, doing very severe patrol and picket duty. On the 23rd, they commenced the march to Middelburg, halting at Brugspruit and Howard's Colliery from 27th to 4th August. From Middelburg they went to Doornkop, which they held from 7th to 17th August. On the 24th, Bester's Farm was reached, and on the 25th, the enemy was again come into contact with, and a brilliant reconnaissance was made under Captains Staughton and Umphelby. There was fighting all the way to Waterval Onder, which was arrived at on the 30th, the enemy holding the hill across the ravine of Eland's River.

On 6th September, the 4th Mounted Infantry were ordered back to Machadodorp and on the 7th were engaged with the enemy, when severe fighting took place. On the 14th, the force arrived at Kapsche Hoop, after advancing over most difficult country and being constantly intercepted by the enemy. On the 16th, the march to Komati Poort was commenced; and on the 18th, the enemy was encountered near Avoca, taking away a convoy. On the 20th, a halt was made to recuperate the horses, which were suffering greatly from fatigue and want of forage. On the 24th, arrived at Komati Poort, the horses being barely able to stagger in, and the heat excessive. A camp was selected close to the junction of the Crocodile and Komati Rivers. The whole of the Portuguese frontier was marked with flags, and Portuguese soldiers were seen patrolling in every direction. On the 28th, the whole of the troops in camp were reviewed in honour of the birthdays of the King and Queen of Portugal; the Portuguese Commandant attended by a strong escort riding over from his territory to attend. A great quantity of ammunition, which had been left by the Boers on the right bank of Komati River, near Rosario Garcia (the Portuguese having prevented them from taking it any further), was blown up by the British.

On 3rd October, the Victorians entrained for Pretoria, and at Machadodorp handed over all the horses to General French. On the 7th, arrived at Pretoria, remaining there until the 23rd, when the bulk of the Victorians were permitted to return to Australia, under Colonel Price.

The journey to Cape Town was uneventful, except that on the 26th, the line between Edenburg and Norval's Pont was blown up. The Boers held the hill at this place, and evidently intended to wreck the train. They were driven off by the Victorians; the line was repaired, and the farm house which had sheltered the enemy burnt.

Arrived at Cape Town on the 29th, and on the 5th November embarked in the Harlech Castle, which reached Melbourne on 4th December. Disbandment followed.

THE THIRD (BUSHMEN'S) CONTINGENT.

LIKE the "Citizen's Bushmen's" Contingent in New South Wales, this corps was largely subscribed for by the public. It was resolved that, in lieu of drawing the men exclusively from the local forces, a class of Australian yeomen and bushmen should be obtained; hardy riders, straight shots, accustomed to find their way about in difficult country, and likely to make an expert figure in the vicissitudes of such a campaign as was being conducted. There was an enormous number of candidates for enlistment. Those selected were, practically, untrained in military matters; no less than 230 being farmers, or connected with that industry. They were selected by a committee, and passed a strict test in riding and shooting; as also, of course, medical examination.

General Order 6 (Victoria), 1900, directed Commanding Officers of Militia and Volunteer Corps to submit names of officers under their command who volunteered for service with the Bushmen's Corps, and were recommended. Applicants were required to be skilled bushmen, good riders, medically fit, and, preferably, unmarried.

Rates of pay were as in previous Contingents.

The eminent surgeon, Sir Thomas Fitzgerald, accompanied the Contingent to South Africa, as an indulgence passenger, for the purpose of visiting the hospitals there.

CAMERON'S SCOUTS.

This was a party of 24 men raised by Mr. John McLeod Cameron for special service, and for whom he obtained horses, except when they provided themselves with mounts. They were attached to the Contingent, and similarly armed and equipped.

ESTABLISHMENT.

The following establishment was authorized:—Two captains, 8 lieutenants, 1 adjutant, 1 medical officer, 1 veterinary officer, 1 chaplain, 2 company sergeant-majors, 2 company quartermaster-sergeants, 8 sergeants, 12 corporals, 2 saddler-sergeants, 2 saddlers, 2 farrier-sergeants, 4 shoeing-smiths, 4 buglers, 195 privates, 4 drivers; total, 14 officers, 12 sergeants, 10 artificers, 4 buglers, 211 rank and file; in all, 251. Horses—26 officers', 233 N.C.O.'s and men's, 24 spare. Four wagons, with 8 horses and 2 spare, 31 pack horses; total, 41.

Cameron's Scouts.—One lieutenant, 1 sergeant, 2 corporals, 21 privates; total, 25, with 33 horses.

Grand total—15 officers, 13 sergeants, 10 artificers, 4 buglers, 234 rank and file; in all, 276, with 357 horses. In addition, 2 horses were taken for Mr. Staughton, and 1 for Mr. Hood, bringing the total to 360.

CLOTHING, ETC.

Uniform consisted of khaki "Garibaldi" jacket, and pants, with leggings, F.S. hat, and F.S. cap. Provided with boots and greatcoats.

Arms and equipment.—M.L.E. magazine rifles, and sword bayonet (provided in South Africa), bandolier and waistbelt. They were fully horsed, but, in many instances, the men brought their own horses; in some cases, more than one per man.

Supplied with saddlery, and regimental transport. Each man also received a full kit, comprising underclothing, necessaries, &c.

This was the only Contingent to wear "Garibaldies"—a jacket with a fold or pleat over a waistband, falling somewhat after the fashion of a shirt. It was considered an appropriate costume for bushmen, and rather suggested the uniform worn by Victorian Volunteers in the early sixties.

NURSING SISTERS.

The following nursing sisters proceeded to South Africa with this Contingent for service under the Imperial Government, in terms of the cablegram from the High Commissioner of the Cape, dated 3rd February, 1900 :--

Rawson, Marianne (in charge).
 Tiddy, Diana.
 Smith, Ethel Mary Bernhard.
 Langlands, Eleanor Augusta Victoria.
 Smith, Dorothy F.
 Hines, Frances Emma.
 Anderson, Julia B.
 Walter, Ellen.
 Thomson, Annie Eliza Helen.
 Ivey, Isabel.

These ladies were all single. They did excellent work in the hospitals, developing the best qualities of professional nurses. Sister Hines died in South Africa. Sister Rawson was awarded the Royal Red Cross. Sister Ivey was mentioned in Commander-in-Chief's despatches, 26th June, 1902. In both cases, despatches, London Gazette, 29th July, 1902.

DEPARTURE AND RETURN.

The Contingent left on 10th March, 1900, comprising 15 officers, 261 other ranks, with 357 horses and 4 wagons. Seventeen were killed or died; 5 officers were transferred; 3 officers, 12 others were struck off the strength in South Africa; 1 officer, 1 other commissioned in the Imperial Army; 9 officers, 228 others returned.

PROMOTIONS, ETC.

Dobbin, Captain W. W.—Promoted Major while serving with the Rhodesian Field Force, 18th May, 1900.

McKnight, Captain-Adjutant W.—Promoted Major, 5th Contingent in South Africa.

SERVICE.

The Contingent left Melbourne on 10th March, 1900, in the transport Euryalus, and touched at Cape Town, from whence they preceeded to Beira, arriving on 3rd April, and disembarked. From Beira their route lay to Marandellas, in Rhodesia, where all the Colonial Bushmen were formed into regiments known as the Rhodesian Field Force; the Victorians and West Australians forming the 3rd, under Major Vials. Except Cameron's Scouts, which remained at Marandellas, they marched by squadrons through Rhodesia to Buluwayo; and from there to Mafeking, where they were again mobilized, equipped, and moved out in regiments, under General Baden-Powell, their destination being Rustenburg.

In that district on 22nd July, the Victorians, under Captain Hill, and other Contingents, encountered the enemy at Koster River, and lost 7 men killed, and many wounded. In Rustenburg district also, a party of Victorians, under Captain Ham, with Bushmen from New South Wales and Queensland, were attacked and besieged by General De la Rey at Eland's River; the siege lasting thirteen days, and the casualty list being heavy. After enduring great hardships, and losing all their horses by the fire of the enemy, the garrison was relieved by Lord Kitchener on 17th August (vide 3rd Queensland Mounted Infantry).

Here the Contingent was divided, and those with Captain Ham were attached to Lord Methuen's Force until they reached Mafeking, to which place from Eland's River they marched on foot, no horses being available. The other portion of the Victorian Contingent, under Major Vials, moved from Rustenburg to Pretoria and thence to Warmbad and Nylstroom; which, under General Baden-Powell, was captured, and then retired to Pienaars River. The party under Captain Ham, after being partially equipped at Mafeking, left that place at the end of August, and travelled south through Kimberley to De Aar, and from there to Naauwpoort, Bloemfontein, and Pretoria, where after a few days' rest they moved north and, rejoined the Regiment at Pienaars River. From here the Regiment operated through the north-western portion of the Transvaal, and south as far as Rustenburg; and from there back once more to Pretoria. Several engagements took place in these operations, and what with killed, wounded, and sick men, the column, under General Plumer, who was now in command, was sadly weakened. At Pretoria the column was strengthened by the New Zealanders, portion of the 4th Queenslanders, and some South Australians, and General Paget with two companies of Munster Fusiliers (as infantry); also two batteries of Royal Artillery, pom pom battery, and several maxims. Operations were undertaken this time in an easterly direction from Pretoria. Several engagements at Silbrants' Kraal, Wagon Drift, and other places, culminated in the action at Rhenoster Kop on the 29th November, where the enemy, under Viljoen and Botha, made a firm stand. All the force was engaged from 4 o'clock in the morning until 7 in the evening, and the fighting line extended for a distance of four miles, and all of it under a hot fire. At times the attack was pushed to within 600 yards of the Boer position, but it was impossible to dislodge them from the naturally strong position which they held, and the darkness of evening ended the battle. The Victorians, under the command of Captain Ham, were towards the left flank, and the New Zealanders were on the right. The casualty list was a heavy one, but, compared with the Bushmen, the Victorians may be considered lucky.

From Rhenoster Kop the column moved north and west, and gave the commandoes under Viljoen and Botha a routing on several occasions, and once more camped at Pienaars River, north of Pretoria. From here they started to clear up the north-western portion of the Transvaal, moving by forced marches to Rustenburg, Commando Nek, Hekpoort, and Nooitgedacht, arriving at the latter place soon after De la Rey and Beyers had attacked General Clements and the Northumberland Fusiliers. Several smart engagements took place along the Magliesberg and Witwatersrand Ranges, and continued south to Krugersdorp and east to the outskirts of Pretoria, where the Bushmen again camped for four days. From here they were ordered to Balmoral, east of Pretoria, and towards Middelburg. The Bushmen were ordered to De Aar to check De Wet and other Boer generals from invading Cape Colony. It was a big move from Middelburg to De Aar, but the Bushmen did it; and in the swift and oppressive march that General Plumer made after De Wet, when other columns were tired out or withdrawn, the 3rd Regiment were with him to the last, and lost heavily in their attacks on the enemy. The Victorians had the majority of the wounded, including Lieutenant Gartside; only 60 men answered the roll call when orders came for the 3rd Regiment to be withdrawn. These men had been on short rations: six biscuits for six days being their share, and 18 lbs. of oats for the horses. A few days recruiting in Bloemfontein, Weinberg, and Brandfort, and orders came to move once more to Pretoria, and from there to Pienaars River, where forces were once more concentrated with the object of attacking the enemy at Warmbad, Nylstrom, and Pietersburg. These places were captured one after the other after considerable resistance, and General Plumer's Bushmen had the honour of capturing the last Boer capital.

CAMERON'S SCOUTS.

These proceeded from Marandellas to Buluwayo and were appointed body-guard to Sir Frederick Carrington; Sergeant R. W. Howe was promoted to Lieutenant. They entrained from Buluwayo to Mafeking, where the main body of the Rhodesian Field Force was mobilized, and marched from there to Ottoshoop and Zeerust, where there was a reconnaissance in force of 2,000 men. These marched to Marico River, thence to Brakfontein, near Eland's River, where an engagement lasting eight hours took place against a commando of De la Rey. A rearguard action was fought back to Marico River, and two days after the order was given to return to Zeerust. A rearguard action was fought for three or four miles along the road to Zeerust. From thence they proceeded to Ottoshoop; and after remaining there two days, advanced again on Zeerust. After proceeding about four miles a commando, under General Lemmer, opened fire on them, and held them in check for about six hours. They remained on the firing line all night; and, on advancing in the morning, found that the Boers had retired, leaving several dead upon the field. The Scouts returned to Ottoshoop next day, remaining there nearly two weeks, during which time there were several small sniping engagements, in which a few officers and men were killed.

General Carrington was then ordered to return to Rhodesia, and the Cameron Scouts were practically disbanded. Their leader, however, saw that all who desired to return to Victoria were sent back. Both he and Lieutenant Howe remained (vide War services).

RETURN OF CONTINGENT.

The Victorian Bushmen embarked at Cape Town on transport Morayshire, on 9th May, 1901, and arrived at Melbourne on 6th June, having called at Albany and Adelaide en route. Captain Ham returned in charge. Disbanded shortly after return.

SERVICE.

This Contingent left on 1st May, 1900, by the transport Victorian, and arrived on the 23rd at Beira; disembarked, entrained to Umtali, and marched to Marandellas, reaching there on 11th July.

“A” and “B” squadrons, under Lieutenant-Colonel Kelly, were sent to Buluwayo, and thence by rail to Mafeking. They were then despatched to Ottoshoop, and formed part of Brigadier-General Lord Errol's Brigade, under Lieutenant-General Sir Frederick Carrington.

The three remaining squadrons, “C,” “D,” and “E,” under Major Clarke, remained in Rhodesia at Marandellas, Fort Charter, Fort Victoria, Tuli, and Buluwayo; being engaged on the lines of communication until the end of the year, when they were ordered to Cape Colony.

During the months of August and September, 1900, the Transvaal detachment assisted in clearing the enemy out of Ottoshoop; also in combined operations at Zeerust and Jacobsdal; defended convoy at Lowe's Farm, and assisted to capture a large convoy at Malopo Oog. In October a great quantity of supplies was taken, and the enemy driven from a strong position. From 24th October the detachment formed part of the 2nd Mounted Brigade of the 1st Division, under Lieutenant-General Lord Methuen.

On 9th November, surprised a laager at Wonderfontein, and after a lively skirmish, seized their wagons and took a number of prisoners. On 10th, at Manana, captured a pom pom and assisted to secure a large quantity of stock. During the remainder of the month at Lichtenberg, Ottoshoof, Leeuwfontein, Jacobsdal, and Zeerust, engaged in various operations.

During December, besides minor operations, assisted in repulsing an attack upon a convoy, and surprised and captured a laager—portion of De la Rey's.

On 7th January, 1901, relieved garrison at Schwezer Reneke, after some opposition, and captured a large convoy at Uitrals Kop. In February, the progress of the column was impeded by the enemy several times, with losses on both sides, especially at Doornbult. On the 11th and 12th, the Victorians occupied the town of Wolmaranstad, after some resistance, making many prisoners, and capturing arms, ammunition, and supplies. At Harteb, on the 18th, the enemy opened the attack at 7.30 a.m.. The Victorians advanced on the left flank, and the enemy kept up a continuous fire until 1.30 p.m., when they were driven from their positions—losses very heavy on both sides. A huge convoy was brought safely into Klerkadorp, comprising upwards of 16,000 sheep, 6,000 cattle, besides horses, donkeys, wagons, &c.

There were continuous operations until 6th March, when the town of Wolmaranstad was again occupied. During the remainder of the month, and in April, the enemy was constantly engaged, the garrison at Hoopstad was released, and various operations ensued in Orange River Colony. On the 23rd, at Warrenton, ordered to join the other portion of the regiment in Cape Colony.

In October, 1900, "C" squadron left Buluwayo and marched to Tuli, arriving on the 18th. It was in garrison until 23rd November, when they marched to Pont Drift, arriving on 25th; garrisoned it, and patrolled the country until 12th December, when ordered to return to Buluwayo.

In Cape Colony.

"C," "D," and "E" squadrons, under Major Clarke, were engaged at Matjesfontein, collecting stock, removing undesirables, etc., until early in February, when they entrained for De Aar, being attached to Colonel Hon. A. H. Henniker's column.

On 11th February, 40 men of "C" squadron, under Captain Tivey, made a forced march of 40 miles to Philipstown, and surprised the enemy, who numbered upwards of 300, occupying the adjacent kopjes, and who were driven back and kept in check until reinforcements arrived, when they retired. (Vide extract from Column Order, 14th February.) Captain Tivey subsequently received the D.S.O.

Engaged following up De Wet, and on the 23rd came in contact with the enemy at Read's Drift, Orange River, where one 15-pr. B.L. gun and one pom pom fell into the hands of the Victorians; three troopers (Sheehan, Green, and O'Brien) being promoted for their share in this. The pursuit was still maintained; the Victorians marching 380 miles in 15 days, and being very highly complimented by Colonel Plumer.

On 1st March, at the junction of Orange and Sea Cow Rivers, Captain Dallimore and a party of 16 men surprised and captured a party of 33 armed Boers, and 54 horses. During the month the Victorians were operating in Colesberg district, in the vicinity of Fort Brown, and thence to Schoombes, and were in constant touch with the enemy. On the 30th, Sergeant Sandford, Lance-Corporal Ledgerwood, and Trooper Browning rescued, under fire, a comrade whose horse had been lost. Sergeant Sandford received D.C.M.; the others mentioned in despatches.

During the months of April and May, from Zurberg to Somerset East District pursued the enemy all the time, kept in touch with them, and prevented them from joining forces or doing much damage to towns or farms. On 12th May, a party of 40 encountered a large number of the enemy near Doornbosch, and after a sharp engagement drove them back. From the 28th May to June 22nd, engaged in Queenstown, Tonkastad, and Dordrecht District.

EXTRACTS FROM ORDERS.

Column Order by Lieut.-Colonel Hon. A. Henniker, C.B., Coldstream Guards.

Philipstown, 14th February, 1901.

The officer commanding Column has great pleasure in expressing his appreciation of the excellent work carried out by squadron Victorian Imperial Regiment under command of Captain Tivey, on 12th inst. Captain Tivey, by his well-timed advance and skilful handling of his small force, prevented a greatly superior number of the enemy from occupying a position which forms the key to Philipstown, and forced them to evacuate the town with loss. The way in which the whole operation was executed speaks well for the good training and discipline of the Victorian Imperial Regiment."

Extract from Divisional Order, 16th April, 1901, by Lieut.-General Lord Methuen on the occasion of the departure of the detachment from his column.

"The Lieut.-General cannot allow the occasion to pass without expressing to his mounted forces his heartfelt gratitude for the splendid service they have performed for their country. Their courage has been undeniable, and there has been an entire absence of any discontent; the hardships of a campaign, during which the division has trekked over 2,900 miles, having been cheerfully faced."

Extract from Brigade Order, 18th April, 1901, by Brigadier-General Lord Erroll.

"Brigadier-General the Earl of Erroll, regrets that the time has come when he must say good-bye to the mounted troops. He wishes to take this opportunity of thanking all ranks for the cheerful manner in which they have carried out his orders during the time they have been under his command; and to express his admiration of the way they have behaved on all occasions, both in the camp and in the field."

Extract from Column Order, 25th April, 1901, by Lieut.-Colonel Hon. A. Henniker C.B.

"Colonel Henniker cannot permit the Victorian Imperial Regiment to leave his command without expressing to them his thanks for the way in which they encountered and overcome all difficulties during the time they have been with the Column and for their gallant conduct on all occasions. The Contingent has made a name for itself which will be second to none among the many fine bodies of men who have given their services to His Majesty from Australia."

Telegram from Lord Kitchener, Commander-in-Chief, 20th April, 1901.

"Before the Orient sails, please express to the Victorian Imperial Regiment my best thanks for their services to the Empire whilst in South Africa. I lose them with the greatest regret, and shall always remember with gratitude the good work they have done in this arduous campaign. Please say good-bye to all ranks for me, and wish them good luck."

On 22nd June, the regiment embarked at East London on the Orient transport and arrived at Melbourne on 12th July, having called at Albany on the way. They were forthwith paid off.

SERVICE.

This large Contingent required three transports to convey it to the war, namely, the Orient, the Argus, and the City of Lincoln, leaving 15th February, 1901. The bulk of the Regiment went in the former ship, the horses and a horse-deck guard of about 100 in the two latter. They also went different routes on arriving at Cape Town; for the horses (one shipment having rested at Maitland Camp) were sent along the coast to Durban, and there landed and entrained for Pretoria; whilst the men finally disembarked at Port Elizabeth and entrained there, proceeding through Cape Colony and Orange River Colony to Pretoria, where the Regiment was mobilized between 24th March and 4th April, 1901.

On the 10th, they went to Middelburg, East Transvaal, to join General Beatson's column, and started on the first trek, moving north from the Delagoa Bay line on the 13th. Between that date and 23rd, they were constantly in touch with the enemy, and captured a convoy of 21 wagons, 16 prisoners, at Leeuwfontein. The horses were greatly knocked up and many died from wounds received in action. Four companies returned to Middelburg for remounts, the other four remaining with the column.

On the 7th May, in action at Rhenoster Kop, Captain Kelly was mortally wounded, Lieutenant Johnston killed, and one N.C.O. and two men dangerously wounded. Lieutenant and Adjutant Patterson and Sergeant Carlisle were recommended in Army Orders for bravery.

On the 11th, the Regiment was divided into two wings; the right, "A," "B," "C," "D" squadrons, under Major Umphelby; the left, "E," "F," "G," "H" under Major McKnight. They were united at Bronkhurst Spruit; and the total results of the trek were—6 Boers killed, 124 prisoners, 17 surrenders, 163 rifles, 31,450 rounds small arm ammunition, 212 wagons, 58 Cape carts, 100 horses, 65 mules and donkeys, 2,460 cattle, 5,600 sheep, 800 trek oxen, 4,700 bags mealies, &c.—all the work of the Fifth. This return is presented as an example of what was usually accomplished in these treks.

On the 18th, the Regiment received 780 remounts, and Colonel Otter went into hospital. He was subsequently invalided to Australia; but Lord Kitchener cabled to the Governor of Victoria that this officer had done excellent work whilst in charge of the Contingent. Major Umphelby took over the command.

Between the 18th May and 10th June, there were constant engagements at Rhenoster Kop, Klippan, Kornfontein, and Drivelfontein, where Lieutenant Murphy was killed (29th May), besides one N.C.O. and two men. Major Daly, West Yorks, and Major Fraser, Bengal Lancers, took command of right and left wings.

The left wing moved out from Vandyke's Drift; and, on the 12th, encamped at Wilmansrust, where the camp was rushed by the Boers at 8 p.m., and the wing suffered severely; 1 officer (Lieutenant Palmer, M.S.), 18 N.C.O.'s and men were killed; 5 officers, 36 N.C.O.'s and men wounded. The Boer casualties were stated to be 11 killed and 14 wounded. On the 15th, at Nootgedacht, the enemy again on all sides attacked the Column on the march, but were beaten off.

On the 18th, joined the Column under Sir Bindon Blood, including General Babington's, General W. Kitchener's, and Colonel Campbell's Columns at Kranspoort. The Regiment united again at Middelburg on 2nd July, and Major Umphelby went into hospital. From then until 9th August, constant trekking, and frequent encounters with the enemy. Sergeant-Major Keeble was recommended for bravery.

On 10th August, left General Beatson's command at Bronkhurst Spruit, and trekked to Wittebank; entrained to Newcastle, Natal, to assist in operations against General L. Botha. Joined Colonel Pulteney's Column, and made Newcastle their base depot.

On the 21st, Major Daly was badly wounded in an advance-guard action at Kambuladraai. The enemy were driven out of their position, and papers and Boer flag captured. Captain Hutton, commanding right wing, moved to Vryheid, and thence towards Zululand. The regiment was heavily engaged at H'lobane, where Lieutenant Coulter was killed (27th); and at Reit Vlei they camped at Good Hoek, L. Botha's farm, which was blown up. There were constant operations until 6th September, when moved into Zululand at N'gutu; Major Vallentin taking command of the right wing. On 22nd, marched through Limeberg over Intombi River in action. On very short rations. On the 26th, reconnaissance: Commandant Potgeiter captured. On the 28th, night march; several farms rushed; 16 Boers captured, and many horses, saddles, and rifles.

On 3rd November, night march to Matjes Kop, and several farms rushed. Lieutenant Chrisp and two men killed, four wounded. 14th November, arrived at Vryheid; and on the 23rd, Lieutenant Maygar was recommended for the Victoria Cross (which he afterwards received), for bringing Saddler Short out of action. On 25th, at Donkerhook, joined General Plumer. On 6th December, running fight of night march with big commando under Generals L. and C. Botha. From that date to 22nd December, constant operations. On 26th, Captain Hutton took over command of the right wing from Major Vallentin, who was appointed to command Colonel Sir John Jarvis's column.

Major Daly took command of the right wing on 1st January. Night march and another commando chased. Moved from Balmoral on three days' reconnaissance, and encountered Chris. Botha and Opperman at Onverwacht; fighting all day. Advance guard (Queenslanders and Hants Mounted Infantry) suffered severely. The Fifth took up advance of flank guards. The Boers endeavoured to rush the pom pom, but were repulsed. They suffered severely, Opperman being among the killed. The Victorians were complimented by General Plumer for their share in the day's work.

Arrived at Wakkerstroom on the 8th, where the Column rested until the 22nd owing to the loss of horses. Then night march through Grootfontein, and on the 24th, night march to Johnston Hoek. Engaged all day, and in conjunction with blockhouses, killed 3 and captured 55 Boers. Between that date and 8th February, when Lieutenant Patterson (Med. On 11th March the Fifth arrived at Cape Town.

Telegram from General Lord Kitchener, Commander-in-Chief, to General Settle, Cape Town.

"Please convey to Australians my warm appreciation of their gallant and arduous service in this country. In the name of the army in South Africa, I wish them good luck and God speed.

To officer commanding 5th Victorian Mounted Rifles."

On 27th March, two Companies embarked in the St. Andrew for Melbourne, and arrived on 25th April. The remainder on the following day embarked in the Montrose for Durban, there transhipped into the Custodian, and arrived at Melbourne on 26th April, 1902, shortly after which the Contingent was disbanded.

Note.—The following is the official report of the deed for which Lieutenant Maygar received the Victoria Cross :—"At Geelhoutboom, 23rd November, 1901, Lieutenant Maygar galloped out and ordered the men of a detached post, which was being outflanked, to retire. The horse of one of them being shot under him, when the enemy was within 200 yards, Lieutenant Maygar dismounted and lifted him upon his own horse, which bolted into boggy ground, causing both of them to dismount. On extricating the horse, and finding that it could not carry both Lieutenant Maygar again put the man on its back, and told him to gallop for cover at once; he himself proceeding on foot. All this took place under a very heavy fire."—London Gazette, 11th February, 1902.

RECRUITS FOR SCOTTISH HORSE.

IN addition to the Contingents, authority was given for enrolment of 250 men for the Marquis of Tullibardine's Scottish Horse, in South Africa.

These men were selected by the acting Assistant Adjutant-General, Victoria, and handed over to Lieut.-Colonel Creagh, who acted for the Marquis of Tullibardine.

A large portion of those chosen were men who had passed all tests for the 5th Victorian Contingent, but who were thrown out in the ballot.

This Contingent proceeded to South Africa in the Orient as indulgence passengers, 15th February, 1901. They were noted by the Officer Commanding troops as amongst the very best on board. On arrival they were all accepted for the 2nd Battalion, and they gave a good account of themselves during their service. Many of them were in the heroic defence of the guns at Brakenlaagte, 30th October, 1901, of which Lord Tullibardine in his despatch, wrote :—"The next fight was a big one at Brakenlaagte, where Colonel Benson and Major Murray were both killed. The men did magnificently, trying to save the guns; only 96 were engaged at this point, and they stuck it out until only 6 were left unhit. Their casualties were—5 officers, 28 men killed; 4 officers, 36 men wounded; total, 73 out of 96—all the officers being hit. I don't think I ever heard of better or more determined fighting. Although we lost the guns, the camp was saved by the delay, and the men really did cover themselves with glory." The officers killed were—Major F. D. Murray, Captains M. W. H. Lindsay, A. Inglis, Lieutenants C. Woodman, J. B. Kelly. Wounded—Captain A. C. Murray, Lieutenants W. Campbell, T. Finis, A. C. Wardrop. Captain Murray, though wounded, was the only senior officer available to take temporary charge of the residue of the party. He was subsequently elected to proceed to England in charge of the detail of Scottish Horse to attend the coronation of King Edward VII.

SPECIAL SERVICE OFFICERS.

FOR description of this species of service, vide New South Wales, under that heading, p. 195.

Major-General (then Colonel) Sir John Hoad, K.C.M.G.

Vide 1st Victorian Contingent.

Lieut.-Colonel C. E. Umphelby.

Lieut.-Colonel Umphelby, Royal Australian Artillery, proceeded to South Africa by the transport Aberdeen, on 8th November, 1899, and arrived at Cape Town early in December. He was, in the first instance, employed as Press Censor at the base; a post for which his acquirements as a linguist especially fitted him. It was his desire, however, to go to the front, with a view of gaining experience with field artillery on active service. He therefore applied to be so employed, and was appointed Staff Officer to Colonel Barker, who commanded the howitzer battery at Modder River.

Shortly after Lord Roberts' advance from the west through the Free State, Colonel Barker obtained the command of the 76th, 81st, and 82nd Batteries, Royal Field Artillery; and on the 28th February, Colonel Umphelby started from the Modder River to join him at the camp about 5 miles from Paardeburg. The army moved from thence on 9th March. The division in which Umphelby served was under General Kelly-Kenny; and, during the earlier part of Roberts' advance was the southern force. As such it fought at Osfontein on the day of the advance. The Boers fell back and were followed about 5 miles further by the troops, which halted at Driefontein, 36 miles west of Bloemfontein. At daylight on the following morning, 10th March, Kelly-Kenny's division, becoming the centre one, advanced against the Boer position, a long low ridge running across the front, which they occupied in force. The guns of Barker's brigade came into action at about 3,000 yards. After fighting obstinately all day, the Boers retired little by little; and the guns, as they followed, gradually reduced the range to about 2,000 yards. About 5.30 p.m., and near sunset, the artillery dashed forward again, and came under a smart rifle fire at a range of less than 1,000 yards, it having been supposed, apparently, that the enemy had fallen back further than they actually did. The Boers were posted on a ridge commanding the hollow within which the guns re-opened; and they commenced a brisk fusillade, raining bullets upon the batteries.

Colonel Umphelby had been employed all day on staff duty, carrying orders and helping to direct the movements of the three batteries. He was now seated upon an ant-hill, examining the enemy's position through his glasses, and having his horses' reins slung over his left arm. In this position he was struck by one of the last shots fired; the bullet passing through his body diagonally from the right front to the left side in rear, and perforating the liver.

First aid was administered, and he was taken to the field hospital, about 1½ miles away. He lingered during the subsequent day; but, owing to the removal of the field hospital, it became necessary to convey him on a wagon to a farm house, where quarters had been found for him, about ¾ mile distant. He arrived in a very exhausted condition; and though he received some medical attendance, he died about 1.30 a.m. on the following morning.

Major (now Lieut.-Colonel) G. J. Johnston.

Major Johnston proceeded to South Africa on the 8th November, 1899, by the transport Aberdeen, in company with the late Lieutenant-Colonel Umphelby, Major Bruche, and the New South Wales "A" Squadron Mounted Rifles. On arrival at Cape Town he was engaged for a few days as a Railway Staff Officer, and then attached to 62nd Battery Royal Field Artillery, and joined them at Modder River. He did regimental duty with this battery as a section commander, and was with them on many reconnaissances, several side expeditions, and the great trek, during which several engagements were fought, including Klip Drift, Paardeburg, Osfontein, and many others, before reaching Bloemfontein.

He proceeded with the 62nd battery to Karee; and, after that engagement, was left in Bloemfontein with a section without horses. After getting remounts, he rejoined the battery, and then received a telegram from Colonel (afterwards Major-General) Hoad, inviting him to accept the command of an Australian squadron. Major Johnston met Colonel Hoad in Bloemfontein; but finding that his (Major Johnston's) services were not necessary with the Australians, he rejoined the Royal Field Artillery, and was attached to a howitzer brigade. He took part in several expeditions round about Bloemfontein, and did duty with the Corps Artillery until he was sent into hospital and invalided. He was granted three months' leave of absence, placed in charge of about 150 invalided Australians and New Zealanders, and proceeded with them to Hobart, by the s.s. Karamea. There he left them and returned to Melbourne, via Launceston, arriving on the 29th July, 1900.

He was afterwards promoted Lieut.-Colonel and appointed to the command of the 4th Australian Commonwealth Horse (which see). Queen's Medal with three clasps.

Captain (now Major) J. H. Bruche.

Left Melbourne per s.s. Aberdeen on 8th November, 1899; landed at Cape Town 6th December. Attached to 3rd Battalion Grenadier Guards at Modder River from 8th December, 1899, to 10th January, 1900.

Attached to "The Australian Regiment" from 11th January to 6th April, acting as Quartermaster. Attached to Victorian Mounted Rifles, 7th April. Adjutant Victorian Mounted Rifles, 1st May to 12th December, 1900. Returned to Australia by s.s. Harlech Castle, leaving Cape Town in October, 1900, arriving at Melbourne 4th December, 1900.

Present at operations in Cape Colony, advance on Kimberley, action at Magersfontein. Orange River Colony, including actions at Houtnek, Vet River, and Zand River. Transvaal, including actions at Johannesburg, Pretoria, Diamond Hill, and Belfast. Transvaal, 12th March, to 31st May, 1902.

Major Bruche commanded "A" Squadron in 2nd Battalion Australian Commonwealth Horse. Vide that Contingent. Appointed to command Thornycroft's depot at Klerksdorp, 1st April to 28th May. Returned to Australia with 2nd Battalion Australian Commonwealth Horse in s.s. Norfolk, leaving Durban 8th July, arriving Melbourne, 2nd August, 1902.

Queen's Medal with six clasps.

Major A. J. Christie.

Lieutenant A. J. Christie proceeded to South Africa with the 2nd Contingent, on 13th January, 1900, by the transport Euryalus, which arrived at Cape Town on 5th February. Attached for special service to the Army Service Corps. Was present at operations in Cape Colony, Orange Free State, and Transvaal. Actions at Paardeburg (severely wounded), Jacobsdal, Poplar Grove, Driefontein, and Karee Siding. Commanded "P" Transport Company in operations in East Transvaal, Orange River Colony, and Cape Colony, from March, 1901, to May, 1902. Slightly wounded at Spreeuwfontein and Kamiesberg. Promoted captain, 9th March, 1901. Despatches, London Gazette, 29th July, 1902. Queen's Medal with five clasps. King's Medal with two clasps.

Married men were not selected except for N.C.O.'s of exceptional merit.

The staff and Victorian units left 12th February, 1902, comprising—21 officers, 351 others, with 401 horses. One died, 2 officers, 77 others were struck off in South Africa; 19 officers, 273 others returned.

SERVICE.

The staff and three Victorian companies embarked on 12th February, 1902, on the transport St. Andrew, and arrived at Durban on 10th March. On the following day they entrained for Newcastle, arriving on the 13th; and on the 18th they were joined by the South Australian and Western Australian units, "D" and "E." On the 22nd, the battalion was inspected by General Lyttelton, General Officer Commanding, Natal; and General Burn-Murdoch, Officer Commanding Newcastle sub-district, visited the camp and inspected the horses. On the 6th April, the battalion started for Klerksdorp, and arrived on the 10th. There they were brigaded under Lieut.-Colonel De Lisle, who commanded portion of Colonel Thorneycroft's force. The 1st Battalion Australian Commonwealth Horse also was under Colonel De Lisle, his brigade being styled "De Lisle's Australian Brigade," altered afterwards to "De Lisle's Column," as Thorneycroft's Mounted Infantry, and two guns R.F.A. and a pom-pom were added. Colonel Thorneycroft had likewise the New Zealand Brigade with which were the New South Wales Bushmen, and Hasler's Scouts, a South African corps.

On the 22nd, Lord Kitchener inspected the battalion and expressed his satisfaction. The whole of the troops were under General Sir Ian Hamilton. On the 23rd April, a general move took place. The trek passed through Paardeplatts, Hartebeestfontein, Palmfontein, and Boschepoort.

On 7th May, a "drive" was commenced, starting from Noitverwacht, to the Hartz River. The 2nd Commonwealth Horse occupied about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles of the driving line, distributed thus:—"C" squadron, under Captain Kirby, on the right, Captain De Passey's "D" squadron and one pom-pom in the centre; "A" squadron; under Lieutenant Day, in rear of centre in reserve; Captain Pendlebury's "B" squadron on the left. When the line halted for the night, the various portions camped where they halted; squadron wagons and watercarts being sent to them from regimental transport.

The advance was through Joubert's Rust (8th) and Rapoli, Boesman's Pan (9th), and Bodenstein, Wonderfontein, and Kaal Platts (10th), on which date the line taken up was on the border of British Bechuanaland and the Transvaal.

Considerable numbers of Boers were seen in front of the driving line; but no fighting took place. On the night of the 10th, they made a determined attempt to break through, but without success. On the 11th, Bazendekout's commando announced their surrender by a flag of truce; and Captain Roberts, Adjutant of the 2nd, was sent to bring them in. There were 191 prisoners, and over 200 horses. Shortly afterwards 52 others surrendered to Captain Kirby.

The drive terminated about 3 p.m. on the 11th, arriving at the railway line Kimberley to Mafeking, Vryburg being near the centre of the line. After examining the ground thoroughly, the battalion rejoined the main body, encamped at Leeuw-spruit, about 4 miles from Devondale Siding.

On the 12th, Colonel De Lisle said farewell, as he was going to England on sick leave; and Lieutenant-Colonel Williams took over the brigade. The general result of operations, as officially announced, was:—Killed, 1; prisoners, 326; mules, 95; donkeys, 20; wagons, 175; Cape carts, 61; sheep, 300; small arm ammunition, 6,340 rounds; oxen, 106. Amongst the prisoners was Jan De La Rey, brother of the general. Lord Kitchener telegraphed to General Hamilton: "Capital result. Tell troops I highly appreciate their exertions and consider result very satisfactory." This, it was explained, was to be considered a high compliment, as the G.O. Commanding-in-Chief was not in the habit of bestowing indiscriminate praise.

The Contingent returned to Klerksdorp, arriving on 21st May, and remained there after peace was concluded, until 20th June, when they marched to Elandsfontein, arriving on 25th. There the horses, equipment, saddlery, rifles, &c., and all transport were handed over. On 29th, entrained for Newcastle, arriving next day.

On 5th July, entrained for Durban, and on the 6th, the battalion embarked on the transport Norfolk. Left on the 8th; arrived at Albany on the 25th, Adelaide on the 30th, and Melbourne on 2nd August. Paid off and discharged the same day.

THE FOURTH BATTALION AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH HORSE— VICTORIAN UNITS.

A BATTALION organized upon the same system as the Second, except that its establishment consisted of two companies from Victoria, one from South Australia, and one from Western Australia.

For details of pay, establishment, and clothing, vide 2nd Battalion. The battalion staff, prior to embarkation, also comprised a lieutenant-quartermaster (Western Australian officer), making six officers in all, plus a chaplain. In the other battalion the quartermaster had come with the Western Australian unit.

DEPARTURE AND RETURN.

The battalion staff and Victorian units embarked on 26th March, 1902, comprising 17 officers, 235 others, with 276 horses. One died; 2 officers, 30 others were struck off in South Africa; 15 officers, 204 others returned.

SERVICE.

The battalion staff and Victorian units left in the transport Templemore, on 26th March, 1902. On 2nd April, arrived at Adelaide, and received the South Australian squadron; proceeded to Fremantle, and there, on 7th, half the West Australian squadron was embarked; the remainder to follow in the transport Englishman.

Arrived at Durban on 22nd April, and disembarked on the following morning. Encamped at the Show Grounds until 24th; then entrained for Newcastle, Natal, and arrived on 26th, and encamped at Kitchener's Kop on the veldt, about 3 miles from the town. On 27th, the battalion was inspected by General Burn-Murdoch, Commandant. On 10th May, paraded at 2 a.m., and proceeded by order to Wool's bridge, Buffalo River, where some Boer delegates were to cross on their way to Vereeniging, the scene of the peace confederation.

On 13th, started to march for Volksrust, Transvaal, thence to entrain for Elandsfontein, which was arrived at on the 16th; and there the battalion remained until 24th June, during which time it was engaged in refitting, sending sick horses to sick horse farms, and obtaining remounts. On 28th May, General Oliphant inspected the battalion, and spoke in complimentary terms of the drill, and the cleanliness of the horse lines. On 1st June, news was received of the peace proclamation: subsequently officially confirmed, with a notification that every N.C.O. and man was to receive 1s. 6d. worth of stores, free, from the Field Force canteens—a concession to the troops which is said to have cost £20,000. On 7th June, a squadron, under Captain Collins, proceeded to Pretoria to take part in the service which was held next day to celebrate the cessation of hostilities. The Commanding Officer, the Second in Command, the Adjutant, and Captains Thorn and Macdonald also attended.

On 23rd, all horses were handed in to the remount depot. On 24th, the battalion entrained for Newcastle, arriving on 25th, and encamping on their former ground. Here the Australian troops were mobilizing previous to their return. On 28th, three officers and about 250 N.C.O.'s and men of the battalion entrained for Durban, there to embark on the Manchester Merchant; these were followed on 2nd July by ten officers, to join the Britannic. The remainder were ordered to embark in the Norfolk on 7th; but this transport being unable to accommodate all, Colonel Johnston and Lieutenant Robertson, with the balance, took passage by the Drayton Grange, which arrived at Port Melbourne on 7th August.

WAR SERVICES.

¶ Many of the officers (as also N.C.O.'s and men) had seen previous service: vide nominal roll, also under various Contingents. Those who had not, received the Queen's Medal with two clasps.

THE SIXTH BATTALION AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH HORSE.

WAS authorized upon the same system as the Fifth (see under New South Wales); the formation of composite battalions, each representing three States, having been altered to a territorial basis. Thus each battalion, or part of a battalion, represented a State; each squadron a distinct district, and the troops in that district; and each troop (or section of a squadron) a particular corps, or military unit in a defined locality.

Establishment (four squadrons), rates of pay, clothing and equipment, as for 4th Australian Commonwealth Horse. The companies were now officially styled "squadrons," divisions became "troops," and groups "sections." (General Order 60 of 1902.) This was judicious; for previously both expressions had been used indiscriminately.

ORGANIZATION.

The organization was as follows:—"A" Squadron.—1st Troop: "A" Company Victorian Mounted Rifles and Melbourne Military District (32 men and horses). 2nd Troop: Same (27 men and horses). 3rd Troop: "C" Company Victorian Mounted Rifles, "H" Company Rangers, and Military District, Warragul (29 men and horses). 4th Troop: "C" Company Victorian Mounted Rifles, "I" Company Rangers, and Military District, Sale (28 men and horses). Horses were supplied.

"B" Squadron.—1st Troop: "J" Company Victorian Mounted Rifles and Military District, Wangaratta (32 men and horses). 2nd Troop: "E" Company Victorian Mounted Rifles, and Military District, Euroa (27 men and horses). 3rd Troop: "F" Company Victorian Mounted Rifles and Military District, Yea (29 men and horses). 4th Troop: "B" Company Victorian Mounted Rifles, and Military District, Murchison (28 men and horses).

"C" Squadron.—1st Troop: "I" Company Victorian Mounted Rifles, 5th Battalion Infantry Brigade, "E" Company Rangers, and Military District, Bendigo (32 men and horses). 2nd Troop: "I" Company Victorian Mounted Rifles, "K" Company Rangers, and Military District, Kerang (27 men and horses). 3rd Troop: "K" Company Victorian Mounted Rifles, 3rd Battalion Infantry Brigade, and Military District, Ballarat (29 men and horses). 4th Troop: "K" Company Victorian Mounted Rifles, 4th Battalion Infantry Brigade, "B" Company Rangers, and Military District, Maryborough (28 men and horses).

"D" Squadron.—1st Troop: "G" Company Victorian Mounted Rifles, Detachments Western Artillery, and Military District, Warnambool (32 men and horses). 2nd Troop: "G" Company Victorian Mounted Rifles, and Military District, Colac (27 men and horses). 3rd Troop: "H" Company Victorian Mounted Rifles, and Military District, Hamilton (29 men and horses). 4th Troop: "A," "C," and "D" Company Rangers, and Military District, Stawell (28 men and horses).

Ten per cent. extra were provisionally enrolled to allow for rejections.

Many of those who joined had served in previous Contingents and in local South African regiments.

DEPARTURE AND RETURN.

The Contingent left on 19th May, 1902, comprising 22 officers, 467 of other ranks, with 489 horses. Four commissions were left vacant for officers to be appointed in South Africa. Of those who went, 2 died, 66 were struck off in Natal; 22 officers, 399 others returned.

SERVICE.

The battalion embarked on 19th May on the transport Manchester Merchant; a detachment, consisting of Lieutenant Kessell, 47 N.C.O.'s and men, and 123 horses, having previously departed on the 16th by the freight ship Menelaus.

Arrived at Durban on 13th June, and landed on the following day, proceeding at once to Newcastle, Natal, at which town they arrived on the 18th. Orders were almost immediately received for return to Australia, owing to the termination of the war. The horses were handed over, and the following three weeks were spent preparing for the return journey. On 9th July, entrained for Durban, and re-embarked there on the following day in the transport Drayton Grange, which left on the following day. Major F. J. Hayter and 11 lieutenants had departed on 5th July by H.M.T. Britannic.

Arrived at Melbourne on 7th August, and disembarked the same day. Disbanded on the 8th.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

PREFATORY.

LIKE the Contingents despatched from other territories those sent to the war by South Australia may be divided into three classes: namely, the early ones, paid by local Government or by private subscription; the Imperial Bushmen, subsidised by the Imperial War Office; and the Commonwealth Contingents, raised after Federation, but also under British pay. The earlier companies were drawn from citizens and members of territorial forces, but (except in New South Wales), none of them were composed of drafts from such troops. In all cases, volunteers were desired, and preference was given to men with military service; but no whole units proceeded to the front. Afterwards, bushmen were enrolled; men accustomed to the exigencies of rough life in the backwoods, daring riders, expert shots, experienced in finding their way in tangled country, and hardened against privations. Then, as time went on, and the war still proceeded, the ranks of the Contingents became leavened with men who had already heard the click-clack of the Mauser, and the snarl of the pom-pom; and officers and others presented themselves who had tried conclusions with the Boers and were desirous to do so again. Finally, the Commonwealth Horse. These were, in the first instance, constituted of squadrons from separate States united in battalions, and afterwards of battalions enrolled upon a territorial basis, as already set forth. Only the first and second battalions, of eight that proceeded, were in time to join in the operations.

South Australia embarked six Contingents for the front, and contributed her quota to the Australian Commonwealth Horse. The pay of the First and Second Contingents was debited to the revenue of South Australia. The Third Contingent (Bushmen's) was entirely equipped and partly paid from private contributions. The pay of the Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth Contingents (other than paid by the Imperial Government in South Africa) was refunded to South Australia by the Imperial Government. It ranged from 25s. and 4s. field allowance per diem to major in command, to 5s. per diem to trooper.

The officers and members of all the six Contingents were also paid war gratuities as under, by South Australia; the amount being afterwards refunded by the Imperial Government.

PROMOTIONS.

Lieutenant F. M. Blair, recommended and approved for Captain, 10th December, 1900.

Sergeant A. W. Johnstone, to be Lieutenant, 21st March, 1900.

Corporals G. E. H. Noblett, W. C. N. Waite, and Trooper J. H. Shearer, were promoted Lieutenants in Fifth and Sixth Contingents.

Sergeant F. Laycock, promoted Lieutenant, 8th Australian Commonwealth Horse.

For promotions of N.C.O.'s and men, vide nominal roll.

SERVICE.

The company embarked at Port Adelaide on the transport Medic, 2nd November, 1899, and disembarked at Cape Town on 25th November. They were encamped at Maitland until 1st December, on which day they entrained and proceeded to De Aar; from there marched to Belmont, where the Contingent formed part of the Australian Regiment under Colonel J. C. Hoad; vide 1st Victorian Contingent. On 10th December, marched to Enslin, under orders from Lieutenant-General Lord Methuen, to relieve the Gordon Highlanders. At Enslin the Regiment was held in reserve for Magersfontein, but was not required.

Returned to Naauwpoort about the end of January; then went to Rensburg, and from there to Maeder's Farm, where they were supplied with horses, and converted into Mounted Infantry. In the fighting which took place at Hopkirk's Farm (when the Boers with a very strong force attacked the whole of Clements' extended line), Lieutenant J. W. Powell was killed. Owing to the superior strength of the Boers, the force to which the regiment was attached had to fall back on Rensburg, and, eventually, to Arundel, where some casualties were sustained. From there the Contingent was sent to join the Berkshire Regiment, under Major M'Cracken. On the retirement of the Boers, the Column, under General Clements, advanced to Norval's Pont, where the Contingent crossed the Orange River and took part in the march to Bloemfontein, under Major Dauncey of the Inniskillings. At Bloemfontein the First and Second Contingents formed the South Australian Mounted Rifles.

In the retirement on Arundel, which commenced at midnight, 13th–14th February, 1900, the South Australians formed the rear-guard; a position of honour and responsibility, as General Clements' men had been without rest or sleep for nearly 48 hours. Notwithstanding these great exertions, Captain Lascelles, Royal Fusiliers, who was acting as adjutant, on arriving in the neighbourhood of Arundel, went back with a mixed body of volunteers, mostly South Australians to endeavour to bring in or assist some infantry who had been left behind. On the 20th, the Boers again attacked Clements, but were driven back. During the next eight days there was constant fighting, in which the Contingent took their share. In the advance from Arundel on the 28th, they again formed the rear-guard. When General Clements was preparing to cross the Orange River (8th March), the South Australians were sent forward to the front at Norval's Pont, where they were in contact with the enemy until the 15th, when the force crossed. During the march through the Orange State, the squadron was on the right of the Column.

For further particulars of service, vide Second Contingent.

The Contingent embarked at Cape Town on 3rd November, 1900, in the transport Harlech Castle, and disembarked at Adelaide on 30th November. Granted a bonus of 30 days' pay by the South Australian Government. Disbanded, 30th November, 1900.

Captain Humphris and 25 men of the Second Contingent, having urgent private business, returned to Australia with the First Contingent.

SERVICE.

The Bushmen's Contingent embarked in the transport Maplemore, which steamed from Port Adelaide on 27th February, 1900, and called at Fremantle to pick up the Western Australian Bushmen. Disembarked at Beira, 1st April. This squadron participated in operations in Western Transvaal from June, 1900, to April, 1901, under Lord Methuen, "No. 1" Division. It formed part of General Carrington's force, which crossed Rhodesia and entered the Transvaal from about Mafeking.

Between 4th July and 9th August, the squadron was patrolling the Marico and working towards Eland's River district. On the 9th, they retired to Mafeking with General Carrington. On the 13th, they were in a skirmish, and next day in a fight at Buffel's Hoek. On the 15th, the squadron was made part of a composite regiment of Bushmen with "D" Squadron New South Wales 1st Mounted Rifles, Captain Polson's squadron 5th New Zealanders, and the 3rd Tasmanians. For a long time the Regiment did excellent work in the Western Transvaal, as part of Lord Methuen's division. At Buffel's Hoek there was fighting, and they sustained casualties. For the second time they were in action at Ottoshoop on 12th September, when Captain S. G. Hubbe was killed; and there were other losses.

At Lichtenberg on the 26th, there were again casualties. Lieutenant Collins, who had been wounded near Ottoshoop on 6th August, but had recovered and rejoined, took command with the rank of captain. Throughout the latter part of 1900, and the first quarter of 1901, the composite regiment was in many engagements, chiefly in the Western Transvaal, and also north of the Orange River Colony; and losses were frequent, the enemy being alert and ably led. At Uitralskop, 3rd February, the squadron lost one man; and Lieutenant Dempsey and others were wounded. At a very severely contested action near Rietfontein, 16th February, Captain Collins was wounded for the second time; besides one other man.

Lord Methuen, in a letter to the Secretary of the Bushmen's Committee, South Australia, written after the departure of the Contingent, expressed praise for the "splendid work performed by the squadron," their cheerfulness in hardship, and their discipline. "I cannot conceive any body of men of whom a commander has greater reason to be proud," he wrote.

The squadron embarked at Cape Town on the transport Morayshire, 29th April, 1901, and arrived at Adelaide about 25th June.

SERVICE.

The Fourth Imperial Bushmen left Port Adelaide in the transport Manhattan on 1st May, 1900. Called at Fremantle to embark the Fourth Western Australians: Beira, Durban, and disembarked at Port Elizabeth on 19th June. Lieutenant-Colonel Rowell was placed in command of an Australian regiment comprising some 400 Bushmen; there being the two squadrons of South Australians, one Western Australian, and one Tasmanian. For some account of the excellent service rendered, vide Fourth Western Australian and Third Tasmanian Contingents.

Bethlehem was taken on 7th July, when 300 Bushmen, mostly South and Western Australians, joined in the attack. When De Wet broke through the cordon on 16th, the Contingent took part in his pursuit to the Reitzburg hills. At Palmietfontein on 19th, there was an engagement; and on the 24th, at Stinkhoutboom, where the South Australians sustained losses. The Contingent followed De Wet to the Transvaal. In November, they joined General Plumer. In February, 1901, they sustained several casualties in Cape Colony, during the pursuit of De Wet; and in March, April, and May, they distinguished themselves in operations between Pretoria and Pietersberg. When General Plumer, after the occupation of the latter town, was moving southwards, Captain F. W. Hurcombe was commended for his successful leading. During May, the Contingent suffered casualties on various occasions in the Eastern Transvaal.

The service may thus be summarized:—June, 1900—Formed escort to convoy from Kroonstadt to Lindley. Attached to General Paget in operations against De Wet from Lindley to Bethlehem; and took part in the capture of the latter town. July and August—Attached to General Broadwood, in pursuit of De Wet, from Bethlehem through Oliphant's Nek and the Magaliesberg Range. Took part in the relief of Bland's River garrison. 29th November—Engagement at Rhenoster Kop; attached to General Plumer, and participated in General French's operations in the Eastern Transvaal. February and March, 1901—Operations in pursuit of De Wet in Cape Colony and Orange River Colony. April, May, and June—With General Plumer to Pietersburg; in operations in Northern Transvaal, and from thence to Bethel, Standerton, and Piet Retief.

The Contingent embarked on 5th July, 1901, at East London, in the transport Britannic, and arrived at Adelaide, 27th July. Disbanded shortly afterwards.

FIFTH AND SIXTH (IMPERIAL) CONTINGENTS:

ALTHOUGH these Contingents were separately enrolled and despatched, yet they amalgamated into one battalion in South Africa, so that the latter was more in the nature of a fully-officered draft for the former than a separate corps. The Fifth was established under authorization from the South Australian Government, published in General Order No. 2, 1901, 10th January, 1901; and a Military Board was appointed to select members of the Contingent. A local Military Board was also appointed to assist in the preliminary selection of men living in the Mount Gambier, Naracoorte, and Millicent Districts. Selection was regulated by the following conditions:—(1) All returned soldiers of good character, and passing medical examination were accepted; (2) members of local forces fulfilling all conditions had preference over civilians; (3) all things being equal, single men preferred to married men; (4) men over 12 stone in weight not accepted, except to complete the number; (5) men between 18 and 27 years of age preferred, all else being equal; (6) after selection, men to be medically examined and tested in horsemanship and rifle shooting. A Board was appointed to purchase horses. A local solicitor proffered his services for making, gratuitously, the Wills of men joining; and arrangements were effected accordingly.

The Sixth Contingent was raised under similar conditions (General Order No. 4, 1901). Both Contingents contained a proportion of officers and others that had already served in the war.

For pay, &c., vide p. 341.

ESTABLISHMENTS.

The Fifth consisted of two and a half squadrons, "C," "D" and "E," and was officered as follows:—2 captains, 1 lieutenant-adjutant, 1 lieutenant-quarter-master, 15 lieutenants, 1 medical officer, 1 veterinary officer—the two latter appointed for the voyage only. Other ranks—1 regimental sergeant-major, 2 squadron sergeant-majors, 2 quartermaster-sergeants, 1 farrier-sergeant, 21 sergeants, 21 corporals, 20 lance-corporals, and 227 others*; total, 19 officers, 295 other ranks.

The Sixth comprised "F" squadron, containing—1 captain, 6 lieutenants, 1 lieutenant transit-officer, 1 medical officer (voyage only), 1 veterinary-lieutenant, 1 sergeant-major, 1 quartermaster-sergeant, 5 sergeants, 6 corporals, 5 lance-corporals, 1 saddler, and 107 others; total, 9 officers, 126 others.

Additional men were enrolled in South Africa.

DEPARTURE AND RETURN.

The Fifth Contingent left on 9th February, 1901, comprising—21 officers, 295 other ranks, with 320 horses. One officer, 20 others died or were killed. Number struck off in South Africa not known.

The Sixth left on 6th April, 1901, at a strength of 10 officers, 126 others, with 146 horses. Six died, or were killed. Number struck off not known. Twenty-one N.C.O.'s and men of the two Contingents were left in hospital in South Africa. The balance of both Contingents returned to Australia.

SERVICE.

The Fifth Contingent embarked at Port Adelaide in the transport Ormazan, on 9th February, 1901, called at Albany and Cape Town, and disembarked at Port Elizabeth on 23rd March. They proceeded to the Kroonstadt district, where they joined Colonel De Lisle's Column. The Sixth Contingent left Port Adelaide on the transport Warrigal, on 6th April, 1901, and disembarked at Durban on 25th April. They proceeded at once to join the Fifth, which in the meantime had already trekked 291 miles. They were formed into one regiment under Major Shea, Indian Staff Corps, with Majors Wilson and Hurcombe, formerly Fourth Contingent. The regiment came under Lieut.-Colonel R. Fanshawe's command, and was in General E. Locke Elliott's division. From May, 1901, to May, 1902, Colonel De Lisle's Column did outstanding work in the north-eastern corner of the Orange River Colony.

On 25th May, Captain Hipwell died of enteric, and Lieutenant O'Sullivan was promoted in his place.

On 6th June, 1901, a composite force of 100 mounted infantry, and the same number of South Australians, made an early morning march and captured the whole of De Wet's convoy with six months' supplies. For four hours 160 men held out against the notable Boer leader and between 300 and 400 burghers, who attempted to re-capture it; eight men being killed and six wounded. The Boers lost heavily; 15 dead and a number of wounded being picked up.

From the Harrismith district, trekked to Klerksdorp, and from thence to Bloemfontein. An attack was made upon General Smut's laager at Grootvallier. Lord Kitchener, in his despatch of the 8th August, stated that—"Broadwood on the 29th July, made a night march on Bothaville, which resulted in his driving a number of Boers into the arms of Colonel De Lisle's South Australians, who captured 18 prisoners and 12 wagons. Major Shea, with 200 South Australians, made a gallant attack on Smut's commando at Grootvallier Farm, near the Vet River. Wire fencing, unseen in the darkness, prevented complete success of the plans, and enabled the Boers to escape, despite the fact that the South Australians pressed forward on foot, with fixed bayonets. Five Boers were left dead and 11 captured, including Field-Cornet Wolmarans, of Potchefstroom. By the 6th and 7th, Colonel De Lisle had accounted for 40 prisoners, 147 stand of arms, 600 horses, and 2,000 cattle." Three separate convoys were captured. Colonel De Lisle on 2nd August, congratulated the regiment on the successful night enterprises, and said that "the very dashing night attack at Grootvallier was worthy of the best traditions of Australian troops in the war."

After leaving Bloemfontein in August, trekked along the Basuto border, taking a number of prisoners, in addition to capturing the convoy of the Ficksburg commando. For the next two months they scoured the south-eastern portion of the Orange River Colony, then went north, where fighting and night marches were experienced. Then proceeded to Standerton, and from thence sent to relieve the late Colonel Benson's force after the Brakenlaagte disaster. The South Australians were the first to get to that place, after riding 75 miles in 22 hours.

In October, Captain Cornish was invalided to Australia, and Lieutenant Macfarlane promoted to succeed him.

The blockhouses were completed by February, and the Column, abandoning the former system of operating individually, adopted the plan of moving together and driving the enemy on the railway or blockhouses. This involved hardships and trying work, long marches, and the digging of entrenchments along the front. The duties of keeping watch on the always alert enemy became so arduous that even the officers were ordered by the General to take their turns on sentry. In the first drive 405 Boers were captured; and, in the second, which Lord Kitchener himself directed, no less than 1,100 of the enemy were accounted for, including General Jan Meyer and Jacobus De Wet's son. The next drive was from Harri-smith to Wolvehoek, but owing to the inefficiency of the blockhouses the Boers crossed the line in two places and escaped.

On 18th March, at Kroonstadt, orders were received to mobilize for home. The men had not been three consecutive days in one place. In conjunction, the two Contingents trekked 3,825 miles. The men caught, and broke in for themselves, 867 veldt ponies; in addition, they received 630 remounts, so that it was a rarity for a man to be dismounted longer than a day or two.

The Contingents embarked at Cape Town on 27th March, 1902, in the transport Montrose, and proceeded to Durban, where they transferred to the transport Manchester Merchant. Left Durban on 5th April, called at Albany, and disembarked at Port Adelaide on 27th April. Subsequently disbanded.

SPECIAL SERVICE OFFICERS.

GORDON, Colonel (now Brigadier-General) J. M.—This officer proceeded to South Africa with the Second Contingent by the transport Surrey, and arrived at Cape Town on 25th February, 1900. He was appointed Staff Officer for Oversea Colonials. He served as Deputy Adjutant-General to the First Mounted Infantry Brigade, commanded by Major-General E. T. H. Hutton, which numbered 6,215 officers and men. He also commanded a Column 1,200 strong (composed of mounted men who belonged to the First and Second Mounted Infantry Brigades of General Ian Hamilton's Division), from Bloemfontein to Kroonstadt; and he accompanied General Hutton in the march from Kroonstadt to Pretoria, and afterwards from Pretoria to Belfast. Operations in Cape Colony. Operations in Orange Free State, including action at Karee Siding. Operations in the Transvaal, including action near Johannesburg. Despatches, London Gazette, 16th April, 1901. C.B. Queen's Medal with four clasps.

Edwards, Major Vernon Harridge. —Proceeded to South Africa with the Fifth Contingent, which arrived at Port Elizabeth on 23rd March, 1901. He was present at operations in Cape Colony, and Orange River Colony, and was ultimately invalided to Australia, arriving at Adelaide on 5th August, 1901. Queen's Medal with three clasps.

Scriven, Major Walter, V.D.—Embarked in the transport Ormazan on 9th February, 1901, with the Fifth Imperial Bushmen, having charge of the Contingent until its arrival in South Africa. It was his desire to obtain an appointment in the artillery, if possible, that being the branch of the service to which he belonged. The Contingent proceeded to Kroonstadt, Orange Free State. As, however, there was no special warrant or officer of his rank with the artillery, he remained with the Fifth for a considerable time, operating all over Orange Free State, under the command of Colonel De Lisle. He then returned to Kroonstadt, and was officer commanding Colonel De Lisle's details for some time, after which he returned to Australia. Queen's Medal with three clasps.

FOURTH BATTALION AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH HORSE.
SOUTH AUSTRALIAN UNIT.

“C” SQUADRON of this Battalion was raised under circumstances which did not differ in any essential from those under which that preceding it was enrolled. Authority was received on 23rd January, 1902; and men were selected, medically examined, tested, and finally accepted in the usual manner. The strength was —4 officers, 116 others, with 121 horses.

The Contingent left Port Adelaide on 1st April, 1902, in the transport Templemore, which carried the Victorian units and staff, and part of the Western Australian unit. Landed at Durban, 21st April, and encamped there for two days; then entrained for Newcastle, and encamped at Kitchener's Kop, with the 3rd Battalion. Subsequently trekked, via Laing's Nek and Majuba, to Volksrust. Entrained from there (Charleston) to Elandsfontein, and encamped there until ordered to return to Australia, after having returned horses into Remount Camp. There was but one casualty (vide Nominal Roll); and not any promotions.

Embarked at Durban on 7th July, in the transport Norfolk. Lieutenant Watson and portion of the Contingent arrived in South Australia on 24th July, via Albany; Captain Collins, D.S.O., with remainder, arrived via Albany, 31st July. Disbanded, 15th August.

EIGHTH BATTALION AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH HORSE.

THIS Contingent comprised the Battalion Staff and "A" and "B" Squadrons; "C" and "D" being Tasmanian and Western Australian respectively. It was raised, like the 5th, 6th, and 7th, upon a territorial basis, for which and other particulars of organization, &c., vide page 184. Preference in selecting men, qualification, age, term of engagement, conditions, pay, horse selection, &c., as for other battalions, which see.

Regimental staff consisted of 1 lieutenant-colonel, 1 major, second-in-command, 1 adjutant, 1 quartermaster, 1 medical officer, 1 veterinary officer, 1 regimental sergeant-major, 1 regimental quartermaster-sergeant, 1 orderly-room sergeant (staff sergeant). One paymaster was appointed for two Battalions. Each Squadron included 1 captain, 4 subalterns, 1 sergeant-major, 1 quartermaster-sergeant, 4 sergeants, 1 sergeant-farrier, 6 corporals, 1 saddler, 3 shoeing-smiths, 2 trumpeters, 97 troopers; in all, 5 officers, 116 others. One Squadron was divided into four troops, each under the immediate command of a subaltern officer, and comprising about 29 N.C.O.'s and men. Most of the officers and many of the men had served in previous Contingents or South African corps. The appointment of one subaltern in each Squadron was left vacant.

The four troops of "A" Squadron were raised in Adelaide, and the country within a radius of 80 miles; "B" Squadron as follows—1st troop in the south-eastern district (headquarters, Mount Gambier, comprising Naracoorte, Penola, Millicent, and surrounding country); 2nd troop in the central north-eastern district (headquarters, The Burra, comprising Petersburg, Broken Hill, and the country between); 3rd troop in the Peninsula district (headquarters, Wallaroo, comprising Moonta, Kadina, Bute, and surrounding country); 4th troop in the northern district (headquarters, Port Pirie, comprising Jamestown, Gladstone, Port Germien, Spalding, Laura, and surrounding country).

SERVICE.

Like the three previous Battalions, this one was not destined to see anything of the war. The Contingent, comprising 13 officers, 232 others, with 250 horses, left Port Adelaide by the transport St. Andrew on the 26th May, 1902, taking also the Tasmanian and Western Australian Squadrons, and arrived at Durban on 19th June. The left wing proceeded to Newcastle, under Major Osborne; the right wing remained at Durban. The Battalion (less those struck off in South Africa) embarked at Durban on 1st July, in the transport Manchester Merchant, and arrived in South Australia, via Albany, on 24th. South Australian Squadrons were disbanded on 9th August, 1902.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

PREFATORY.

WESTERN Australia despatched six Contingents to the war, besides her quota of the Commonwealth Contingents. The first three, consisting of one Company each, were paid by the Colonial Government; the remainder by the Imperial; and horses and saddlery were provided, as well as (in the earlier Contingents) regimental transport. The 4th Contingent consisted of one Company; the 5th and 6th, of two Companies each; and the two latter Contingents amalgamated in South Africa. One half-Company ("E") was contributed to 2nd Battalion, Australian Commonwealth Horse; one Company ("D") to 4th Battalion, Australian Commonwealth Horse; and one Squadron ("D") to 8th Battalion, Australian Commonwealth Horse.

The Camp for preliminary training and organization was at Karrakatta.

The first Contingent served with General Clements' Column near Colesberg and Orange Free State. With Major-General Hutton's Column on advance from Bloemfontein to occupation of Pretoria. With Colonel De Lisle's Column from capture of Pretoria to departure from South Africa, 13th December, 1900. Claimed as per medal roll for Johannesburg, Diamond Hill, Wittebergen, and Cape Colony.

The second Contingent was with General Pole-Carew's Column from advance from Bloemfontein to engagement at Belfast. With Colonel De Lisle's Column afterwards until departure. Claimed medal roll for Johannesburg, Diamond Hill, Cape Colony, Orange Free State, and Belfast.

The third Contingent did duty with General Carrington's Column through Rhodesia, until after relief of Eland's River; subsequently with Lord Methuen's Column, and afterwards with General Plumer. Claimed medal roll, Cape Colony, Orange Free State, Transvaal, and Rhodesia.

The fourth Contingent served with General Clements' Column, including Wittebergen and Bethlehem. Medal roll for Wittebergen, Cape Colony, and Transvaal.

The fifth Contingent was with General W. Kitchener's Column in Eastern Transvaal, Natal, and Orange Free State; with Colonel Campbell's and Colonel Wing's Columns in Eastern Transvaal. Medal roll for Transvaal.

The sixth Contingent served with General W. Kitchener's Column in Eastern Transvaal, Natal, and Orange Free State; with Colonel Campbell's, Colonel Benson's, and Colonel Wing's Columns in Eastern Transvaal. Medal roll for Transvaal.

The half unit in 2nd Battalion, Australian Commonwealth Horse, participated in the great "drive," terminating at the railway line near Vryburg, which practically brought the war to a conclusion.

FIRST (MOUNTED INFANTRY) CONTINGENT.

IN the Western Australian Government Gazette of 13th October, 1899, appeared a notification that His Excellency the Governor in Council had been pleased to sanction the formation of a Company of Infantry, with an establishment of 1 captain, 3 lieutenants, and 125 other ranks, for service with Her Majesty's Imperial Forces in South Africa. The period of engagement to be for one year, but this was subsequently extended (Western Australian Government Gazette, 19th October, 1900). Men between the ages of 20 and 30 were qualified for enlistment. There was a Machine Gun Section.

SERVICE.

The Contingent left Albany on the 7th November, 1899, in the transport Medic, together with Victorian, South Australian, and Tasmanian units, and arrived at Cape Town on 27th November. These companies were there formed into "The Australian Regiment," and were joined subsequently by a Company from New South Wales. On 1st December, the Regiment entrained for De Aar to join the Kimberley Relief Force; and were employed on the lines of communication between De Aar and Modder River. On 1st February, 1900, the Western Australian Company was converted into Mounted Infantry at Naauwpoort, as were also the others.

For details of service between November, 1899, and April, 1900, when the Regiment was broken up, vide 1st Victorian Contingent, under "Australian Regiment." Reference may be directed to General Order, 10th February, 1900, quoted therein, with regard to the gallant defence of a kopje at Slingersfontein (afterwards known as "West Australia Hill") by Captain Moor, with Lieutenants Darling and Hensman, 2 sergeants, and 23 rank and file, against 300 or 400 of the enemy. Mention should be made of Private Krygger's gallantry. After Lieutenant Hensman had fallen mortally wounded, this soldier, under very heavy fire, endeavoured to build a sangar or wall round his officer, as a screen.

Subsequently the 1st Western Australians participated in operations in the Transvaal, Orange Free State, and Cape Colony, including actions at Johannesburg, Pretoria, Diamond Hill, Wittebergen, Vet River, Zand River, Waterval Onder, and Colesberg, and many skirmishes. They were with General Clements' Column (as part of the Australian Regiment); with Major-General Hutton's Column on advance from Bloemfontein to occupation of Pretoria; and with Colonel De Lisle's Column, from capture of Pretoria to departure from South Africa.

"At Diamond Hill, 12th June, 1900, the New South Wales Mounted Rifles were ordered to support the 6th Mounted Infantry battalion, and the 1st Western Australian Mounted Infantry were held in reserve. About 2 p.m. the advance began, under cover of the pom-pom fire, which was directed on the Boer gun. As soon as De Lisle saw that the battalion had gained a footing on the hill, he brought the pom-poms under shelter of the wall of Rhenosterfontein Farm, at a range of 1,400 yards, and let go the New South Wales Mounted Rifles. Leaving their horses under cover of the dead ground, the Australians came on to the attack in column of troops, the men being opened out at intervals of 30 yards, with 50 yards distance between troops. Extended in this way, the 350 men of the corps created the appearance of a much larger force, and as they swarmed over the crest of the hill with fixed bayonets, the Boers, without waiting for the attack, retired to a second position, some 1,200 yards away. Darkness was just closing over Diamond Hill when the Boers beyond opened a furious fusillade all down the line; the 2nd Coldstream Guards responded with equal energy. The sound as of a feu de joie was heard over the whole field. But this was the end; for the English had captured the key of the Boer position."—Times History of the War.

On the 27th June, a post on the railway near Roodeval station was attacked, but the enemy were repulsed by a detachment of the Shropshire Light Infantry with the 1st Western Australian Mounted Infantry, with the aid of a 15-pr. gun on an armoured train.

Ridley's Mounted Infantry Brigade, including the 1st Western Australians, formed part of the force which Sir Archibald Hunter led into the north-east Orange River Colony, with a view of surrounding, if possible, the enemy under De Wet, and Prinsloo, in the Wittebergen, or Brandwater Basin, as the district was more generally called. On the night of the 15th July, De Wet, with about 1,600 men and some guns, escaped from Slabbert's Nek. General Broadwood, with the 2nd Cavalry Brigade and Ridley's Mounted Infantry, were sent in pursuit. The Boers succeeded in cutting the railway line. On 22nd July, General Knox, at Kroonstad, wired to the General in Command, Central Transvaal, the following from General Broadwood, sent by despatch-rider to Honingspruit, and telegraphed from there to Lord Kitchener:—"Have followed commando since 16th July. Had sharp fight at Palmietfontein on 19th July; prevented from pursuing by darkness. Eight dead Boers found. Our casualties—Killed, Major Moor, Western Australian Mounted Infantry, and four men; wounded—Lieutenant Stanley, 10th Hussars, Lieutenant Tooth, Australian Contingent, and fourteen men." Major Moor's death was a heavy loss to the 1st Western Australians. His fine leadership had brought his corps into great prominence, considering their small number. There were, besides him, one killed, six wounded.

In the fighting at Stinkhonthoom, 24th July, there were several casualties. At the relief of Colonel Hore at Eland's River, 16th August, the first troops to ride in and receive the thanks of the garrison were De Lisle's Western Australians, here scouting in front of Lord Kitchener's force, which comprised six regiments of regular cavalry. De Lisle's corps reached Pretoria on 28th August, and were thereafter employed in the Central Transvaal. At Waterval Onder, 3rd September, Lieutenant Darling and four men were wounded. On the 15th October, the 1st Western Australians were inspected by Lord Roberts in Pretoria, and were complimented on their work.

On 13th December, 1900, the Contingent left Cape Town in the transport Orient, and arrived at Albany on the 29th. Disbanded on 29th March, 1901.

SECOND (MOUNTED INFANTRY) CONTINGENT.

ON 20th December, 1899, the formation of a second Company of Mounted Infantry for service in the war, was sanctioned by the Western Australian Government. Period of engagement, one year, but subsequently extended (Western Australian Government Gazette, 8th March, 1901). Establishment—One captain, 3 subalterns, and 50 other ranks. Clothing, kit, etc., as before, but adapted to mounted men; also rates of pay, except that there was an addition of staff sergeants, 10s. per diem, and warrant officers, 11s. 6d. per diem. It was further notified that pensions to widows of officers and warrant officers, and compassionate allowance to their children, pensions for wounded, etc., would be such as might be considered and allowed by the Imperial Government from Imperial funds; and that officers, warrant officers, N.C.O.'s, and privates had no claim on the Western Australian Government in such respect.

An increase in the establishment to 125 of all ranks was sanctioned on 8th January, 1900. Men between the ages of 20 and 34 were qualified for enlistment.

SERVICE.

This Contingent embarked in the transport Surrey on 3rd February, 1900, at Fremantle, and arrived at Cape Town on the 24th. They proceeded to the Prieska district in March, and were amongst the troops engaged in dealing with an organized disaffection. The rising having been put down, some of the Western Australian force continued to operate in that district during part of April.

The 2nd Western Australians were with General Pole-Carew's Column from the advance from Bloemfontein to the engagement at Belfast; and with Colonel De Lisle's Column after engagement at Belfast during the remainder of their term. It is rather difficult in some respects to disassociate their service from that of the 1st.

The Company arrived at Bloemfontein in time to take part in the advance to Pretoria in May. At Bloemfontein they were attached to General Pole-Carew's 11th Division, in which they served from 1st May to the end of October, with the exception of a few weeks about the end of June and beginning of July, when they were detached to assist on the lines of communication in the Orange River Colony. The 2nd were in action at Brandfort, 3rd May; Vet River, 4th; Zand River, 9th and 10th; Vaal, 26th; Johannesburg, 28th, 29th, 30th; 6-Mile Spruit, 4th June; Silverton, 8th; Diamond Hill, 11th and 12th June; and Belfast, 27th August.

The Westralians were heavily engaged at Diamond Hill. In his telegram of the 16th June, Lord Roberts said:—"Botha's army has retired, believed to Middelburg. His rearguard was surprised and thoroughly routed by Ian Hamilton's Mounted Infantry, chiefly Western Australians, and the 6th Battalion."

On the 16th July, a party of the 2nd Western Australians at Pienaar's Pont, on the left of General Pole-Carew's position east of Pretoria, successfully repelled a Boer attack.

The 2nd took part, under General Pole-Carew, in the advance from Pretoria to Komati Poort, starting about the 23rd July. They had fighting in the Belfast district on 27th August, and frequently thereafter. In his telegram of 13th September, Lord Roberts remarked that the Western Australian had been scouting in front of Pole-Carew's Division. They were said to have been the first to discover much railway material and other valuable stores near the Poort. They were present at a review on a large scale held there on 28th September. After their stay in that neighbourhood, they were employed about Machadodorp, where they suffered some casualties throughout October.

On the 7th November the Company left Cape Town in the transport Wooloomooloo, and arrived, on the 8th December, at Fremantle. Disbanded on 7th March, 1901.

Note:—Although the bulk of the Company left as stated, some remained and were employed in Cape Colony, assisting to drive out the invaders. At Klipplaat, on 5th February, 1901, Lieutenant Oliver had been sent in command of a small force of twelve of the 7th Dragoon Guards, twelve Western Australians, and three Cape Police, to carry despatches from Colonel Haig to another leader. The little party was surprised by several hundred of the enemy. They kept up a steady fire, as occasion served, from 11 a.m. until sundown, but eventually were all overpowered. Four dragoons were killed, and Lieutenant Oliver and several others wounded.

The last of the Contingent appear to have steamed for Australia, under Lieutenant Duffy, on 31st March.

THIRD (BUSHMEN'S) CONTINGENT.

THE Western Australian Government Gazette, of 16th February, 1900, contained a General Order to the effect that the Government had sanctioned a further increase in the establishment of the Mounted Infantry Corps by 125 of all ranks. Pay, clothing, equipment, &c., as for previous Contingents.

It was notified that members of the Bushmen's Company who might provide their own horses and saddles, if passed fit for service by the military authorities, would be granted a sum of £15 as compensation, and a refund of any rail freight that might have been paid in bringing such horses to Perth. At the termination of hostilities, if the horses were sold, any excess over £15 obtained by such sale, would be given to the owner.

The same announcement was made in regard to pensions, etc., as previously (vide 2nd Contingent).

Each man enlisted was required to be in possession of a certificate from a Committee appointed by the Government as expert judges of the qualifications of an Australian bushman.

DEPARTURE AND RETURN.

The Contingent left on 13th March, 1900, with 7 officers, 109 others, and 127 horses. Four died or were killed; 6 officers, 13 others, were struck off in South Africa; 2 officers, 91 others returned to Australia (1 officer promoted from ranks; 2 men died after return); 2 officers appointed to Imperial service.

SERVICE.

The 3rd Company of Western Australian Mounted Infantry for the war, left Fremantle on 13th March, 1900, in the transport Maplemore, and arrived at Beira on the 18th April. The Contingents which landed at Beira were divided into regiments as follows:—1st Regiment, New South Wales; 2nd Regiment, Victorians and Western Australians; 3rd Regiment, Queenslanders. But the Victorian and Western Australian Regiment was more generally designated the "3rd Bushmen." The different corps were very much mixed up before they had gone far into the Transvaal.

The 3rd Western Australians formed part of the force of Bushmen which, under General Carrington, crossed Rhodesia and entered the Transvaal from Mafeking. They served in the first instance with General Carrington's Column through Rhodesia, until after the relief of Eland's River; afterwards with Lord Methuen's Column, and subsequently with General Plumer's Force.

The Contingent, small as it was, was split up; but saw a great deal of fighting throughout July, August, and September, 1900, in the district between Mafeking in the west, and Warmbad, north of Pretoria, in the east. At Koster's River (19th, 21st, 22nd July) there was a prolonged engagement in which parties from the different Australian Colonies took a large share. The 3rd Western Australians, with a strength of about 70, had Captain (Medical Staff) F. J. Ingoldby, and several others wounded. They were associated with the 3rd Victorians; and, as before stated, formed the 3rd (sometimes called the 2nd) Regiment of Australian Bushmen.

A few Western Australians, acting under Captain Ham, 3rd Victorians, were in the Australian garrison which made a stiff defence at Eland's River in the Rustenburg district, 4th to 16th August. (Vide New South Wales Citizen's Bushmen, p. 73, and 3rd Queensland Contingent.) Another small detachment were with General Carrington, when he attempted to effect Hore's relief from the west; while the first troops to march into the place as the advanced scouts of Lord Kitchener's force, which relieved the garrison from the south-east, were men of the 1st Western Australians.

During the last few months of 1900, and up to April, 1901, the 3rd, as part of the 3rd Australian Bushmen with General Plumer's Force, saw much fighting in many parts of the seat of war; and, under the fine leadership of Major Vials, always did well.

Received from Lord Roberts, 3rd December, 1900:—

“ Lord Kitchener informs me that General Paget has brought to his notice the great gallantry of Major Vials, 3rd Western Australians, and of the magnificent behaviour of that regiment in a recent engagement. I offer to their relations and to the Colony generally, my most hearty congratulations.”

Captain Hurst remained in South Africa after the return of his Contingent to Australia. While attached to “G” Battery Royal Horse Artillery, then converted into Mounted Rifles, he was severely wounded in action at Boochbult, Western Transvaal, 31st March, 1902.

The 3rd left Cape Town on 9th May, 1901, in the transport Morayshire, and arrived in Fremantle on the 28th.

Disbanded, 18th August, 1901.

FOURTH (MOUNTED INFANTRY) CONTINGENT.

BY the Western Australian Government Gazette of 16th March, 1900, it was notified that the formation of a fourth Company of Mounted Infantry had been authorized, with an establishment of 7 officers and 125 of other ranks. This was the first Western Australian Contingent of Imperial Bushmen. For pay, clothing, equipment, conditions of enrolment, and service, etc., vide Imperial Bushmen, New South Wales or Victoria.

By Army Order 150 (Imperial), July, 1900, it was intimated that N.C.O.'s and men of Australian and other Colonial Contingents in receipt of ordinary Army rates of pay, would obtain a gratuity of £5 when discharged medically unfit, or on account of their services being no longer required, or on the termination of their engagements. In the event of death during service, the gratuity would be credited to the estate. This gratuity was, also, to be in addition to the gratuity (if any) given to the troops at the end of the war.

DEPARTURE AND RETURN.

The Contingent left on the 8th May, 1900, comprising—7 officers, 120 others, with 132 horses. Three were killed; 1 officer promoted from the ranks; 3 officers, 35 others were struck off in South Africa; 5 officers, 81 others returned to Australia.

PROMOTIONS, ETC.

Captain J. Rose was promoted Major, 15th March, 1900.

Lieutenant C. A. C. Newland, promoted Captain, 15th March, 1900.

Lieutenant E. Vernon, promoted Captain (Sup.), 1st April, 1902, attached to 6th Contingent.

Lieutenant E. R. Williams, promoted Captain, 8th March, 1901, and appointed to 6th Contingent.

Quartermaster-Sergeant H. N. Venn, promoted Lieutenant, 2nd March, 1901.

Corporal L. L. Reid became a Lieutenant in 8th Australian Commonwealth Horse.

For promotions of N.C.O.'s and men, vide nominal roll.

SERVICE.

The squadron left Fremantle by the transport Manhattan on the 8th May, 1900, and arrived at Beira on the 28th. After having touched at Durban, the Contingent was landed at Port Elizabeth on 19th June, and was at once taken to the Kroonstadt district. They served with General Clements' Column; and they were present at Bethlehem, Rhenoster Kop, and Wittebergen.

On 23rd June they joined a force under Colonel Brookfield, which was to see some very severe fighting during the ensuing three weeks. They also formed part of the 4th Regiment of Imperial Bushmen, consisting of the 4th South Australians, the 4th Western Australians, and the 4th (or more properly 3rd) Tasmanians, under Lieut.-Colonel J. Rowell.

On the 3rd July, General Paget had a stiff engagement with the enemy at Leeuw Kop. In the course of the fighting the guns had been taken to the road; and, during a pause in the action, the escort had been removed to the rear. The Boers, with great skill and secrecy, delivered a sudden and furious counter-attack, in which they gained temporary possession of the guns. Captain Budworth succeeded in rallying the Australians, who had retired, and promptly brought them back. For some time there was cause for anxiety; but the period of imminent danger did not last long; it was over from the moment when, under the firing of the Australians, the Boers left the disabled guns and retreated. Colonel Rowell, having broken a rib through his horse falling, was unable to be present, and Major Rose commanded the Bushmen.

At the taking of Bethlehem, 7th July, 300 Bushmen, mostly South and Western Australians, joined in the attack, and behaved excellently. They were in the pursuit of De Wet from Bethlehem through Oliphant's Nek. On 4th November, the regiment, which had been split up, was together again, under Colonel Rowell. It was long in General Plumer's Force, and did very good work in the operations north of Pretoria and in the Eastern Transvaal.

Upon De Wet's intention to attempt an invasion of Cape Colony being manifested about the end of January, 1901, General Plumer's troops were entrained from Brugspruit in the Eastern Transvaal to Cape Colony; and it was in a great measure due to them that the Boer General was driven out. There were many casualties in the numerous rear-guard engagements with the commandoes. After pursuing the remnant northward, Plumer's men were again entrained at Brandfort for the district north of Pretoria, and took part in the expedition to Pietersburg.

On the Pietersburg trek, and after the occupation of that place, the 4th Imperial Bushmen contributed largely to the success of operations generally in advance of Plumer's Force; they took many prisoners and wagons, and one gun. Some of the 4th Imperial Bushmen were in the escort for a convoy which was sharply attacked by some 400 of the enemy, on the Bethel-Standerton-road, 25th May, 1901. "The escort under Colonel Gallway fought with great gallantry, and completely confuted the enemy's repeated efforts to press into close quarters."—(Lord Kitchener's despatch, 8th July).

On the 5th July, 1901, the Contingent departed from Cape Town in the transport Britannic, and arrived at Albany on the 20th. Disbanded on the 14th August.

FIFTH AND SIXTH (MOUNTED INFANTRY) CONTINGENTS.

ALTHOUGH these two Contingents were separately raised and left Western Australia at different times, they agreed to amalgamate after arriving at the front, and thus to form one battalion of four or five companies, instead of remaining distinct units of two companies each (vide "Service.") Authority for enrolment was published in December, 1900, and January, 1901. Conditions of enlistment, pay, clothing, and equipment, etc., were as for previous Contingents.

Many of the N.C.O.'s and men had served in other Contingents at the war; and a large proportion of the remainder were, or had been, members of Australian Militia or Volunteer Corps. The personnel of these Contingents was, therefore, of a superior character.

DEPARTURE AND RETURN.

The 5th Contingent left on 6th March, 1901, comprising—14 officers, 207 others, with 239 horses. Six officers and 5 others were attached in South Africa; 1 promotion from ranks; 1 officer, 9 others were killed or died; 12 officers, 63 others were struck off in South Africa; 8 officers, 139 others, returned to Australia.

The 6th departed on 10th April, 1901. Establishment—14 officers, 214 others, with 237 horses. Two officers, and 6 others were attached in South Africa; 2 promotions from ranks; 2 officers, 13 others were killed or died; 7 officers, 48 others were struck off in South Africa; 9 officers, 157 others returned to Australia.

For promotions of N.C.O.'s and men, vide nominal rolls.

SERVICE.

The 5th Contingent left Fremantle in the transport Devon on 6th March, 1901, and arrived at Durban on the 28th. The 6th embarked on the Ulstermore, which put to sea on the 10th April, reaching Durban on the 29th. As before stated, after the 6th arrived at the seat of war, both Contingents united, forming one strong battalion, the command of which was entrusted to Major (afterwards Lieut.-Colonel) J. R. Royston, D.S.O., who had seen the commencement of the war as a subaltern in the Border Mounted Rifles, a Natal Volunteer Corps, and had gained distinction at the defence of Ladysmith. Lieutenant A. J. B. Brown, an officer who obtained experience in the 1st Western Australian Contingent, was appointed adjutant of the combined battalion.

They served with Major-General F. W. Kitchener's Column in the Eastern Transvaal, Natal, and Orange Free State; and with Colonel Campbell's, Colonel Benson's, and Colonel Wing's Columns in Eastern Transvaal.

For a great part of the year 1901, the 5th and 6th were in the Column of Major-General Kitchener, who long operated in the Lydenberg district, and generally over the Eastern Transvaal. In April, the Column, working from Lydenberg, took part in the operations of Sir Bindon Blood to the north of the Delagoa railway, and in the Middelburg district. During April, the Western Australians were several times engaged, and made some captures of prisoners and stock.

On 13th May, Kitchener's Column crossed to the south of the railway and made for the Ermelo district to take part in another sweeping movement towards Ermelo, under the direction of General Bindon Blood, and back towards the Ermelo-Bethel district. Captain Campbell was complimented by General Kitchener during operations at Farne House. On the 15th, there was a severe fight at Grobelaar Recht, near Carolina, in which the 5th had Lieutenant Forrest and Sergeant Edwards and Corporal Bollinger killed, and four men wounded; and the 6th had four men killed, Lieutenant S. S. Reid and four men wounded, one of whom subsequently died.

On the 16th, there was more fighting in which Lieutenant F. W. Bell distinguished himself, and was recommended for the Victoria Cross, which he subsequently received. The following is the official report of his conduct (London Gazette, 4th October, 1901):—"At Brakpan, 16th May, when retiring through a heavy fire, after holding the right flank, Lieutenant Bell noticed a man dismounted, and returned and took him behind him. The horse not being equal to the weight, fell with them. Lieutenant Bell then remained behind, and covered the man's retirement till he was out of danger."

On the 23rd June, at Renshoogte, there was again fighting. Lieutenant Reid and two men were killed, and two wounded severely. During these operations a number of prisoners, and some carts containing ammunition were taken.

In July, Kitchener's Column was back at Middelburg, and after refitting, moved north of the railway, and had some encounters in which prisoners were taken. On the 16th August, there was fighting, with further casualties. Portion of the battalion was from August to October in Colonel Benson's Column, and got in some good work in the Eastern Transvaal.

Towards the close of 1901, and in the early months of 1902, both Contingents were acting under General Bruce Hamilton in the Eastern Transvaal, and took part in many of his most successful enterprises. They had a few casualties in various actions, notably at Waterval River, Rolspruit (where Lieutenant G. A. Morris was killed) and Roodepoort.

While with Colonel Wing's Column in February and March, 1902, the Western Australians undertook many arduous marches in the hope of getting in contact with the enemy, but they had been worsted so often that their desire was to keep out of sight.

In the Commander-in-Chief's despatches of 8th March, 1902, Lieutenant R. Clifton was mentioned for conspicuous good service in General Bruce Hamilton's operations in Ermelo district; and Lieutenant P. J. Daley for gallantry. It was stated that "in pursuit of superior force of the enemy, near Kromdraai, on 28th February, 1902, he was severely wounded, but with Lieutenant M. A. Shee, D.S.O., 19th Hussars, captured seven of the enemy." Also "as Corporal, for gallant service on three occasions with scouts, when parties of Boers were taken. Promoted Sergeant by Commander-in-Chief."

Both Contingents embarked in the transport Columbian, which left Durban on 7th April, 1902, and arrived at Fremantle on the 29th. Disbanded on 17th May ensuing.

SECOND BATTALION AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH HORSE.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN UNIT.

THIS was "E" Company (or half Company) of the 2nd Battalion Australian Commonwealth Horse, composed of Western Australians. For pay, clothing, equipment, organization, service, &c., vide 2nd Battalion Australian Commonwealth Horse, Victoria.

Those who desired to join the Company were required to have had experience of country life in Australia, management of horses, and bush travelling; and to be of good character.

A captain, a corporal, and six privates of the Australian Army Medical Corps, Western Australian section, furnished that quota of the Commonwealth Army Medical Corps Contingent. Nominal roll subjoined. For service vide Army Medical Corps, New South Wales, p. 16.

There were no promotions of officers, nor casualties. Promotions of N.C.O.'s and men will be found in nominal roll. A proportion of them had served in previous Australian Contingents, or in South African Horse.

DEPARTURE AND RETURN.

The Company left on the 26th February, 1902, consisting of 2 officers, 58 others, having in reality only the strength of about a half-Company. Sixty horses were taken. Fifteen N.C.O.'s and men were struck off in South Africa; 2 officers, 43 others returned to Australia.

SERVICE.

The Company embarked on the transport Manchester Merchant at Fremantle, 26th February, 1902; the South Australian Company being also on board. Arrived at Durban on 14th March, and entrained for Newcastle, where they joined the Victorians on the 18th; Lieut.-Colonel M'Leish, C.M.G., in command. On 8th April, marched to Volksrust and entrained to Klerksdorp, where the battalion became portion of Colonel De Lisle's Australian Brigade, included in Lieutenant General Sir Ian Hamilton's Mobile Force. They took part in ensuing operations, including the "drive" (7th to 11th May), between Noitverwacht and the Kimberley-Mafeking railway line (Leeuwspruit, about 4 miles from Devondale Siding), the success of which contributed so much to the conclusion of the war. (Vide 2nd Australian Commonwealth Horse, Victoria).

The Company officers, of course, participated in the operations, and received Queen's Medal with clasps. Lieutenant and Quartermaster B. H. Andrews had seen previous service with 3rd Contingent. Lieutenant H. N. Venn, Paymaster, 1st and 2nd Battalions, who had formerly served in 4th Western Australian Contingent, returned to Australia by the Drayton Grange, 11th July; he was subsequently promoted Captain, and returned again to South Africa for final settlement of Australian accounts.

The Company embarked at Durban on 5th July, 1902, in the transport Norfolk, with the South Australians; arrived at Albany on the 25th., and were disbanded shortly afterwards.

" A PROCLAMATION.

[L.S.]
S. W. GRIFFITH,
Administrator.

" By His Excellency the Honourable Sir SAMUEL WALKER GRIFFITH, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George, Chief Justice of the Colony of Queensland, and Administrator of the Government of the said Colony and its Dependencies.

" WHEREAS the Government of the Colony of Queensland lately offered, in the event of hostilities breaking out between Great Britain and the South African Republic, the services of a Contingent of Troops, consisting of 250 Officers, Non-commissioned Officers, and Men of the Queensland Mounted Infantry, together with a Machine Gun Section of the Queensland Regiment of Royal Australian Artillery, for field duty with the Imperial Troops employed in South Africa: And whereas on the nineteenth day of October, instant, the Legislative Assembly of the said Colony resolved as follows:—

" That this House renews the assurance of its loyalty and devotion to the Throne and Person of Her Most Gracious Majesty The Queen, and as evidence of its sympathy with Her Majesty's subjects in the South African Republic, who have for so long a period suffered burdensome disabilities and grievous injustice, desires to support the determination of Her Majesty's Advisers to secure the immediate recognition of British rights in that Republic. This House therefore views with approbation the proposal of the Government to equip, despatch, and maintain a Military Force volunteering for service with Her Majesty's Army in South Africa, consisting of 250 Officers, Non-commissioned Officers, and Men of the Queensland Mounted Infantry, together with a Machine Gun Section of the Queensland Regiment of Royal Australian Artillery."

" And whereas Her Majesty has authorized a Force of Volunteers to be raised in the said Colony for the purposes aforesaid, and has directed that such Force shall, as from the embarkation thereof, be deemed to be serving with Her Majesty's Regular Forces: Now, therefore, I, Sir SAMUEL WALKER GRIFFITH, the Administrator of the Government aforesaid, do hereby proclaim and declare that a Military Force of Volunteers shall be and is hereby authorized to be raised and enrolled for Service with Her Majesty's Army in South Africa, consisting of 250 Officers, Non-commissioned Officers, and Men of the Queensland Mounted Infantry, including a Machine Gun Section, the detailed establishment whereof is more particularly described in the Schedule hereunder set out.

" Given under my hand and Seal, at Government House, Brisbane, this nineteenth day of October, in the year of our Lord One thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, and in the sixty-third year of Her Majesty's reign.

" By Command

" JAMES R. DICKSON.

" GOD SAVE THE QUEEN! "

This was the inception of the Queensland Contingents to the seat of war; the First, Second, and Third of which were paid by the Colonial Government upon the following scale:—Officers, as in other Australian Contingents; N.C.O.'s and men—Staff sergeants, 10s. per diem; company sergeant-major, 9s.; sergeant, 8s.; corporal, 7s.; artificer, 6s.; bugler, gunner, private, or driver, 4s. 6d.

Equipment comprised uniform (khaki cloth F.S. jacket, cord pants, puttees, field service hat, and cap), greatcoats, boots, and a full kit of underclothing, fatigue suits, necessaries, &c. Fully horsed, and supplied with saddlery, M.E. rifles and bayonets, bandolier and cartridge belt with supporting braces. It was provided, further, that all horses and saddlery would remain Government property. As matters turned out, however, they were handed over to the Imperial remount depots. Regimental transport was provided.

Pensions and compassionate allowances to widows and orphans were guaranteed upon the same scale as those granted in the case of persons of similar rank in the Imperial service, according to the provisions of the Royal Warrant for Pay.

Preference in the earlier Contingents was given to men who had been trained as Mounted Infantry, drivers in field artillery, or who had been accustomed to the care of horses.

Camps of Instruction, where the Contingents were enrolled, organized, drilled, and equipped, prior to embarkation, were established, under experienced officer and sergeant instructors, at Meeandah, the Exhibition, and Lytton.

FIRST (QUEENSLAND MOUNTED INFANTRY) CONTINGENT.

LIKE the early Contingents in other States, the first despatched by Queensland was ordered to be raised from officers and others serving in the local defence forces, namely, 250 of the Queensland Mounted Infantry, and a Machine Gun Section from the Royal Australian Artillery (Queensland). They were to be equipped strictly in accordance with the Field Service Manual for the equipment of a Mounted Infantry unit. With regard to this, however, Lieut.-Colonel Ricardo, who commanded the Contingent, stated in his report:—"Out of 262 of all ranks enrolled, 123 were then serving in the Queensland Mounted Infantry; but 46 men, who had served, also joined; this left 93 to be recruited from outside. Of this number, 25 N.C.O.'s and men of A Battery (Royal Australian Artillery), volunteered; they were some of the best men we had, and their example had a very good effect on the Contingent. The remainder were made up of men who said they were, or had been, members of the Queensland Defence Force."

The Contingent was practically enrolled, organized, and equipped with arms, clothing, horses, saddlery, transport wagons with fittings and stores, between the 13th and 28th October—a record of the indefatigable way in which the Staff, the Comptroller of Stores, the medical and veterinary authorities, and the embarkation officers must have worked. The horses were selected and purchased by Veterinary Major Irving, P.V.O.

SERVICE.

The Contingent embarked in the transport Cornwall, on 31st October and 1st November, 1899, and went to sea on the latter day. Arrived at Table Bay on 12th December; landed at Cape Town on the following day, and proceeded to Orange River in two trains. Their transport and ammunition wagons had been taken over by the Ordnance authorities at Cape Town, but fresh were issued at De Aar, comprising five buck wagons (nominal load 3,500 lbs.) and five Scotch carts for the ammunition. Subsequently, however, the Army Service Corps took over all transport. The wagons brought by the Contingent were used chiefly by the Royal Engineers, who spoke highly of them as being very handy, well and faithfully built, and very light in the draught; but, as every wagon required two drivers, it was more economical to have a vehicle that would carry a heavier load.

Owing to the weight of the machine gun carriage and the condition the horses were in, it was found that even with four horses per gun they could not keep up with the Column, and were, therefore, worse than useless. The machine guns were therefore handed over complete with harness and all spare parts to Colonel Chambier, Royal Artillery, at Kimberley, and, being required for further service, were retained when the Contingent returned to Queensland.

From Orange River the Contingent proceeded to Belmont, whence it took a prominent part in the engagement at Sunnyside (1st January, 1900) and the Relief of Douglas (2nd January, 1900), as part of an expeditionary force under Lt.-Colonel T. D. Pilcher.

In February, 1900, the Contingent took part in the Relief of Kimberley (Alderson's Brigade, General French's Division), and from thence proceeded to Koodoosrand, and was employed in the operations at Paardeberg (17th to 26th February).

After the surrender of General Cronje, the Contingent formed part of a mounted brigade under Lt.-Colonel Martyr (General French's Division), and took part in the engagements at Poplar Grove (7th March) and Driefontein (10th March), and the occupation of Bloemfontein on the 8th March, 1900.

At Bloemfontein, the 2nd Queensland Contingent joined by order of the Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief. The regiment went into rest camp at Springfontein until the 31st March, when the two companies of the 1st Contingent under Lt.-Colonel Ricardo formed part of the earlier relieving force at the engagement at Sanna's Post (31st March).

During April, 1900, the regiment, then consisting of three companies, with the 3rd Mounted Infantry Regiment (Imperial) and the 1st and 2nd Contingents of New Zealand Mounted Rifles, formed the 3rd Mounted Infantry Corps under Lt.-Colonel T. D. Pilcher, joined the 1st Mounted Infantry Brigade under Major-General Hutton (French's Division), and left Bloemfontein on the 1st May, when the general advance on Pretoria commenced. The regiment took part in the engagements at Brandfort (3rd May), Constantia (4th May, 1900), Vet River (5th and 6th May), Zand River (10th May, 1900), Klipriversberg (28th May), Johannesburg (29th May, 1900), Pretoria (4th June, 1900), and Diamond Hill (11th and 12th June).

After the occupation of Pretoria, strong inducements were offered to Australians and New Zealanders to join the South African Constabulary, which was then being formed, and a considerable number of the members of the 1st and 2nd Contingents were transferred; and, though many afterwards rejoined their regiment, the strength of the two Contingents was much reduced.

Lt.-Colonel Ricardo, considering that he was left without a command corresponding to his rank, applied for other employment, which was granted in Pretoria, and handed over the command to Major Chauvel.

Reformed into two squadrons, the regiment was engaged in the operations at Reit Vlei (13th to 16th July, 1900), and was then transferred to Mahon's Brigade (Ian Hamilton's Division), with which it took part in the first eastern advance as far as Balmoral (25th July), the action at Zilikat's Nek (2nd August), the operations about Rustenburg (August, 1900), and the pursuit of De Wet's force northwards to Warmbad, including engagement at Oliphant's Nek (17th August). The regiment then returned to the Eastern Transvaal, and, with the exception of half a squadron which accompanied Mahon's Brigade to Barberton under Lieut. Glasgow, formed part of a mounted force consisting of the 3rd Mounted Infantry Regiment (Imperial), Queensland Mounted Infantry, and 3rd Brabant's Horse, under Major Chauvel, which was employed in minor operations in the Middleburg District (Brigadier-General Barker), including the action near Pan (11th October, 1900), subsequently joining General Smith-Dorien's command at Belfast.

Early in November, orders having been received for the return of the 1st Contingent, the horses and saddlery were handed over, and train taken to Cape Town. The men were, however, detrained at De Aar, under Captain Pinnock, and proceeded to Worcester, remaining there until the meeting of the Afrikaner Bond had been held, when the journey to Cape Town was resumed.

On 13th December (anniversary of the day of disembarkation), embarked on transport Orient, and arrived at Brisbane on 17th January, 1901, after having called at Albany, Melbourne, and Sydney en route. Disbanded on the 23rd.

SERVICE.

The Contingent left Queensland by the transport Maori King on 13th January, 1900, anchored in Table Bay 22nd February, disembarked at Cape Town on 24th; went to Maitland Camp, and entrained for Modder River on 28th (10 officers, 142 other ranks, and 175 horses), arriving on 3rd March. It proceeded at once to join Lord Roberts' Field Force, and came under the command of Colonel Martyr.

The 2nd were present at the actions at Osfontein, Poplar Grove, Driefontein, and the various engagements leading to the occupation of Bloemfontein. They were then on outpost duties round Bloemfontein until 9th April, 1900, when this Contingent came under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Ricardo, 1st Contingent, (vide that Contingent, under "Service.")

On the 8th April, the Australian Regiment (vide 1st Victorian Contingent), with several other corps, including the Queenslanders, was absorbed in the 1st Mounted Infantry Brigade, under the command of Major-General Hutton, C.B., A.D.C.; this Contingent serving in 3rd Mounted Infantry Corps. The advance on Pretoria followed; and subsequent operations, including Vet and Zand Rivers, near Johannesburg, Diamond Hill, Riet Vlei, and Zilikat's Nek (April to September).

Served to 9th November, under Major Chauvel ("Chauvel's Mounted Infantry"), in minor operations round Middelburg (Brigadier-General Barker's district), as far east as Belfast.

The Contingent was in orders for Colonel De Lisle's Corps, December, 1900, but was not afforded an opportunity to join.

EXTRACT FROM COLUMN ORDERS BY MAJOR-GENERAL E. T. HUTTON, C.B., A.D.C., COMMANDING.

"Pretoria, 8th October, 1900.

Major-General Hutton, in relinquishing command of the Force placed under his orders, desires to convey to the officers, N.C.O.'s and men of the various units who have served under his command during the campaign, his sincere and hearty congratulations upon the success that, under Providence, has attended their efforts throughout the operations in which they have been engaged. The units of Imperial troops selected for service with the Mounted Infantry and those of Colonial mounted troops, representative of Canada, of the six Colonies of Australia, and of New Zealand, have alike distinguished themselves, by their steadiness under fire, by their gallantry in the field, and by their uniform good conduct in camp. In the latter connexion it is a subject of the greatest satisfaction to note that since the formation of the 1st Mounted Infantry Brigade, on 7th April, there has been almost an entire absence of military crime.

The mutual sympathy, admiration, and good will which have been so conspicuous between the Imperial and Colonial troops composing the command, must in the Major-General's opinion necessarily be conducive to that unity and solidarity of feeling which is an important and essential factor in the success of the Army of the British Empire.

The Major-General desires especially to record his appreciation and thanks for the excellent service rendered by all members of the staff connected with his Force, both Imperial and Colonial, but especially to Lieut.-Colonel Martyr, D.S.O., Chief Staff Officer, and to those of his headquarters staff.

Lieut.-Colonel Hutchison, Q.M.I., performed the duties of assistant staff officer to the officer in charge of the 1st Mounted Infantry Brigade Transport, during the advance from Bloemfontein, Johannesburg, and Pretoria (inclusive).

(True Copy).

DEPARTURE AND RETURN.

The Contingent left Brisbane on 1st March, 1900, comprising—14 officers, with 302 others, and 406 horses. Two officers, 5 others died or were killed; 3 were transferred; 2 officers, 52 others were struck off in South Africa; 14 officers, 242 others, returned to Australia.

SERVICE.

The 3rd Contingent left on the 1st March, 1900, by the transport Duke of Portland, calling at Albany on the 12th, and arrived at Cape Town on 2nd April; thence proceeded to Beira, and disembarked there. They were embodied in the Rhodesian Field Force, of which they became the 2nd Regiment, and participated in operations in Rhodesia, between the 11th October, 1899, and 25th May, 1900. As portion of the "Bushmen's Brigade" in Colonel Plumer's Column, they assisted in the relief of Mafeking. The Brigade served subsequently in General Carrington's Column.

Between July and November they were engaged in operations in Transvaal, east of Pretoria, including the action at Rhenoster Kop, 29th November. They were then in Craddock's Corps, General Paget's Column. As portion of the Bushmen's Brigade, General Baden-Powell's Column (but detached), they figured in operations west of Pretoria, including the defence at Eland's River, 4th to 16th August; Colonel Hore, officer commanding lines of communication, being in command.

At the engagement at Koster River on the 22nd July, the Queenslanders were under heavy fire for 6½ hours; during which time bullets, the majority of them explosive ones, were whistling, singing, exploding, and hissing all round them, the enemy being posted on a line of kopjes, which afterwards proved to be within 800 yards of their position under cover, in the long grass near the main road. Here the Queensland Contingent bore the whole brunt of the fire, being in the lead, and the first to come in view of the enemy. Lieutenant Leask was wounded early in the day, but would not quit his post; he died of the wound afterwards. They were ultimately rescued by the garrison at Nogato's Nek, where Colonel Lushington telephoned into Rustenburg for reinforcements, with the result that portion of the Protectorate Regiment, under Captain Fitzclarence, with another force under the officer first named, came upon the scene; and the former poured volleys into the kopjes with such effect that the Boers were dislodged.

The Eland's River Camp (Ottoshoop, between Rustenburg and Zeerust) was attacked by Commandant De La Rey on 4th August, at daybreak.

For an account of this spirited defence, vide New South Wales Citizen's Bushmen. In this affair, Lieutenant Annat was killed, and twelve rank and file wounded. One of the Queenslanders, Trooper J. T. Masterton, was the first man hit. The casualties (amongst which were five deaths) were very heavy on the first day; and nearly all being from fragments of shells, were very bad wounds. Several men were hit a second time in hospital. It was fortunate that the Queenslanders marched in, as otherwise there would have been no medical officer, ambulances, or appliances, no water carts, and very few entrenching tools.

On the 29th November, General Paget made an attack on the enemy's very strong position at Rhenoster Kop (Rietfontein), and the whole force was engaged from 7.15 a.m. until nearly midnight. The 3rd Queenslanders were on the left flank with the Victorians and Western Australians, and were under shell, pom-pom, and rifle fire the whole time; but having a certain amount of cover, losses were not very heavy. Staff Sergeant Austen was hit on the leg with a pom-pom shell, and Trooper W. H. Earl on arm and thigh with mauser bullets.

As soon as they got back to camp they were ordered out again—being given 20 minutes only—to occupy and entrench the position extending along the crest of the hill about 1½ miles. The men worked exceedingly well, although they had been practically carrying on two days and a night with very little food.

The enemy evacuated the position on the 30th.

The following is an extract from Force Orders by General Paget, on the 1st December :—

“ The Major-General wishes to place on record his high appreciation of the gallant bearing of the troops under his command in the recent engagement.

“ The enemy was in a strong, naturally defensive position, which he was forced to evacuate by the intrepid advance of our men, under an exceptionally heavy fire.

“ The Major-General wishes to point out to the troops under his command that the moral effect of this engagement on the Boers must be very great, a force numerically no stronger than their own, having forced them to retire from a position of great natural strength, which it was most important they should not evacuate.

"The Major-General thanks all ranks for the gallant way in which they behaved, and wishes to express his admiration of their bravery and devotion to duty. In publishing the above to the mounted troops of the Force, Brigadier-General Plumer wishes to say how proud he is to have under his command troops who behaved so well in action as the two brigades did on 29th November."

From 29th November to 1st February, 1901, operations in the Transvaal, Craddock's Corps, General Paget's Column. February and March, under General Lyttleton's command, operations north of Cape Colony, and in the Orange River Colony. April, operations in the Transvaal, north of Pretoria, in Jeffrey's Corps, General Plumer's Column.

EXTRACT FROM REPORT OF CAPTAIN R. B. ECHLIN TO THE COLONIAL SECRETARY, BRISBANE, 17TH AUGUST, 1901.

"I have the honour to make the following short report on the conduct of members of the 3rd Queensland Mounted Infantry under my command in an engagement at Koster River, Transvaal, on 22nd July, 1900. On 24th July, I wrote an official report to my commanding officer, Major W. Howard Tunbridge, giving a detailed account of the engagement. Although I carried this document nearly three months, and eventually entrusted to an officer for posting, Major Tunbridge assured me he never received it.

"I particularly mentioned that it was very difficult to individualize bravery. For instance, Bugler Keogh was shot in the cheek when we were dismounting. The bullet came out at the nape of his neck; still he fought for 5½ hours. Then Lieutenant R. Walsh was hit in the head, and wanted to continue on duty. Lieutenant Leask was wounded early in the day, and never left his post until the fight was over. He succumbed to his wound afterwards.

"The most notable act of bravery, not actually observed by me, but of which I have had ample evidence, was that of Bugler Forbes. This lad, then about 16 years old, took my horse and his own to what was supposed to be cover, behind a deserted farm house, and held these horses until they were both shot. During that trying time he had a bullet sent through his haversack. Forbes, with the other horse-holders, were compelled to take shelter in this farm house; and when, with the continuous fire kept up by its occupants, ammunition commenced to run short, Forbes under fire went out amongst the shot horses and ransacked the saddle wallets. A Mr. Toy, a war correspondent of a Western Australian newspaper, was one of those who took shelter in the farm house, and in writing to his journal, particularly referred to Forbes' action.

Two hundred and seventy (270) men were participants in this engagement, and when the roll was called at 4 p.m. on that day, the following was the result:—Six killed, 2 died (two days afterwards), 1 died (three weeks afterwards) (Lieutenant Leask), 9 severely wounded, 14 slightly wounded, 27 missing, of which 20 turned up. Total casualties, 59.

"The Queenslanders numbered seventy (70), and the rest of the troops were composed of New South Wales, Victorian, and Western Australian Bushmen.

R. B. ECHLIN, Captain,

(late Officer Commanding "B" Squadron, 3rd Queensland Mounted Infantry Contingent).

Bugler Forbes was mentioned in despatches and awarded the D.C.M., vide p. 473.

On 9th May, 1901, the Contingent departed for home in the transport Morayshire at Cape Town; called at Fremantle, Adelaide, Melbourne, and Sydney (7th June), thence by rail to Brisbane. Disbanded on 21st June.

SERVICE.

The 4th Queensland Imperial Bushmen started for the war on the 18th May, 1900, in the transport Manchester Port, and arrived at Beira on the 14th June. Proceeded by order to Port Elizabeth; arrived there on the 20th; thence sent to Cape Town, and disembarked there on the 23rd, having anchored in Table Bay on the previous day, and sent ashore baggage and stores. After a short rest at Matland Camp, entrained to Kroonstad towards Lindley, and from thence to Pretoria, and joined General Ian Hamilton's force.

On the 13th July at Honen's Nek, occurred their first casualty. A patrol having been sent out to escort guns to Wonderboom, Private Duggan was shot dead in a skirmish. 16th July.—Eastern advance, and engagement at De Waggen Drift. From 21st July to 20th August.—Advance to Rustfontein, and engagements at Honen's Nek and Zilikat's Nek. Returned to Commando Nek, marched to Rustenburg, up Maghatie's Valley, via Zeekoe Hoek, and Oliphant's Nek, in pursuit of De Wet. Advanced towards Warmbad, and skirmish en route at Krokodil Drift. Returned to Pretoria on the 28th, and remained until 10th September.

A detachment of 4 officers and 50 men then joined General French's eastern movement; the remainder, after refitting, joined General Ridley's Column, General Clements' command. 15th to 23rd September.—Operations at Maghatie's Valley; on 26th, skirmish at Zandfontein, where Lieutenant Higson was dangerously wounded. From that date to 15th October, Rustenburg, via Magata Pass; operations in Maghatie's Valley. Left General Clements' command, and joined General Paget's, as part of Colonel Hickman's corps; General Plumer's Column at Jericho. 24th October, a telegram was received from General Paget by Colonel Hickman, "Please inform Colonel Aytoun how gratified I am by the accounts of the results achieved by the Queensland Imperial Bushmen in so short a time, and I trust his wounded are doing well."

From that date, operations west of Rustenburg on Zelons, Koster, and Eland's Rivers, till 11th November; during which time there were several skirmishes with the enemy. Operations east of Pretoria and north of the railway; skirmishes at Oybrand's Kraal, Roodepoort, and Hartebeestfontein.

On 19th November, Lieut.-Colonel Aytoun was admitted into hospital at Pretoria, suffering from enteric; and was subsequently invalided to Australia. Major Deacon assumed command of the Battalion.

On the 29th, there was a heavy engagement at Rietfontein (Rhenoster Kop) with Ben Viljoen, from 5.30 a.m. until about 10 p.m. (vide 3rd Queensland Mounted Infantry "Service"), and the enemy evacuated the position on the night of the 30th.

Operations in the vicinity until 17th December; then between Rustenburg and Pretoria until 14th January, 1901. Colonel Hickman's brigade was broken up on the 18th, and the Battalion then became part of Lieut.-Colonel Craddock's brigade. Operations included a sweeping eastern movement as far as Balmoral; and operations in vicinity until 2nd February, 1901. On 24th January, by Divisional Orders, the Contingent was separated from Lieut.-Colonel Craddock's command, and formed part of Lieut.-Colonel H. B. Jeffrey's corps. Craddock's and Jeffrey's brigades were officially designated "Plumer's Force." On 31st, joined Colonel Jeffrey's corps above Balmoral, and camped there. On 1st February, 10 officers, 135 N.C.O.'s and men were available for the firing line; 53 dismounted men were shown in the weekly state. The Queenslanders had been in constant touch with the enemy, and there had been many casualties, both of men and horses; remounts being, of course, obtained from time to time.

On 3rd February, entrained at Balmoral to Naauwpoort, Cape Colony, arriving there on 7th; drew remounts, refitted, and started in pursuit of De Wet on 9th. Skirmishes, 12th, 13th, and engagement on 14th at Wolvekuijen. On the 13th the enemy were engaged twice during the afternoon, once very heavily. Lieutenant Kellaway was severely wounded. On 15th, De Wet's heavy transport ammunition wagons, over 30 (mostly full), and a maxim, were captured, having been bogged and abandoned. About twelve prisoners were also taken. Crossed the railway line at Houtkraal. Colonel Crabbe's and Colonel Henniker's Columns joined on the 16th; engagement at Geeluck's Poort on the following day. On the 23rd, the main body came in touch with the enemy about 12 noon, near Pompean Pan, Orange River, and pushed them very hard until 8 p.m.; they had to abandon a 15-pr. and a pom-pom. Thirty prisoners were taken; trekked about 40 miles this day.

Arrived at Hopetoun on 24th, obtained remounts, marched to Orange River station, and entrained there on 26th; and detrained at Springfontein on 1st March. From that date until 15th, the route was by Philippolis, Fauresmith, Pietersburg, to Winburg. Entrained at Smolldiel on 20th, and arrived at Pretoria on 22nd.

Commenced advance on Pietersburg on 26th; occupied Warmbad, 30th; Nylstroom, 1st April; Pietpotgeiter's Rust, 5th; Marabastad, 7th; and Pietersburg, 8th; after slight opposition. Left Pietersburg, via Chune's Poort, 14th, to hold drifts in Oliphant's River, and operations in vicinity; returned to Pretoria, 6th May. Refitted and marched on 13th; sweeping movement towards Bethel, with almost daily skirmishes. On the 20th, orders were received to march at 6 a.m. to the vicinity of Bethel. Some resistance was made, and large parties of Boers could be seen on every skyline. Bethel was reached at 2 p.m., and a considerable number of the enemy surrendered when their stronghold was occupied. Orders were issued at 5 p.m. to burn the town; and after the women and children had been removed, the town was soon in a mass of flames.

Quitted Bethel on 22nd, and marched to Rietpan, en route to Standerton to replenish. The enemy was still seen in large numbers, and very daring; at one time charging up to within 250 yards of the pom-poms. Arrived at Standerton on 27th, after having been daily in touch with the Boers. Marched on the 30th; engaged in sweeping operations towards Piet Retief, which was occupied on 9th June. The 4th parted from General Plumer's force here, being under orders for Australia.

The following individual instances of gallantry in the field were specially rewarded by the General Officer Commander-in-Chief:—

Acting-Sergeant E. H. Shadforth, to be Sergeant. On patrol near Boschkop, Cape Colony, on 12th February, 1901, he brought Private Suter, whose horse had been shot, out of action under heavy fire.

Private J. Alford to be Corporal. At Driekuilen, Cape Colony, on 15th February, 1901, single-handed he took prisoners three armed and mounted Boers and a Kaffir.

Private E. Culliford to be Corporal. Same place and day, he took prisoners four armed Boers.

Private J. H. Rule to be Corporal. Same place and day, single-handed he took prisoners three armed Boers and two Kaffirs.

The 4th, escorted convoy and prisoners to Utrecht, and were involved in a half-day engagement en route at Elandsburg. Arrived at Utrecht on the 18th June, and on the 20th, orders were received to proceed with convoy to Newcastle, Natal, en route to Stormberg, for mobilization. General Plumer addressed the Regiment, and thanked them for their good service during the past 12 months. Arrived at Newcastle on 22nd; handed in all equipment on same day, and entrained for Stormberg on 23rd; arrived 28th, and on 4th July entrained for East London.

Embarked on transport Britannic on 5th July, together with members of Western Australian, Tasmanian, and New South Wales Contingents, with whom the 4th had served the whole time. Called at Albany (20th July), Adelaide, Melbourne, and Sydney, and arrived at Brisbane, 5th August. Disembarked on the following day, and disbanded on the 10th.

DEPARTURE AND RETURN.

The Contingent left on 6th and 10th March, 1901, comprising—23 officers, 506 others; with 476 horses. Two officers, 33 others, were killed or died; 12 officers, 58 others, were struck off in South Africa; 16 officers, 413 others, returned to Australia.

SERVICE.

This Contingent departed in the transport Templemore, on 6th March, 1901, and arrived at Port Elizabeth on 1st April. Left by three trains for Kroonstad on the same day, and reached there on the 4th; thence to Elandsfontein, and thence via The Springs to Pretoria, arriving on the 9th. From this city, the 5th entrained for Pietersburg, that being the terminus of the northern line held by the enemy, and on which the 3rd and 4th Queensland Contingents were marching. Arrived on the 11th; and on the following day the Battalion was attached to Colonel Jeffreys' Corps, of Brigadier-General H. C. O. Plumer's "Force," (consisting of Craddock's and Jeffreys' Brigades), with which it served continuously.

On the 10th March, a draft, consisting of 1 subaltern, 1 sergeant, and 24 rank and file, with 100 horses, left Pinkenba (Brisbane) by the transport Chicago; disembarked at Port Elizabeth on 20th April, and joined the Contingent.

Having received remounts and transport, the 5th started on trek south-easterly on 14th April, and were engaged on outpost and patrol duty in the neighbourhood of Oliphant's River, until 25th. Then the force under Colonel Jeffreys was divided into three parts, and came in contact with the enemy in the vicinity of Tabak Plaats Camp, when a brisk skirmish ensued. Since leaving Pietersburg, no less than 170 horses had either died or been destroyed, suffering from "horse-sickness." On 28th, trekked south-west, and joined remainder of Plumer's force at Badfontein. Passed through Coomassie Poort and Usekraal, and arrived at Silverton, 5 miles from Pretoria, on 6th May. Left on 14th; reached Bethel (then being burned) on 21st; and participated in action at Mooifontein on 25th. At Standerton on 27th, and marched on 30th; Hartab on 2nd June, having constantly encountered parties of the enemy, and brought in prisoners, sheep, horses, goats, and vehicles.

At Piet Retief on 10th, where the Cyclist company, having proved unsuitable, were all mounted (except six) with horses of the 4th Contingent, which was returning home. Thence to Zinderhoek; and on 15th, skirmish at Slaughter's Berg. On 17th, at Kopje Eileen; and operations as far as Utrecht on 23rd. Started on 28th to trek through Privaan's Poort; various operations, and halted at Bothwell, 7th July. Thence to Carolina and Klippan by 12th, and to Wonderfontein; at which place entrained on 16th in four trains, destination unknown, but on 18th detrained at Bloemfontein. Marched on 24th to Kruger Drift; arrived at Poplar Grove on 26th, and Modder River on 31st. Lieut.-Colonel Flewell-Smith here received notice to proceed to Cape Town by train to take up appointment as a District Commandant in Cape Colony. The command of the Battalion thereupon devolved upon Major F. W. Toll during the remainder of their campaign.

It would be needless to recapitulate, step by step, the treks taken, of which the foregoing offers a fair example. Suffice it to state, that during August, the Contingent went west and south-west (Orange River Colony), and north-west (Cape Colony). in September and October, south-east (Orange River Colony); operations on Caledon River, at Wepener, and Mokari Drift. November to January, 1902, south-east (Transvaal); January to March, north-east (Orange River Colony). Like other Contingents, they had large casualties in the horses, owing to sickness, over-work, scanty feed, and losses by the enemy. On 8th May only 92 were on strength; and since 14th April, 84 had been sent to sick depots, and 260 had died. In such emergencies, prior to remounts joining, the dismounted men were carried in wagons, or walked and rode alternately.

The 5th saw plenty of fighting. They were constantly in touch with the enemy, and besides innumerable small skirmishes, mention may be made of operations of 24th and 25th May at Klipfontein and Mooifontein; and Mokari Drift, Caledon River, 27th September, where Lieutenants Pooley and Caskey and two men were killed, and four wounded.

On 6th December, with Colonel Pultney's Column at Beelzebub (South-Eastern Transvaal). The force marched at 6 p.m.; Jervis's corps on left, Pultney's on right, Colvin's Corps, with General Plumer, in centre, with Jervis's and Colvin's guns and transport. At 4.30 a.m., the 5th in advance, sighted the enemy's outposts at Familie Hoek, and drove them into camp at a gallop, when they appeared in great force. On the supports coming up, the 5th again advanced, compelling the enemy to retreat, when they brought up their full force and charged; but Major Toll held his position until Colvin's corps came up with the guns and compelled the foe to evacuate the position, about 2 p.m. There were estimated to be 800 Boers present, including men from the Ermelo, Wakkerstrom, and Carolina commandoes. The casualty list of the 5th comprised 1 killed, 1 died of wounds on 16th, 9 wounded; 3 captured, disarmed, and released. The Commanding Officer was warmly complimented by the General, who regretted that he had been unable to support him earlier.

The disastrous affair at Onverwacht, 4th January, 1902, is remarkable as showing the determined stand made by the Boers, even at this late stage of hostilities, when they obtained an opportunity. The 5th were then in "Vallentin's Corps"; Major Vallentin (Somerset Light Infantry) having succeeded Lieut.-Colonel Sir John Jervis in the command of what had been known as "Jervis's Corps, Plumer's Force." All the mounted troops and light transport moved at 5 a.m. from Rotterdam, with two days' rations and forage. Vallentin's Corps with one pom-pom, was detached on left flank; with 110 of the 5th, under Major Toll, in advance. The country was very difficult, being mountainous and rough, and the enemy offered some slight resistance. On arriving at Onverwacht in the vicinity of Bankop, their scouts could be seen retiring. The officer commanding corps decided to halt on the high ground for a couple of hours. The Queensland Imperial Bushmen, except an advanced screen of about 20, held a semi-circle of about 3 miles as observation posts.

A patrol having reported some 50 Boers with cattle in a kloof on left about 2 miles off, Major Vallentin decided to attack; but, upon moving off, a number of Boers were reported about $\frac{1}{2}$ mile in front of posts, hidden in a deep hollow. Major Vallentin ordered a change of front with the pom-pom, and gallop. A small company of Imperial Yeomanry were put out as a screen, and the Queensland Imperial Bushmen, having moved off, took a little time to swing round. The party acting as support were ordered to support the Imperial Yeomanry, but had no sooner left the gun than a withering fire was opened on the advance, hitting the officer commanding the Imperial Yeomanry, whereupon the screen at once retired. The enemy galloped for the gun from the front and left flank; the supports under Lieutenant Reese were ordered to dismount and check their advance.

Major Vallentin retired with the pom-pom at a gallop, and opened fire from from top of the ridge. About 200 Boers appeared on the left, and Major Vallentin again ordered the retirement of the gun; but after limbering up the wheel-horses were shot. The right flankers, under Captain Carter and Lieutenant Higginson, came between the gun and the advancing enemy. They dismounted and held with great gallantry the position taken up, though absolutely without cover. Sergeant Power and Private Goodall were killed here; Captain Carter, Lieutenant Higginson, and six men wounded. The gun would have been captured but for the stubborn resistance of the Queensland Imperial Bushmen, aided by a few of the Hampshire Mounted Infantry.

The rapid advance of the enemy was temporarily checked; but to no avail, for they outnumbered the defence by five or six to one. A steady retirement was carried out on foot; all horses being sent back under cover of the ridge some distance in rear, upon which it was desired to fall back. Lieutenant Cook with a small party on extreme left, were cut off and captured in a tremendous rush by the enemy; Sergeant Berry killed, and all but Lieutenant Cook and two men wounded.

The remainder of the Queenslanders retired to the ridge overlooking the river; and here the Imperial Yeomanry were ordered to hold the position, and the Mounted Infantry to support the Queenslanders; the gun to be protected until the arrival of support from the main Column, halted about 5 miles on the other side of the river. A gallant resistance was now made. The Boers eventually secured the ridge in rear, from which they were enabled to shoot down the defenders with ease, firing from a range of 50 yards; though those in front had been two or three times repulsed, after getting within 30 yards, and two were killed only 10 yards in front. On the knob held, only about 40 feet long, and with very little cover from the front, 10 men were killed, and 14 N.C.O.'s and men wounded.

The Boers secured the position from the rear. They stripped the officers and men of all but clothing, and, in a few cases, boots and coats were taken. Shortly after this, the gun from the main Column opened fire, but with no results. The Boers retired, after collecting rifles, etc., and horses (about 30 of which they obtained alive out of nearly 100), and taking their dead and wounded away on these animals.

About an hour afterwards relief came with the ambulance; and it was reported that Major Vallentin had been killed and three out of four of his staff wounded. All the disarmed men were ordered back to the pom-pom. Captain Dodds collected about 30 armed men; the others picked up rifles which had belonged to killed and wounded, and with these, and the 5th Victorians, who had now arrived, a defensive position was taken up, and the ridge securely "sangared" (or a stone wall built round it) to hold the pom-pom.

The officers captured with Major Toll were Lieutenants Loynes, Hunter, Clerk, and Reese, Warrant Officer Price, and two officers of Hants Mounted Infantry; one wounded. On the field were found 19 of the corps, killed; and 39 wounded officers and men.

Lieut.-Colonel Vialls was placed in temporary command of the corps. On advancing about 2 miles, the enemy were again met, and made a determined dash, but 300 men were already in position, and the pom-poms did havoc. The Boers soon retreated in disorder, and were not again in action. General Plumer on viewing the position, assured Major Toll that he was quite satisfied that that officer and his men had done all in their power against terrible odds.

On 12th March, 1902, their campaign having drawn to a close, the 5th (being then part of Colonel Vialls' corps), arrived at Volksrust, where they handed over horses, wagons, &c., and on the 19th, entrained for Cape Town, picking up 80 details at Standerton. Arrived at Cape Town on 23rd, and proceeded to Green Point Camp. On 27th, embarked on transport St. Andrew. General Settle, commanding Cape Colony Defence Forces, spoke a few words of farewell, and read a complimentary telegram from Lord Kitchener, wishing the Australians a safe passage home. DEPARTURE AND RETURN.

Left on 4th April, 1901, comprising—17 officers, 384 others, with 615 horses. Eleven were killed or died; 4 officers, 60 others, were struck off in South Africa; 19 officers, 313 others returned.

The first draft (20th August, 1901), comprised—1 officer, 77 others; the second (26th September, 1901)—3 officers, 18 others. Two were killed; the remainder returned at various times.

SERVICE.

Like the other oversea Contingents at this stage of the war, the 6th were employed for the most part in constantly trekking over given districts, driving in and harassing the enemy, bringing to the various bases prisoners, horses, cattle, sheep, vehicles, etc., and laying waste the country—a service of much excitement and vicissitude.

The Contingent embarked at Pinkenba, and went to sea on 4th April, 1901, in the transport Victoria, arriving at Cape Town on 2nd May. Two drafts of details subsequently followed. The first, under Captain Echlin, who was detailed for the voyage, left Brisbane by rail on 18th August, embarked in the Britannic at Sydney, 20th August, and arrived at Cape Town on 22nd September. The second, officered by Lieutenants Crichton, Cowley, and Philp, entrained at Brisbane, 24th September, 1901; embarked at Sydney in the Harlech Castle on 26th September, and reached Cape Town on 26th October.

From Cape Town, the 6th proceeded, by order, to Durban; arrived on 7th May, and disembarked the following day. Entrained same day for Pietermaritzburg, leaving horses and 30 men, including farriers and smiths, at Durban, under Lieutenants Rich and Vaughan. Arrived at Pietermaritzburg on 9th, entrained on 14th, arrived at Volksrust on the following day, and Standerton on 16th. The horses arrived in six trains on the same day, having been starved and not watered since two and a half days before; and, as nothing could be done that evening, nearly all the animals were three whole days without food or water. Transport was drawn on the 18th, consisting of 9 buck wagons, 4 Scotch carts, and 1 water cart.

On the 19th, the Contingent was posted to Lieut.-Colonel R. Grey's Column, consisting of (in addition) the 7th New Zealand Regiment (six squadrons), 2 15-prs., 1 pom-pom (Royal Field Artillery), half-battalion 1st East Lancashire, and detachments of Royal Engineers, Army Service Corps, &c. Lieut.-Colonel Hon. H. F. White (a Jameson raider) commanded the mounted troops. The 6th served side by side with the 7th New Zealanders during the greater part of 1901 and the first three months of 1902.

Colonel Grey pronounced the companies of the 6th to be too large, and directed the Regiment to be reorganized into four companies, each of three divisions. This was accordingly carried out; Captain Wollstein being appointed to command No. 4 company, with Lieutenants Brown and Vaughan; Lieutenant H. F. Evans to act as quartermaster as well as transport officer.

Started to trek on 20th in the Standerton district, marching very light, without tents, wallets off saddles, &c.; and convoy for General Bullock having come up, the Column proceeded towards Ermelo on 21st. The enemy sniped daily at flank, advance, and rearguards, and there were a few casualties. Arrived at Ermelo on 27th, having captured 15 Boers, and much stock; handed over the convoy, began return journey to Standerton, the cold winds being so piercing that in some cases men fainted, one falling from the saddle in a swoon. On the 31st, the New Zealanders had a bad day, losing 3 killed, 3 wounded, and 9 prisoners.

On 2nd June, camped near Standerton, and sustained their first loss in the person of Private A. W. Davis, a cheerful and hard-working young soldier, who died of enteric. Formed horse depot at Standerton, and sent in 338 horses with Lieutenant W. D. Evans and 34 N.C.O.'s and men; 302 remounts were received.

During June there was constant skirmishing and both corps suffered casualties on many occasions. On the 11th, there was a brisk engagement near Kaffir's Spruit in the Ermelo district. Lieut.-Colonel Garratt, towards the end of the month, took over the Column which moved from The Springs east to Johannesburg. On 13th July, surprised and captured a laager at Kopjesfontein on the right of the Vaal; and on 21st, captured two Boer convoys. On the 22nd, there was fighting near Lindique Drift; and Colonel Garratt's force co-operated in some minor operations under General Elliott. Casualties were frequent about this time. In August substantial captures were made at Bultfontein. In September, October, and November, operations in the Wakkerstroom district and east of Transvaal.

In December, Colonel Garratt marched to Newcastle by Botha's Pass, and through Drakensberg, to cover the construction of blockhouses in that corner of the Orange River Colony. This task having been completed, the Column was, with that of Colonel Dunlop, put under the command of Colonel Hon. J. H. G. Byng.

On 2nd February, 1902, Colonel Byng, being then at Liebenberg's Vlei, to the west of Reitz, heard of a Boer convoy in the neighbourhood, and at once pursued. The 6th Queensland Imperial Bushmen and the New Zealanders charged the enemy's rearguard with much gallantry, whilst the South African Light Horse bravely rushed the centre. Three guns, 3 wagons laden with ammunition, 26 prisoners (including 2 captains and a field cornet), 150 horses and mules, and 750 cattle were taken; 5 Boers were killed and 8 wounded. After this, all the Columns in the district engaged in a big drive towards the railway; which operation ended on 8th February, when it was found that 300 prisoners had been taken.

During March, Colonel Garratt's command took part in further drives in the Orange River Colony; and in April in a concerted movement of many Columns, from the Standerton line to the Delagoa railway and back.

The 6th embarked at Durban on 17th May, 1902, in the transport Devon; arrived at Albany, 5th June; Sydney, 13th; Brisbane, 17th. Disbanded, 23rd June, 1902.

Captain (now Major) F. W. Toll.

This officer proceeded to South Africa in the transport Maori King, with the Second Queensland Contingent, which arrived on 22nd February, 1900. He was appointed Railway Transport Officer at Cape Town; and after three weeks of this duty, joined Lord Roberts' army near Bloemfontein, which had been occupied before Captain Toll's arrival. He obtained charge of a company of infantry in the (44th) Essex Regiment, 18th Brigade, XI. Division, commanded by Major-General Pole-Carew; but vacancies subsequently occurring in the Brigade staff, became field-aide and acting aide-de-camp, and the former duty was carried out until the end of his service. He was in the advance from Bloemfontein, and operations round Leeuwkop and Paardekraal (horse shot under him), and in vicinity of De Wetsdorp. Proceeded in the general advance on 1st May to Johannesburg and Pretoria; present at Vet River, Zand River, Boxburg, Kroonstad, and Elandsfontein. At Boxburg he captured an armed Boer, whose rifle he was permitted to retain. In engagements round Pretoria, Diamond Hill, and Edendale, where he captured three armed Boers within 500 yards of a farm in which there were 50 or 60 Boers, about 9 miles from the British outposts. In addition to his other duties he became officer in charge of Intelligence and Signallers. He was with the advance upon Belfast and Barberton, including all sorties and engagements. At Belfast he was in charge of 14 sharpshooters selected to hold a dangerous position. Of these, 6 were killed by pom-poms and 2 by bullets; others were wounded. Ammunition became expended, and a man volunteered to go back for some, but was shot dead as soon as he rose. Captain Toll then made the attempt and secured enough to carry on with until dark.

On occupation of Nellspruit, Waterval Onder, he was appointed Provost-Marshal, which duty he performed until his service ended. He returned in command of time-expired troops by the transport Wooloomooloo, arriving at Brisbane on the 8th December, 1900.

"Devondale, Transvaal,
12th May, 1902.

"The following telegram has been received from General Sir Ian Hamilton, K.C.B., D.S.O. :—

"The following is the general result of recent operations.—Killed, 1; prisoners, 354; rifles, 212; horses, 326; mules, 95; donkeys, 20; wagons, 175; Cape carts, 61; cattle, 3,500; sheep, 13,000; small arm ammunition, 6,340; trek oxen, 106. "Capital result. Tell troops I highly appreciate their exertions and consider result very satisfactory. We have now since Methuen's mishap taken 860 out of De la Rey's forces."

"As there is a considerable proportion of new troops in the command, the General Officer Commanding Mobile Columns, W.T., thinks that Column Commanders would do well to explain to them that the General Officer Commander-in-Chief is not in the habit of bestowing indiscriminate praise; and that, on the contrary, the compliment which has been paid this force is a very rare occurrence."

The Company embarked at Durban on 11th July, 1902, in transport Drayton Grange; touched at Albany, 30th July; Melbourne, 7th August; Sydney, 10th; Brisbane, 13th.

TASMANIA.

PREFATORY.

AUTHORITY for the Tasmanian Contingents was conferred by Statute, namely, the Tasmanian Military Contingent Act 1899, 63 Vict. No. 11, and by regulations thereunder.

Pay was issued to the first and second Contingents, according to rates as stated, by the Tasmanian Government and the Imperial Government; to the remainder by the Imperial Government, the Tasmanian Government acting as agents.

Clothing, equipment, and necessaries were furnished upon a liberal scale; and horses and saddlery provided; but (as in case of the other Contingents) not returned from South Africa.

Camps of Instruction were held in the first instance at the Military Barracks Hobart; and afterwards at the Show Grounds, Newtown.

The period of engagement was twelve months, or the duration of the war. About twelve months was the average service of any Australian Contingent, though many officers, N.C.O.'s and men remained behind, and served in other Contingents or were employed.

Tasmania sent four Contingents to the war. A draft for the first Contingent is also sometimes counted as another; but this is manifestly erroneous, as will be perceived from the record of that Contingent. The State also contributed a half-company to First Australian Commonwealth Horse; a company to the Third, and a squadron to the Eighth.

The First Contingent was a company of Infantry, which was mounted in South Africa, and became part of the Australian Regiment. They were in General Clements' Force, and engaged in operations round Colesberg; were in the advance upon Bloemfontein; joined Colonel Henry's Brigade, and participated in the march to Pretoria, actions and operations. Thence to Komati Poort.

The Second Contingent (Bushmen) served with General Carrington's Column in Rhodesia and Western Transvaal; and afterwards under Lord Errol and Lord Methuen in Transvaal, Griqualand West, and Orange River Colony.

The Third (Imperial) Contingent were in operations in Eastern Orange Free State under General Paget; and also under him in North East Transvaal and Western Transvaal. Operations in Cape Colony with General Plumer.

The Fourth (Imperial Bushmen) Contingent served in Cape Colony under General French, and subsequently joined Colonel Goring's Flying Column, and did excellent service in many operations and actions.

Although the number of men and horses despatched to the front was naturally comparatively small, yet the Tasmanians did excellent work wherever they went; and the proportion of honours and rewards distributed was relatively large—a circumstance which speaks for itself with significance.

FIRST (TASMANIAN) CONTINGENT.

THIS Contingent, which consisted of one company of Infantry (converted in South Africa into Mounted Infantry), was raised in October, 1899, under statute of the local Legislature, 63 Vict. No. 11, with an establishment of 4 officers, 1 warrant officer, 5 sergeants, 4 corporals, 2 buglers, and 64 privates. It was subsequently strengthened by a draft comprising 1 officer (Medical Staff), 2 sergeants, and 43 rank and file. Men were enlisted as far as possible from the local forces; and it was notified that officers and N.C.O.'s of such forces serving in the ranks whose position and seniority had been altered, would resume their original position and seniority on their return to Tasmania.

PAY.

The following were the rates of pay from date on which officers and others reported themselves in camp, to time of disembarkation in South Africa:—Privates and buglers, 4s. 6d. per diem; corporals, 7s.; sergeants, 8s.; colour-sergeants, 9s.; warrant officers, 11s. 6d.; lieutenants, 19s.; captains, 23s. 6d.

After the date of disembarkation in South Africa, the following was the rate of pay:—Privates, 3s. 6d.; buglers, 3s. 5d.; corporals, 5s. 4d.; sergeants, 5s. 8d.; colour-sergeants, 6s.; warrant officers, 5s. 6d.; lieutenants, 10s.; captains, 8s. 11d.

The difference between the two rates was paid by the Imperial Government. Any member of the Contingent was authorized to make over his pay to an agent approved by the Defence Minister. A personal allowance of £5 was granted to commissioned officers towards the cost of kit; and the cost of the valise was also defrayed from funds specially provided.

EQUIPMENT, ETC.

Uniform consisted of khaki cloth jacket, trousers, puttees, and field-service hat. Great-coats with capes, khaki cloth frock, and boots were also provided as well as field-service cap, worsted cap, haversack, and a very complete kit, comprising underclothing and necessaries, water-bottles, clasp-knives, and mess-tins.

Rifle M.E. 303, with bayonet, &c., waistbelts, ball-bags, and V.E. braces. Regimental transport was furnished.

It was estimated that the total weight of equipment was as follows:—For an officer—Articles carried on the person, 37 lbs. 0½ ozs.; articles carried in kit bag and kettles, 19 lbs. 10½ ozs.; total, 56 lbs. 10¾ ozs. For others—Articles carried on the person, 49 lbs. 5¾ ozs.; articles carried in kit bag, 17 lbs. 3½ ozs.; total, 66 lbs. 9¼ ozs.

DEPARTURE AND RETURN.

The Contingent left on the 27th October, 1899, comprising—4 officers, 76 others, with 2 wagons. Six died or were killed; 2 were struck off in South Africa; 4 officers, 68 others, returned to Australia.

The draft was despatched on 18th January, 1900, of 2 officers, 45 others, with 2 wagons. Four died; 1 officer, 41 others returned. One officer was in charge to South Africa only.

PROMOTIONS.

Captain C. St. C. Cameron, promoted to Major, — December, 1899.

Lieutenant Wallace Brown, promoted to Captain.

Sergeants W. P. Lowther and F. B. Adams were promoted to Lieutenants, Bushmen's Contingent.

Corporal C. R. A. Chalmers, promoted Lieutenant, "E" Squadron, 3rd Australian Commonwealth Horse.

Sergeant H. Hallam, Privates C. O. Blyth, F. R. Chalmers, M. H. Swan, J. M'Cormick, and G. F. Richardson became Lieutenants in 4th Contingent.

SERVICE.

The First Tasmanian Contingent was under the command of Captain C. St. C. Cameron who, as an officer of the 9th Lancers, had taken part in Lord Roberts' great march across Afghanistan, and was therefore well qualified to lead them when they figured in the mounted branch. The Company left Launceston, Tasmania, on 27th October, 1899, and embarked on board the transport Medic at Melbourne on the 28th; arrived at Cape Town on 26th November. (Vide 1st Victorian Contingent).

The Contingent were at first on the De Aar-Modder line, where, with the remainder of the Australian Regiment, they garrisoned Enslin and other posts protecting the railways. At Naauwpoort, Cape Colony, on 1st February, 1900, they received horses, and joined General Clements' Force then holding the long line opposite the Boer position. They were engaged in operations around Colesberg, which was occupied on 28th February; but all their good service with the Australian Regiment has been narrated, under heading already referred to.

A draft of two sergeants and 43 rank and file, under Captain A. R. Riggall who took charge to Beira, and having with them Lieutenant (Medical Staff) S. C. Jamieson, left Hobart on 18th January, 1900; embarked in the transport Moravian at Melbourne on the 23rd., and arrived in South Africa on 20th February. They proceeded to Victoria West Road, where they were engaged on the lines of communication until the 5th April, when they entrained for Bloemfontein, and joined the company there.

After their arrival at Bloemfontein, the Tasmanians, with the 1st and 2nd Victorians and the South Australians, were put under the command of Colonel Henry, whose Mounted Infantry were about the outpost line north of Glen Station. They took part in many reconnoitering patrols before the advance to Pretoria; and were in the action at Hout Nek, 30th April. Major Cameron, who had been wounded and taken prisoner (24th February) had been recaptured at Bloemfontein, and resumed command. During the march to Pretoria, which commenced on 2nd May, Colonel Henry's men were generally the screen in front of the centre and left-centre. They had very hard riding, often from 40 to 50 miles in a day, and took a prominent part in a number of skirmishes and engagements: notably Vet River (6th May); Zand River (10th May), when Major Cameron was again wounded; at the coal mines on the banks of the Vaal; and in the fighting outside Pretoria.

After the occupation of Pretoria, the Mounted Infantry were mostly stationed on the eastern front. They were at the battle of Diamond Hill, and in the eastern advance from Pretoria. They were in the actions at Balmoral at the end of July, and near Belfast on 7th September. After some very hard marching over rough country, where scouting was difficult, Komati Poort was entered on 24th September. They attended a review there on the 28th.

The total service may be thus summarized:—Operations round Colesberg under General Clements. Joined 4th Mounted Infantry Corps at Bloemfontein. Advance from Bloemfontein to Pretoria, with Hutton's Mounted Infantry Brigade and XI. Division; including actions at Karee Kloof, Brandfort, Vet River, Zand River, Elandsfontein, Johannesburg, and Diamond Hill. From Pretoria to Komati Poort with 18th Brigade, 11th Division; including actions at Belfast, and occupation of Kapsche Hoop.

In October, the Contingent was taken to Pretoria and there inspected by Lord Roberts.

Lieutenant J. C. Walch, S.T.A., who accompanied the Contingent as a Special Service officer, served with the Royal Horse Artillery, and was present with "Q" battery on 31st March, 1900, at Sanna's Post, when he was severely wounded on the right arm. It was at this action that, owing to the gallant conduct of the battery as a whole, four Victoria Crosses were awarded, for one officer, one N.C.O., and two gunners. Lieutenant Walch subsequently joined the Contingent.

The Contingent embarked on the transport Harlech Castle at Cape Town on 3rd November, 1900, and arrived in Tasmania on 7th December, having called at Albany, Adelaide, and Melbourne. Disbanded on 8th December.

NOTE.—No complete record could be obtained of N.C.O.'s and men promoted, of casualties other than deaths, or of those invalided, either for this Contingent or the Draft.

SECOND (TASMANIAN BUSHMEN) CONTINGENT.

AUTHORIZED by the Tasmanian Government about February, 1900. It consisted of a half-squadron of Mounted Infantry. Establishment (leaving Hobart)—1 sergeant-major, 2 sergeants, 1 farrier-sergeant, 4 corporals, 1 farrier, 43 privates. Lieutenant-Colonel E. T. Wallack, Special Service officer, went in charge; and officers were posted in South Africa.

Pay and equipment were as for former Contingent, except (in regard to the latter), such slight changes as were requisite in providing for mounted men.

PROMOTIONS, ETC.

Sergeant A. M. Boyes, promoted Lieutenant 18th November, 1900; Adjutant, 2nd January, 1901.

Lieutenants Lowther and Adams were promoted from 1st Contingent.

Sergeant G. W. Kemsley became Lieutenant "C" Squadron, Australian Commonwealth Horse.

For promotions of N.C.O.'s and men, vide nominal roll.

DEPARTURE AND RETURN.

The Contingent embarked at Hobart, 5th March, 1900, comprising—52 sergeants and rank and file, with 53 horses. One was killed; 2 struck off in South Africa; 1 officer commissioned in the Imperial Army; 1 officer, 49 others returned.

SERVICE.

The Bushmen's Contingent, consisting as before stated, of about a half-squadron of Mounted Infantry was sent to the theatre of war, under charge of Lieut.-Colonel E. T. Wallack. They embarked at Hobart on the transport Antillian on 5th March, 1900; arrived at Cape Town on the 31st, and proceeded thence to Beira, where Captain A. H. Riggall took charge, he being the officer who had previously brought out the draft for the 1st Contingent.

Their principal operations, and Corps or Columns served with, were as follow:—Formed part of General Carrington's Column, sharing in the operations in Rhodesia and Western Transvaal under him. Then under Lord Erroll in Transvaal Mounted Infantry Brigade and afterwards, under Lord Methuen, in Western Transvaal, Griqualand West, Orange River Colony.

Having crossed Rhodesia towards Mafeking, they took part in many operations, under the leaders named. They had several casualties near Ottoshoop in August, when Carrington was endeavouring to assist Colonel Hore. The Contingent formed part of a complete Bushmen's Regiment, with "D" Squadron, 1st New South Wales, one Squadron of New Zealanders, and three of South Australians.

For a long time the Regiment did excellent work in the Western Transvaal, as part of Lord Methuen's Force. At Buffel's Hoek (21st August), there was a sharp fight. They were in action at Ottoshoop (12th September), and Lichtenburg (26th). About the month of September, Captain Riggall was invalided home, and Lieutenant Lowther took charge.

Throughout the latter part of 1900 and the first quarter of 1901, the composite Bushmen's Regiment was in many engagements, chiefly in the Western Transvaal, but also in Northern Orange River Colony. In several of these the enemy fought with considerable determination; and, consequently, losses were frequent. For many months the Western Transvaal was dangerously denuded of troops; thus there was considerable strain on those who were there.

The Contingent embarked on the transport Aberdeen at Cape Town on 19th May, 1901, and arrived in Tasmania on 14th June; having called at Albany, Adelaide, and Melbourne on the way.

Disbanded on 16th July, 1901.

SPECIAL SERVICE OFFICERS.

LIEUT.-COLONEL E. T. Wallack, Tasmanian Permanent Staff, was sent out to South Africa as a Special Service officer. He was placed in command of the 1st Tasmanian Bushmen to take them to Cape Town, where he was to hand them over to Captain Riggall.

He embarked at Hobart on the transport Antillian on 5th March, 1900. On arrival at Cape Town he was ordered to proceed to Beira, South-East Africa, to join Lieut.-General Sir Frederick Carrington's Staff. The Bushmen went with him, and were there handed over to Captain Riggall.

Colonel Wallack was at once appointed Staff Officer to disembark and forward to Marendellas the Rhodesian Field Force.

He then joined Sir Frederick at the camp at Marendellas, and was appointed to the Head-Quarters Staff of the Rhodesian Field Force.

While at this camp he trained the 4th and 5th New Zealand Contingents in the use of the magazine rifle, and assisted to raise the Rhodesian Field Artillery.

Colonel Wallack served with Sir Frederick Carrington until that General returned to Rhodesia, and was present at the operations against the Boers in the Elands River, Marico, Zeerust, and Ottoshoop districts, 1st August to 1st September.

He then joined Brigadier-General the Earl of Erroll, and served with that officer in the active operations at Ottoshoop and its vicinity, 1st September, to October. On 17th October, Lord Erroll's Command joined the 1st Division, and Colonel Wallack was attached to the Staff, and was present in the campaign in the Western Transvaal until 7th January, 1901. From 9th to 18th January in hospital from injuries to the eyes received near Jacobsdal. 19th January, appointed Staff Officer for Mafeking Command; held this position for six weeks, and then proceeded to Cape Town on duty in connexion with arrival of fresh Colonial Contingents. On 29th March, rejoined the 1st Division at Kimberley; and 8th April, proceeded to Fourteen Streams, and from thence to Doornfontein, Orange River Colony, and carried out the musketry training of the Imperial Yeomanry.

On 5th May proceeded to Cowan's Farm and rejoined Head-Quarters of the 1st Division, and was placed in command of the troops stationed there—about 1,200 of all ranks—until granted leave on 18th June.

Was invalided for ten weeks in England; returned to South Africa on 1st November, but was too ill to proceed to the front.

Left for Australia, 14th November, 1901.

Despatches, London Gazette, 2nd April, 1901. C.B. Queen's Medal with five clasps.

Lieut. J. C. Walch. Vide p. 547.

SERVICE.

Embarked at Hobart on the troopship Manhattan on 26th April, 1900; arrived at Beira on 28th May, and proceeded to Durban, arriving on 3rd June. From thence the troops, which included the 4th South Australians and the 4th Western Australians, were sent to Port Elizabeth, where they disembarked on 19th June. These three Contingents formed together the corps known as the 4th Imperial Bushmen, under Lieut.-Colonel J. Rowell, of South Australia.

About the middle of June, operations were commenced encircling the Boers who were in the Wittebergen or Brändwater Basin; a mountain stronghold in the North-East Orange River Colony. Rundle, with the VIII. Division, and Brabant, with the South African Colonial Division, were holding the line from the Senekal eastwards to the Basutoland border. Clements and Paget, on the middle frontier west, were about Lindley, the south-west point of the Boer strong hold. These masses of men either could not live, or were not allowed to live, on the country; hence huge convoys of supplies were required to be sent from the railway.

On 23rd June a very large convoy left Kroonstadt for General Paget's Force at Lindley. The escort was commanded by Colonel Brookfield, 14th Imperial Yeomanry, and consisted of 200 of that corps, 114 other Yeomanry, 400 Imperial Bushmen (namely, two Squadrons South Australians, one Squadron Western Australians, and one Squadron Tasmanians), 27 of Rimington's Guides, 93 Prince Alfred's Guards, 2 guns 17th Royal Field Artillery, 4 guns City Imperial Volunteer Battery, half-battalion of Yorkshire Light Infantry, and the 3rd East Kent (Buffs) Militia. The Australians were considered as one Regiment, under Colonel Rowell.

On the morning of the 26th June, Theron's scouts suddenly attacked the convoy near Eland's Spruit, but they were driven off. In the afternoon, near Swartz Farm, Piet De Wet attacked. The Australians were ordered to dismount, and advancing with great dash, the enemy was again driven off. On the 27th, the convoy marched 18 miles; the escort being engaged practically all day. Near Lindley, the traction engines stuck in the spruit. The 4th were the rearguard, and were hotly pressed by the enemy who endeavoured to cut off the Tasmanians forming the rear screen, but the City Imperial Volunteer Battery did good work; and Colonel Brookfield, having sent fresh Squadrons to Colonel Rowell's assistance, he was able to keep the Boers off the convoy.

Next day Lindley was reached. In a despatch to General Kelly-Kenny, commanding in the Orange River Colony, the Chief of the Staff said that Lord Roberts was of opinion that the convoy had been conducted with skill and foresight, that no precautions were neglected, and that the behaviour of the troops was creditable to all ranks. "His Lordship is glad to observe that, besides the regular troops employed, the Militia Battalion, the Corps of Imperial Bushmen, the Imperial Yeomanry and the City Imperial Volunteers, distinguished themselves on this occasion."

Colonel Brookfield and most of his troops now joined General Paget's command. After doing some work about the Bethlehem-Winburg district, they formed part of the escort which took the Boer prisoners from Wittebergen to the railway. On the 14th August, the Contingent entrained for Pretoria; and, on the 16th, they marched past Lord Roberts, who was very complimentary. On the same day they marched out to join General Paget, under whom they were during the next three months, to see hard marching and stiff fighting. "We were constantly under the fire of the enemy; pretty well every day brought its contribution of experience in the shape of small engagements." (On the Veldt, by Captain R. C. Lewis, Hobart, 1902).

On 20th August, the Contingent was put into the Mounted Brigade of Colonel Hickman, under whom they acted, until he left the Column in December. He almost invariably asked them to act as his advanced guard when he expected to fight the enemy. On the 1st September, 20 men of the Squadron, under Lieutenant G. E. Wyly, went out after cattle; they were surrounded and retired with difficulty. Trooper Brown was killed, and Lieutenant Wyly and four others were wounded.

It was on this day that Lieutenant Wyly and Trooper J. H. Bisdee both earned the Victoria Cross. Lieutenant Wyly's conduct was thus officially recorded:—"Although wounded, this officer, seeing that one of his men was badly wounded in the leg and that his horse was shot went back to the man's assistance, made him take his (Wyly's) horse, and opened fire from behind a rock to cover the retreat of the others, at the imminent risk of being cut off himself."—(London Gazette, 13th November, 1900). Colonel T. E. Hickman, D.S.O., considered that "the gallant conduct of Lieutenant Wyly saved Corporal Brown from being killed or captured; and that his subsequent firing to cover the retreat, was instrumental in saving the other men from death or capture." Lieutenant Wyly subsequently obtained a commission in the South Lancashire Regiment, and was wounded on the night of the 7th January, 1901, when the Boers fiercely attacked the posts on the railway about Belfast. He was appointed an aide-de-camp to Lord Kitchener.

Bisdee's achievement is recorded as follows:—"On the 1st September, Private Bisdee was one of an advanced scouting party, passing through a rocky defile near

Warmbad, Transvaal. The enemy, who were in ambush, opened a sudden fire at close range; and six out of the party of eight were hit, including two officers. The horse of one of the wounded officers broke away and bolted. Private Bisdée gave the officer his stirrup-leather to help him out of action; but finding that the officer was too badly wounded to go on, he dismounted, placed him on his horse, mounted behind him, and conveyed him out of range. This act was performed under a very hot fire and in a very exposed place.—(London Gazette, 13th November, 1900.)

On 4th November, the South Australians and Western Australians joined Colonel Hickman, and the Regiment was together again. At Rhenoster Kop, 29th, the Tasmanians were escort to the guns. In December, Captain Lewis was invalided with enteric, and the command devolved upon Lieutenant Sale, under whom the Squadron, much reduced in numbers, took a prominent part in the pursuit of De Wet, through and out of Cape Colony. Captain Lewis rejoined before the march to Pietersburg took place. After the town was occupied (8th April, 1901), the Tasmanians being the first to enter, Captain Sale, with a small troop galloped to a ridge beyond; he was shot by a Boer concealed in the long grass, a few paces to the left; and Lieutenant Walter, going to his assistance was mortally wounded.

On 25th April, Sergeant Stocker gained great distinction for his share in the capture of 35 prisoners. In May, the Squadron operated under General Plumer, through the Eastern Transvaal to Bethel and Piet Retief.

Operations, and Corps or Columns served with, may be summarized thus:—Operations Eastern Orange Free State, including actions at Lindley, Bethlehem, Twin Hills, and Slabbert's Nek, under General Paget.

Present at capture of Prinsloo's laager.

Operations in North-East Transvaal, around Sybrant's Kraal, Warmbad, Nylstroom, Rhenoster Kop (29th November, 1900), under General Paget.

Operations in Western Transvaal, Rustenburg, Selon's River.

Operations in Cape Colony, commencing February, 1901, to check De Wet's raid, under General Plumer.

With General Plumer to Pietersburg, April, 1901.

The Squadron embarked in the transport Britannic at East London on 7th July, 1901, and arrived in Tasmania on 5th August; having visited en route Albany, Adelaide, and Melbourne. Disbanded 14th August.

SERVICE.

The Contingent embarked at Hobart on the transport Chicago, on 27th March, 1901, and landed at Port Elizabeth on 24th April.

Their service was in Cape Colony, under General French; and may be summarized as follows:—8th, 9th, and 10th May—Ganna Hoek, driving Scheeper's Commando out of Craddock District; joined General Scobell's Column, operating still about Craddock; joined Colonel Gorrings' "Flying Column." 1st June—Fight at Aliman's Fontein. 8th June—Fight at Rietfontein, Malan's Commando. 3rd July—Fight near Zuurberg. 29th July—Fighting near Schilder Kranz. 1st August—Chased enemy into Munro's Column. 13th August—Fight at Roodepoort, captured Commandant Erasmus, Cachet, and others of Kruitzinger's Commando. 14th August—Fight with Kruitzinger at Lamenkronst. 16th August—Chased Kruitzinger across Orange River. 16th September—Surprised Commando at Wildeschutt's Berg, capturing some prisoners; operations against Smut's Commando in Drakensberg district. 21st October—Fight with Van Reenan's Commando. 23rd November—Captured Commandant Besters and ten others. February, 1902—Operations with 17th Lancers in Bamboo Mountain. On the 18th—Captured and shot Commandant Judge Hugo at Grootfontein. 10th March—Captured Commandant Rhudolph at Klein Taffelberg.

Soon after landing, the Corps was engaged with Scheepers at Ganna Hoek Cape Colony, where Trooper Warburton was killed. Trooper Brownell distinguished himself in this affair and afterwards received a commission in the Imperial Army. On the 19th May, the Tasmanians joined Scobell's Column, which was one of the most successful. On the 1st June, they passed to Colonel Gorrington, whose force was formed into a Flying Column, without wheeled transport.

On 13th February, 1902, Colonel Doran took over the Column, and the Contingent served under him until 4th May. On 18th February, they suffered several casualties, and the strain on men and horses was very great; but the Column did excellent work, and was frequently complimented by General French and Lord Kitchener. The various leaders commended the Contingent for fearlessness, good horsemanship, and cheerful endurance of the greatest hardships. On 13th August, 1901, Sergeant-Major Young, of the Cape Police, with Quartermaster-Sergeant Lynes, Sergeant Coombes, and eight other Tasmanians, charged a kopje where the enemy were strongly entrenched, and captured Commandant Erasmus and others. Young obtained the Victoria Cross.

The Contingent were several times successful in capturing influential Boer leaders. For twelve months they were incessantly employed; long marches often being undertaken by night, followed by actions with the Commandoes of Kruitziuger, Scheepers, Myberg, and others.

On the 22nd May, 1902, the Contingent embarked on the transport Manila at Durban, and arrived in Tasmania on 25th June, having called at Albany, Adelaide, and Melbourne en route. Disbanded on 30th June.

EIGHTH BATTALION AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH HORSE.

TASMANIAN UNIT.

ONE Squadron "O." The Battalion comprised besides, two Squadrons of South Australians, and one of Western Australians. For organization establishment, equipment, conditions of enrolment, pay, etc., vide 5th Australian Commonwealth Horse, New South Wales, page 184. The enrolment was carried out under the State Commandant by the commanding officers of the Battalions and Squadrons in the districts or localities selected to furnish a quota of men. Preference in selecting men was given to those serving in existing military units, to those who had had experience in South Africa, and to civilians possessing the most valuable military qualities. Qualifications were:—Height, not less than 5 feet 3 inches; chest measurement, not less than 34 inches; age, not under 20; passing a medical examination; and capability to ride and shoot well. Single men were preferred, but married men and widowers with children were eligible on the understanding that there would be no separation allowance; and that they were willing to allot not less than two-fifths of their pay to their wives or children. Term of engagement, one year, or until termination of war.

The first troop, comprising 29 N.C.O.'s and men, was raised in Hobart; the second, of a similar number, in Launceston; the third, of a similar number, on the North Coast; and the fourth, of a similar number, on the West Coast. Each troop was commanded by a subaltern officer; but one vacancy was left to be filled in South Africa.

SERVICE.

"C" Squadron, comprising—4 officers, and 116 others, with 121 horses, embarked at Hobart on the transport St. Andrew, on 21st May, 1902; and, on 26th May, put into Port Adelaide for the Battalion staff and South Australian Squadrons, Called at Fremantle, 2nd June, for the Western Australian Squadron, and arrived at Durban on 19th June. Two officers and 10 others were struck off in South Africa. Embarked again (2 officers, 106 others) on the transport Manchester Merchant on 1st July; and arrived at Hobart on 28th July, having called at Albany, Adelaide, and Melbourne en route. Vide also 8th Battalion, Australian Commonwealth Horse, South Australia.

There were not any promotions nor any casualties. Contingent disbanded, 9th August, 1902.
